Poetry.

WHO LOVES ME BEST! Who loves me best?-my mother sweet, Whose every look with love's replete; Who held me, an infant, on her knee,-Who hath ever watched me tenderly; And yet I have heard my mother say, That she sometime must pass away; Who then shall shield me from earthly ill? Some one must love me better still. Who loves me best?-my father dear, Who loveth to have me always near; He whom I fly each eve to meet, When passed away is the noontide heat; Who from the bank where the sunbeam lies, Brings me the wild wood strawberries. O he is as dear as my mother to me-But he will perish, even as she. Who loves me best ?—the gentle dove, That I have tamed with my childish love; That every one, save myself, doth fear, Whose soft coo soundeth when I come near; Yet perhaps it but loves me because I bring To its cage the drops from the clearest spring, And hang green branches around the door: Something, surely must love me more. Who loves me best ?-my sister fair, With her laughing eyes and clustering hair; Who flowers around my head doth twine, Who presseth her rosy lips to mine, Who singeth me songs in her artless glee-Can any one love me better than she? Yet when I asked, that sister confessed Of all she did not love me the best. Who loves me best ?- my brother young, With his healthy cheek and lisping tongue; Who delighted to lead me in merry play Far down the green woods bushy way, Who showeth me where the hazel nuts grow, And where the fairest field-flowers blow; Yet perhaps he loves me no more than the rest-How shall I find who loves me best? My mother loves me, but she may die: My white dove loves me, but that may fly; My father loves me-he may be changed; I have heard of brothers and sisters estranged, If they should forsake me, what should I do? Where should I bear my sad heart to? Some one, surely, would be my stay-Some one must love me better than they? Yes, fair child, there is One above. Who loves thee with an unchangeable love: He who formed those frail, dear things, To which thy young heart fondly clings-Even though all should forsake thee, still He would protect thee through every ill, O is not such love worth all the rest? Child, it is God who loves thee best!

Miscellaneous.

HOW DO YOU BRING UP YOUR CHILDREN This rule of Solomon's, "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it," mostly holds good. If we see a dutiful and obedient child, we shall rarely be wrong in concluding that his parents have brought him up carefully in the fear of the Lord. On the other hand, whenever we see a self-willed, disobedient boy or girl, the probabilities are that over indulgence and unwise pain and weakness, and the poor mother felt that if it training have led to the sad result. How many children are ruined by the selfish indulgence of their ly, her daughters would fill her place, and with filial mothers, who, to avoid the pain or trouble of correcting or guiding a child, allow it to repeat an act of disobedience, instead of checking it at first! He took him on again twice before, when he promised to be steadier; but he didn't keep his word, and now his master will never try him again."

Another time I went to see a poor woman who was very ill. After a few moment's conversation, I inquired whether she had any relatives living, and where her husband was?

"My husband died many years back, ma'am."

"Have you no children ?"

"I never had but one." " And is it dead also?"

"No, ma'am, she is alive."

"And does she know of your illness?" "She wouldn't care if she did," said the poor mother, bursting into tears.

"Not care?" "No, ma'am." And then I learned that this girl

This, one of the greatest of all earthly sorrows-"a thankless child"-this most bitter cup, will be the nearly certain consequence of setting a bad example to children or neglecting to bring them up properly. Always let a child feel that you mean what you say; avoid all hasty passionate words; "provoke not your children to wrath, but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." Most truly did Solomon say, "A wise son maketh a glad father; but a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother." And again, "A child left to himself bringeth his mother to shame."

Blessed be God, there are parents whose hearts rise in daily gratitude to the Author and Giver of all good things for the blessing of good and obedient children. A worthy and industrious couple, known to me, had brought up decently and respectably a family of nine children. The father was a jobbing gardener, and the mother kept a mangle. The two elder girls, eighteen and nineteen years of age, had served their time to a dressmaker, and were just beginning to earn a little for themselves, when the poor mother was suddenly seized with a dangerous complaint. "I'm sure I don't know what all those poor little ones will do with no mother to look after them,' said one of the neighbours to me.

I called at the house. A neatly dressed, modestlooking young woman opened the door. I asked her if she was any relation to Mrs. Standfield, the sick

"I am her eldest daughter, ma'am; I have been out at work. My sister Mary used to go with me, but since poor mother's illness we have both stayed at home. I nurse mother, who says she would rather have me than a stranger about her, and Mary looks after the little ones."

This was said so modestly, with such an entire absence of anything like parade, or seeking for praise, that I was quite pleased. I asked if I could see her

"O, yes, ma'am, she will be so glad to see you: she was hoping you would soon come again."

Poor Mrs. Standfield's face bore the traces of grea' suffering, yet there was a look of happiness and deep love upon her countenance as her daughter came into the room, which could not be mistaken. She named me to her mother, and left the room. I said I was sorry to see her so ill.

"O, ma'am, I have much, very much, to be thank ful for. When I was first taken, it seeemed to me as if all was dark and sad. I could not help thinking of my poor little ones, and of what they would do without me. But how merciful God has been to me! My greatest trouble was about my young children: and now I have no further care or anxiety on their account, for my daughter Mary, without a word of remitted with promptness and dispatch. We are receiving regret, left her work, and has taken the entire care of from Boston twice a week consignments of FRUIT and VE-Halifax—TWO CASES Assorted FANCY GOODS, them, and they are so happy and so quiet, that I feel, they could not be better cared for if I were with them." "You do indeed seem blessed in your children." I said; "your eldest daughter appears to be a great cemfort to you." The invalid mother's eyes filled with tears of love and gratitude. "O, ma'am, I could not tell you what Susan is to me; surely God will bless her and prosper her. She was to have been married to a respectable and steady young man, as soon as she had saved a little money at her work; but I was no sooner taken bad than she gave up all her work, and said no one should nurse her mother but herself. She is brothers and sisters."

Mrs. Standfield continued long ill, and her bodily sufferings were great; yet the sunshine of domestic happiness was always beaming in that chamber of should please God to take her from amidst her famiaffection carry out all her wishes. Such, with God's blessing, were the results of persevering Christian training and parental government.

THE ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY, 92

L Lombard-street, London, and Royal Insurance build ings, Liverpool.
Chairman of the London Board.—Samuel Baker, Esq. in in Liver C.- CHARLES TURNER, ESC The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest Offices in the kingdom.

At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following highly satisfactory results were shown:— FIRE DEPARTMENT. The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct fire insurance companies of this kingdom. The Premiums for the year 1855 being.....£130,060

While the Premiums for the year 1558 are.... 196,148 Showing an actual increase of 66,088 r upwards of 50 per cent. in three years. The recent returns of duty made by Government for this latter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the moiety of its advance. LIFE DEPARTMENT.

The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is by far the largest received in any similar period since the commencement of the business, and mu t far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the premiun £12,354 3s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension of business during the last ten years. Thus :-Years. No. of Policies. Sums Assured. New Premiums. £48,764 17 0 ... 190 95,650 9 11 2,627 4 1852 .. 422 5.828 5 10 181,504 10 6 .. 408 4,694 16 0 8,850 8 11 1854 161,848 13 4 297,560 16 8 832 387,752 6 8 12,354 3 4 The remarkable increase in the business of the last four years is mainly consequent upon the large bonus declared in 1855, which amounted to no less than £2 per cent. per nnum on the sums assured, and averaged 80 per cent. upon PERCY M. DOVE, Manager and Actuary.

JOHN M. JOHNSTON, Secretary to the London Board. All descriptions of property taken at fair rates, and Fire losses paid promptly on reasonable proof of loss-without JAMES J. KAYE, Agent for New Brunswick.
