THE MOTHER'S GIFT.

Remember, love, who gave thee this,
When other days shall come;
When she who gave thee this
Sleeps in her narrow home.
Remember, 'twas a mother gave
The gift to one she'd die to save.

That mother sought a pledge of love,
The infant for her son,
And from her gift above
She chose a costly one—
She chose for her beloved boy
The source of light and joy!

And bade him keep the gift, that when
The parting hour would come,
They might have hope to meet again
In an eternal home.
She said his faith in that would be
Sweet incense to her memory.

And should the scollar in his pride
Laugh that fond faith to scorn,
And bid him cast the pledge aside,
She bade him pause and ask his breast
If he or she had loved her best.

A parent's blessing on her son
Goes with this holy thing;
The love that would retain the one
Must be to the other clung.
Remember, 'tis no idle toy—
A mother's gift, remember, boy!

PUT YOUR SHOULDER TO THE WHEEL.

There's a voice that speaks within us
If we own no craven heart,
As we press along life's pathway
Taking our appointed part,
And it bids us bear our burden,
Heavy though it seem and feel,
And with strong and hopeful vigor
Put our shoulder to the wheel.

What though clouds are darkening o'er us,
They but hide a tranquil sky,
And storm-drops fall around us,
Soon the sunshine bids them dry,
Never doubt and faint and falter;
Heart, be stout and true as steel!
Fortune smiles on brave endeavor—
Put your shoulder to the wheel.

Folded hands will never aid us
To uplift the load of care;
"Up and stirring" be your motto,
Meek to suffer, strong to bear.
'Tis not chance that guides our footsteps,
Or our destiny can sell;
With a will then, strong and steady,
Put your shoulder to the wheel.

Men of worth have come to the lesson,
Men of might have tried its truth,
Aged lips have breathed the maxim
In the listening ear of youth;
And be sure throughout life's journey
Many a wounded heart would heal,
If we all as friends and brothers
Put our shoulder to the wheel.

MISCELLANEOUS.

EFFECT OF ONE WRONG ACT.

Have you ever considered the effect of one wrong act? The thing may not seem in itself so important; and viewed alone may appear of no importance, but you must trace its ramifications, and follow up, link by link, its results. That single insignificant act, done thoughtlessly, in an unguarded moment, must send forward an influence through your whole subsequent life.

The historian of British India, speaking of the voyage of Warren Hastings to that country, says, concerning a circumstance which occurred on that voyage: "It is doubtful whether this act did not exercise an unfavorable influence over his whole moral nature, and over his career." Of how many persons might the same remark be made! One wrong act brings the murderer to his ignominy, as end. One wrong act stamps, with indelible stains of dishonor, a character hitherto above reproach. One wrong act in youth has thrown many a young person from the controlling force of a kind Providence, and launched him on a sea of trouble and sorrow to a late old age.

Of how much peace, of how much spiritual prosperity and joy, how a single sin at the outset robbed the true child of God! Of how much deep, unavailing sorrow and mortification has it been the inlet! It was an act, perhaps, as soon done as the turning of a key by the angel, that opened the lock, and with a more distressing power for evil it has caused a darkness, as the smoke of a great furnace, to overcloud your prospects, and has laid forth amid the wide-spread scene of all your following years, memories and regrets with a keener power than sorrows, and leaving hardly a green thing in the waste of a life that opened with so much to animate and cheer. It has drawn down on you the displeasure of God. It has arrayed his providence against you, and shut you off from the fulness of his love.

An undivided expression from the lips of Moses shut him out from the green pastures and still waters beyond Jordan. Never till we reach heaven, and there have all our secret history unfolded to our view, shall we know from how many scenes of earthly and of spiritual happiness a single wrong act has excluded us; how many sore afflictions it has drawn around our weary pilgrims; and from what degree of advancement it has shut us off even amid the glories and blessedness of heaven.

How YOU MAY KNOW GOOD FATHERS.—It is a good sign and true when you see amid a little group of boys one that from the rest, and tossing his arms above his head, shout, "There's my father!" as he runs to meet him. You may be sure, no matter what business-troubles arise that man may have, there is a spot in his heart still fresh and green, and the cares of the world have no power to blight. "There's my father!" With what a pretty pride the little fellow shouts this! He must be indeed a brute whose fatherly heart does not swell with love, whose eyes do not glisten, who does not at such a moment feel amply repaid for that day's toil, no matter how wearisome. After all, love is the only thing worth having in this world. Those who stand over new-made graves tell us so. Fame, and money, and ambition dwindle to nothing beside the white, calm glow of death, though God knows it may be but the youngling of the flock, whose lips have never even learned to syllable our name.

CONNER'S COURTESHIP.—The celebrated William Cobbett, who became member for Oldham, was originally a private soldier in the English army, and served in America during the War of Independence. It was when quite a young man, and while quartered in New Brunswick, that Cobbett met the girl who became his wife. He first saw her in company for about an hour, one evening. Shortly afterwards, in the dead of winter, when the snow lay several feet thick on the ground, he chanced in his walk at break of day to pass the house of her parents. It was hardly light, but there was a light in the cold, scrubby wash tub. That action made her mistress of Cobbett's heart forever. No sooner was he out of hearing, than he exclaimed, "That's the girl for me!" She was the daughter of a sergeant of Artillery, and then only thirteen. To his intense chagrin, the Artillery was ordered to England, and she had to go with her father. Cobbett by this time had managed to save one hundred and fifty guineas as a foot soldier—the produce of extra work. Considering the Woolwich, to which his sweetheart was bound, was a gay place, and that she there might find many suitors, who, moved by her beauty, might tempt her by their wealth, and unwilling that she should hurt herself with hard work, he sent her all his precious guineas, and prayed that she should use them freely, for he could get plenty more—to buy good clothes, and live in pleasant lodgings, and be as happy as she could until he was able to join her. Four long years elapsed before they met. Cobbett, when he reached England, found her a maid-of-all-work, at five pounds a year! On their meeting, without saying a word about it, she placed in his hands the parcel of one hundred and fifty guineas unbroken. He obtained his discharge from the army, and married the brave and thrifty woman. She made him an admirable wife—never was he tired of speaking her praises; and whatever comfort and success he afterwards enjoyed, it was his delight to ascribe to her care and to her inspiration.

DOMESTIC DUTY.—A knowledge of domestic duties, says Mrs. Child, is beyond all price to a woman. Every one of our sex ought to know how to sew, and knit, and mend, and cook, and superintend a household. In every situation of life, high or low, this sort of knowledge is of great advantage. There is no necessity that the gaining of such information should interfere with intellectual acquirement or elegant accomplishment. A well regulated mind can find time for all. When a girl is nine or ten years old, she should be accustomed to take some regular share in household duties, and to feel responsible for the manner in which her part is performed, such as her own mending, washing the cups, and putting them in place, cleaning silver or dusting and arranging parlors. This should not be occasionally, and neglected whenever she feels it convenient; she should consider it her department. When older than twelve, girls should begin to take turn in superintending the household, making puddings, pies, cake, etc., to learn effectually to do these things themselves, and not to stand by and see others do them.

A BOY BUILDING ON A SURE FOUNDATION.—In a recent social meeting, a brother, after detailing his personal experience and conversation, closed something as follows: "I taught a class in the Sabbath school at— composed of eight boys. One of the boys was a wid-or's son, a factory worker. He put into the missionary box each Sabbath six cents. I asked him, in his poverty, he dared do so much. 'My mother,' was his reply, 'gives me six cents a day for my dinner, and one day I eat and save six cents; or, rather, I take a piece of bread and butter from home as a sort of lunch, and so save six cents.' The following Agents in the principal towns in New Brunswick and the Atlantic Provinces, are authorized to receive and issue the Agent, immediately on receiving the order.
