Its tickings seem the throbbing heart Within the breast of conquering Time; It tells the tale that all must part From earth to some remoter clime.

An hour has gone forever flown! Its tolling changes truly tell; Expired, alas! reclaimed by none; It is indeed an hourly knell.

Around its wheels, from sight concealed, The chain of life is coiled in doubt; Whose end to none can be revealed, Until its length is measured out.

How many would the secret know How long or short the golden chain Of life, that binds to earth below; How many would the future gain.

But life is all of seconds made, And seconds into minutes haste, And minutes into hours arrayed, Which on the dial-plate are placed.

And as the index moves apace The hours are numbered e'er and o'er, Most surely will it mark the place Where precious life shall be no more! G. F. Argyle, N. S., June 1, 1864.

DR. LYMAN BEECHER. WHY HE WASN'T A FARMER.

H. B. S. "Well, father, how did it happen tha you did not become a farmer ?" I should, if Uncle Benton had not cleared a fifteen acre lot, and I driven plow over the whole three times. He always meant I should be his heir, and have the homestead, and be a farmer as he was. I wish you could see his old plow. It was a curious thing of his own making-clumsy, heavy, and patched great advantage to them. ing out. That plow is the most horrible memorial a loaf of bread every week during the winter. Her

If that plow could tell the story of my feelings it would be a development. Uncle Lot, however, thought a great deal of it. One day I drove the oxteam so as to graze it with the wheel.

"There, there, Lyman, you've run over that plow, and broke it all to pieces.

"Why, Uncle Lot, I have n't touched the plow. "Well, I'd a great deal rather you had than to have gone so plaguy nigh it."

Now I am naturally quick, and that old plow was so slow-one furrow a little way, and then another -and the whole fifteen acres three times over, some of it steep as the roof of a house. I became inexpressibly sick of it. What should I do, then, but build castles in the air. First I knew I would be a say, "Whoa," and come and give me a shake.

Not long after the job was finished Uncle Benton and I were walking together over to Toket Hill, and I had got so used to driving that I fell in a brown study, and kept saying "Whoa!" "Haw!" "Gee!" as if the oxen were along.

It was then, I believe, he gave up. Next day we were out behind the barn picking up apples. "Lyman," said he, "should you like to go to col-

Being asked by his son Charles what religious training he had, he answered: .

We always had family prayers, and I heard the Bible read every morning. Aunt Benton became Bray's coming to see her, and talking about "inabili- on the number of suicides in Europe. From this ty." I never heard Parson Bray preach a sermon I

I had a good orthodox education; was seriousminded, conscientious, and had a settled fear of God, and terror of the day of judgment. Conscience, however, only troubled me about particular sins. I tion, such as loss of life, bankruptcy, &c. knew nothing about my heart. For instance: I got to pulling hair with Alex. Collins one training day, and Granny Rossiter told Aunt Benton, 'I'm afraid Lyman's been a fighting.' I felt so ashamed, as if I had lost my character.

Curious, now, this thing of personal identity ! Here I am now, an old man, telling you this story about a little boy; and yet I feel that I am the same person now that I was then.

HIS RELIGIOUS AWAKENING.

One day, as we were sitting at home, mother locked out of the window, and saw a drunkard passing. ' Poor man,' said she, 'I hope he'll receive his punishment in this life. He was under conviction once, and thought he had religion; but he's nothing but a

I came in by that door, I felt reconciled and resigned, yet with alternations of darkness and discouragement, and a severe conflict whether it would be right for me to preach, which extended even into

One reason I was so long in the dark was, I was under law, was stumbling in the doctrines, and had no views of Christ. They gave me other books to read beside the Bible-a thing I have done practicing long since. For cases like mine, Brainerd's Life is a most undesirable thing. It gave me a tinge for years. So Edwards on the Affections-a most overwhelming thing, and to common minds the most entangling. The impressions left by such books were not spiritual, but a state of permanent hypochondria -the horrors of a mind without guidance, motive, or ability to do anything. They are a bad generation of books, on the whole. Divine sovereignty does the whole in spite of them. I was converted in spite of GIRLS SHOULD LEARN TO KEEP HOUSE. "No young lady can be too well instructed in any thing which will affect the comfort of a family. Whatever position in society she occupies, she needs a practical knowledge of the duties of a housekeeper. She may be placed in such circumstances that it will not be necessary for her to perform much domestic labor; but on this account she needs no less knowledge than if she was obliged to preside personally over the cooking-stove and pantry. Indeed, I have often thought that it is more difficult to direct others, and requires more experience, than to do the same work with our own hands.

"Mothers are frequently so nice and particular that they do not like to give up any part of their care to their children. This is a great mistake in their management, for they are often burdened with labor, and need relief. FIRE DEPARTMENT. The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the busi ness is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increasalone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct fire insurance companies of this kingdom.

CAUTION! CAUTION! CAUTION! THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly compound extant. It is free from Lime, Variol, and all purposes, viz :- It washes all fine things, such as Muslin, Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c.; cleaning Sponges, it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, tion; to political agitation and to speculation. — Ga- by dissolving a teasphonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Feeth, and ums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to umbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured.

If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time-saves your clothes—saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of laoor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improves them-by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Fiannels become white and soft like new. White things are
