Had washed my feeble lines away. I carved my name upon the wood, And after years returned again ; I missed the shadow of the tree

To solid marble next my name I gave as a perpetual trust; An earthquake rent it to its base, And now it lies o'erlaid with dust.

That stretched of old upon the plain.

All these have failed. In wiser mood I turn and ask myself, "What then? If I would have my name endure, I'll write it on the hearts of men

In characters of living light. Of kindly deed and actions wrought, And these, beyond the touch of Time, Shall live, immortal as my thought." -New York Evening Post.

Miscellaneous.

"MY WIFE IS THE CAUSE OF IT." It is now more than forty years ago, that Mr. L. called at the house of Dr. B --- one very cold morning, on his way to H--. "Sir," said the doctor, "the weather is very frosty; will you not take something to drink before you start?" In that early day, ardent spirits were deemed indispensable to warmth in winter. When commencing a journey, and at every stopping-place along the road, the traveller used intoxicating drinks to keep him warm.

"No," said Mr. L-, "I never touch anything of the kind, and I will tell you the reason: my wife is the cause of it. I had been in the habit of meeting Hannah knew, and we believed she was right. some of our neighbors every evening, for the purpose of playing cards. We assembled at each other's shops, and liquors were introduced. After a while we met not so much for the purpose of playing as drinking, and I used to return home late in the evening, more or less intoxicated. My wife always met me at the door affectionately, and when I chided her for sitting up so late for me, she kindly replied, 'I prefer doing so, for I cannot sleep when you are out.

"This always troubled me, and I wished in my heart that she would only begin to scold me, for then I could have retorted and relieved my conscience. But she always met me with the same gentle and loving spirit.

"Things passed on thus for some time, when at last I resolved that I would, by remaining very late and returning home much intoxicated, provoke her displeasure so much as to cause her to lecture me; when I meant to answer her with severity, and thus by creating another issue between us, unburden my bosom of its present trouble.

"I returned in such a plight about four o'clock in the morning. She met me at the door with her usual tenderness, and said, 'Come in, husband; I have just been making a warm fire for you, because I knew you would be cold. Take off your boots and warm your feet, and here is a cup of hot coffee.'

"Doctor, that was too much. I could not endure it any longer, and I resolved that moment that I would never touch another drop while I lived; and I

He pever did. He lived and died practising total abstinence from all intoxicating drinks, in a village which intemperance has ravaged as much as any other in this state.

That man was my father, and that woman my mother. The facts above related I received from the doctor himself, on a visit to my native village, not

May we not safely assert, that were there more wives like my blessed mother, there would be fewer confirmed drunkards? My father was a man of generous impulses and social instincts, just the man to be led into babits of inebriation, and just the man also to feel the impression such gentleness was calculated to make. Let those wives who witness with agony the commencement of any evil habits in their husbands, be encouraged to try what patient, persevering love can do. Nicholas Saunderson was born in the village of Thurston, in Yorkshire, England, in the year 1628. At the age of six months he lost not only his sight exciting sympathy, but no fear. The only thought by an attack of the small pox, but even his eyes, which were discharged in abscesses. The father's heart softened to tenderness towards the afflicted shild; and notwithstanding he was only a poor excise officer with narrow means, he determined to do all in his power to place the advantages of a superior education at the disposal of his son. Accordingly, at an early age, he was sent to school in the neighboring village of Pennistown. Here he made astonishing progress, not only in English, but also in Latin and Greek. He became so apt a Latin scholar, that he was ever after able to speak it and write it as fluently and correctly as English; and so full and accurate was his acquaintance with the Greek, that he listened to the reading of books in that tongue with as easy a comprehension as if written in the verna-

His father's circumstances becoming more straitened, it was deemed necessary to remove him from school. Desiring to make such amends as lay within his reach for the privation thus imposed-for the boy had shown an insatiable craving for knowledge-his father gave him his first lessons in arithmetic. The subject selected was optics. Sir Isaac Newton's "Principia" had just been published; but the work of the great philosopher was not duly appreciated, even by scholars. Among the very first to hail and estimate the immortal work was our blind lecturer, who used it as the basis for his prelections. Curiosity attracted crowds to hear what a blind man could say concerning light and vision. The gape of idle wonder was speedily exchanged for the tribute of applause. The course of lectures proved a success; and honest bread was earned by

Some years after this, the eccentric Wm. Whiston, Sir Isaac Newton's successor in the Lucasian chair of Mathematics at Cambridge, was ejected from his dignity. Newton was alive, and was consulted as to the proper person to fill the place. His choice fell on Saunderson. The nomination was heartily accepted by the university; and at the age of twenty-nine our blind friend was inducted into the office which had been rendered illustrious by the discoverer of gravitation. Most worthily did he fill it, reaping the rewards of perseverance in a life of increasing usefulness, and going down to the grave lamented by all who knew him, -A Sketch, by Rev. C. Bullock.

SIGNS."—A DOG HOWLING UNDER THE WINDOW.

An article in the Evangelist on the "Death Watch" has reminded me of an incident in my early life that may be well to relate, as a hint to mothers on the mportance of guarding their children against wrong nfluences, and also to show them that they have a power over their minds that is resistless and imper-

Tom and Chloe had been members of our kitchen department for many years, and were faithful and trustworthy. Hannah was a new comer, quick and bright, but a firm believer in signs. She very confidently asserted that when a dog howled under the window it was a sure sign that there would soon be a death in the family. Tom and Chloe combated the idea, but little sister and myself thought that

'Ask your mother,' said Tom, 'she knows all

But we were ashamed to ask her when only Hannah believed, and so we went to bed without an answer to the important question.

Alas! for our sleep; that very night a dog came under our window and commenced a dismal howling. Sometimes it was a low moaning sound, then a long | found a good so loud howl, then a quick sudden bark, and then again the low moaning sound.

It was terrible! Who was to die? Perhaps our darling father, and then we should be fatherless: or mother,-O no, we could not live if mother should die. Perhaps one of us; we clung closely to each other, for there was love in our hearts that grew stronger and brighter for nearly forty years, and then death came and bore the eldest of the loved ones to Healthy children rarely lie awake long, and after a time we grew very sleepy. So we concluded that the best way was to say "Now I lay me" over again, and to-morrow ask mother about the sign. School hours occupied most of the next day, and at evening came the question-' Mother, do you be-

'I believe in one sign. When my little daughters come to me with such eager looks, it is a sign that they have some important question to ask.' 'O no, mother, we don't mean such signs, but

Hannah says that when a dog howls under a window it is a sure sign that there is soon to be a death in Mother looked sad, and for a moment was silent. Doubtless there was a prayer heard in heaven for wisdom to guide her aright.

'Now, children, mark well what I say. When a dog howls under a window I do believe there's a sign

We almost held our breath. Mother believed in the sign, and it was true! 'Now listen; when a dog howls under a window,

I believe, as a general rule, it is a sign that—he has A bright smile illumined mother's face, and then came a merry shout and great dancing about the room. Our fears were as effectually destroyed as if Years. No. of Policies. Sums Assured. New Premiums shattered in a thousand pieces.

With mother's permission we ran to tell her sign in the kitchen. Tom shouted 'Hurrah! I knew missis would straighten it all out.'-Chloe, with a serious air, said, 'Children, you should be very thankful to God that he has given you such a good mother;' while Hannah exclaimed, 'I don't care, it says so in the sign book.' Hannah and her sign book soon found a new home.

More than fifty years have passed since that evening, and many a dog has howled under my window, has been, "Poor fellow, he has lost his master."-

The Premiums for the year 1855 being......£180,060 While the Premiums for the year 1558 are.... 196,148 Showing an actual increase of. upwards of 50 per cent. in three years. The recent returns of duty made by Government for this latter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than intaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Con pany, while all the others respectively fall far short of the LIFE DEPARTMENT. The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is g far the largest received in any similar period since the ent of the business, and must far exceed t average of amount received by the most successful office in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the prem £12,354 3s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extensi of business during the last ten years. CAUTION! CAUTION! CAUTION!

THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to cauion the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, f you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale.

It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.:—It washes all fine things, such as Muslin, Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c.; cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Ffannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head by dissolving a teasphonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured.

If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time—saves your clothes—saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improves them—by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flan-nels become white and soft like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for mouths. Thousands of Families made happy! No misery on a Washing Day, with Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal.

The Science of Health.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PHYSICIAN. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT:

DISORDERS OF THE STOMACH, LIVER, AND BOWELS. The Stomach is the great centre which influences the health or disease of the system—abused or debilitated by excess—indigestion, offensive breath and physical prostra-tion are the natural consequences. Allied to the brain, it is the source of headaches, mental depression, nervous complaints and unrefreshing sleep. The Liver becomes affected and generates bilious disorders, pains in the side, &c. The Bowels sympathise by Costiveness, Diarrhoa and Dysectery. The principal action of these Pills is on the stomach, and the liver, lungs, bowels and kidneys participate in their recuperative and regenerative operation.

ERYSIPELAS AND SALT RHEUM Are two of the most common and virulent disorders prevalent on this continent; to these the Ointment is especi ally antagonistic -- its modus operandi is first to eradicate the vermin and then complete the cure BAD LEGS, OLD SORES, AND ULCERS.

Cases of many years standing, that have pertinaciously refused to yield to any other remedy or treatment, have JUST RECEIVED AT No. 90 PRINCE WM. ST. invariably succumbed to a tew applications of this powerful ERUPTIONS ON THE SKIN, Arising from a bad state of the blood or chronic diseases, are eradicated, and a clear and transparent surface regained by the restorative action of this Uintment. It surpasses many of the cosmetics and other toilet appliances in its power to dispel rashes and other disfigurements of the PILES AND FISTULA. Every form and feature of these prevalent and stubborn disorders is eradicated locally and entirely by the use of this emolient; warm fomentations should precede its appli cation. Its healing qualities will be found to be thorough

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases: Burns, Chapped Hands, Stiff Joints, LENNIE'S GRAMMAR. Mercurial Eruptions, Sore Breasts,

"Holloway, New York and London," are discernible as a Water-mark in every leaf of the book of directions around each pot or box; the same may be plainly seen by kolding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given 10 any one rendering such information as may lead to the de tection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines There is a considerable saving by taking the larger

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each pot and box.
