LINES FOR LITTLE GIRLS.

Cold whistling winds, and pattering rain, Snow, sleet, and hail, and ice ! Old Winter's come, hear you his train ! He'll pass here in a trice ! He's frightened all the birds away, To some fair, milder sky, And there we'll let them sing and play Till he bids us good-by.

He's rolled earth's splendid carpets up, And laid them all aside ; Hid every flower and buttercup, Her spring and summer's pride. He's plucked the leaves all off the trees, And thrown them all away, And left them naked to the breeze As long as he shall stay.

Old Winter does not care a whit For butterflies and flowers, Or where his snow-balls chance to hit, But sends them down in showers ! The hills and plains, all cold and drear, He wraps them up in snow, Nor even drops one icy tear, For all their frozen woe !

Sometimes, indeed, the trees he trims, From out his jewelled store, And cases all the twigs and limbs With sparkling diamonds o'er; Then bids the sun look down so bright, On all the shining trees, And when he looks, he laughs outright, At every thing he sees.

But if he stare with his bright face, And looks at them too long, He'll melt their shining silver case, Then all their beauty's gone! But Winter's reign is quickly o'er, Spring drives him out of town, Then earth wipes up her muddy floor, And spreads her carpets down.

Spring scatters round rich fragrant flowers. And sets the birds to singing, And pins new leaves on all the trees, While yet their music's ringing ! The sun now takes another peep, The flowers look up with joy, were disposed to do him a mischief.-To these de- in Jesus, all may find peace.-Ex. mons he has lived in bondage, feeling for them an awe which was due to no being but Oxe, and striving to propitiate them by bloody and debasing rites. By this belief has his understanding been enslaved, his heart and imagination defiled, his will enfeebled, and the whole man has been unspeakably lowered and debased. What but this formed the pantheism of the Greeks ? They believed that invisible spirits resided in every fountain and promontory of their country, dwelt in their valleys, haunted their groves, and inspired the responses given by the priests and priestesses of their famous shrines. Ignorant of the great supreme, or not caring to know Him, they trembled before these subordinate ministers, these invisible demons, and sought to appease them, halfin reverence and half in hatred and terror. The same demon-belief pervaded the whole ancient world, and formed the soul and substance of its idolatry. That idolatry assumed various forms in the various countries; but the thing itself was the same in all, and simply consisted in a persuasion,-a foul, impious, and most degrading persuasion-that there was a class of intermediate beings who had access to man, who possessed power over him, who could address him in sounds and voices, disclose the secrets of the invisible state, foreteil the events of the future, and do him good or evil, according as they might feel inclined. Hence the barbarity, impurity, and cruelty, that overspread pagan lands. Man saw not the Creator, whose image, realized by man, is a fountain of liberty and intelligence: He was hidden by a crowd of demons, before whom man crouched in terror, and grovelled in sensuality .- Even in Judea, amid the true light, this demon-belief would at times break out. like a pestilent malady, which had its root deep in the constitution of man, and was ever ready to assert its strength in favourable circumstances. What but this constituted the worship of Baalim, and what but the demons of the heathen were the 'familiar spirits' to which Israel so often turned aside in times of national declension. The whole romance, fiction, and poety of the Scandinavian nations is full of these demons,-the souls of their departed heroes and kings. This is the substance and staple of their literature, as it was the main source of their debasement. By 12 American Apples, will be sold low for cash. They

> THE ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY, 92 Lombard-street, London, and Royal Insurance buildgs, Liverpoo

Chairman of the London Board.-SAMUEL BAKER, Esq. Chairman in Liverpool.-CHARLES TURNER, Esq. The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest Offices in the kingdom. At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following highly satisfactory results were shown FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact-that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of For sale low by [jan 28-wpvi] FELLOWS & CO. ome of the existing and of many of the recently defunct fire insurance companies of this kingdom.

The Premiums for the year 1855 being ..... £120,060 While the Premiums for the year 1558 are.... 196,148 Showing an actual increase of ... ..... 66,088 or upwards of 50 per cent. in three years.

The recent returns of duty made by Government for this latter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the es, Perfumery and other Toilet Articles, which will be sold noiety of its advance.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is og far the largest received in any similar period since the cement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the pre £12,254 3s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension f business during the last ten years. # AFTER A BATTLE.

ing of shot is hushed, that the noble innate gentleness modern name for priest, or sorcerer, or wizard. and love of the spared soldier asserts its power-and forgetting his weariness and fatigue he goes about to minister to the suffering mangled bodies that are scattered about so fearfully frequent.

A private in the 37th Mass. Regiment, -- who in self-forgetfulness, and kindness to his comrades has no rival-writes thus:

"The last day of the britle of Gettysburg was seemingly the hottest I ever experienced, and the 37th was ordered back and forth from right to left, to support batteries, and strengthen reserves; much of the way at double quick, and with heavy knapsacks. Some fifteen of our boys were 'sun-struck,' and I being detailed to care for them, soon found gathered at the extemporized hospital some 200 dead, dying. wounded men from both armies. The house, and garden door-yard were filled with groaning, torn, blackened men, lying side by side, who, but a short hour ago, stood face to face in mortal combat. No enmity now; a common misery made all brothers. To add to their agony, night was rapidly approaching, and the dense black clouds shooting forth vivid any anxiety or alarm ?' flashes, and the terrific roar of thunder, foretold the coming tempest.

"As I passed among them, many would look at the clouds, and then at me, and beseechingly ask if I could get something te cover them. As I looked at these bloody, writhing sufferers, without tent or blanket, my heart bled in sympathy, and I thought of the blankets and knapsacks, passed that day, which lay strewn on the battle-field. On searching for some, I could find nothing but knapsacks; two of whom, however, opened, make quite a respectable covering. But oh, how many lay all night in that drenching rain, without the slightest shelter. As I went from one to another, raising the head of this one, changing the position of that, moving another with great effort from a pool of his own blood, bathing the heads, rubbing the arms, getting old hay or turf for pillows, speaking words of tenderness to the suffering, my heart, in its deep sadness, was made glad by the loving recognition of even the slightest favor, and oh, how many went that night up to Him, whose ministries alone can meet the performed her charms, not by her own power, but by that of familiar spirits. And now, in our day, comes the spiritualist, and the table rapper: and how does he work? Is it not by the very same agency? Spirits come from the other world, to play tricks at his bidding, and tell him secrets. Thus has the old inveterate disease of demon-belief and demon-intercourse broken out once more. For we hold that Spiritualism differs not by a single ioata from the demon-worship of the heathen. The table rapper of In the madness and furor of the battle there is no our own day and our own country stands, intellecttime for exercising the gentler feelings of our nature ; ually and morally, on the same level with the sorcerthe promptings of humanity are silent, and the sight er of the middle ages, and the witch of two hundred of shattered wrecks of men is but a passing dream, years ago. WHAT DO YOUR CHILDREN READ.

A lad of sixteen lay upon his death-bed. A wasting consumption was slowly, but surely doing its fatal work. He was a former pupil of mine. I approach. ed his bedside, took him by the hand, and gazed a moment on his thin, emaciated form, pale, hollow cheeks, and sunken eyes, all telling me that his sojourn on earth must be brief.

'How are you to day, Arthur ?' I asked. 'About as usual,' he replied.

'Do you suffer much lying here ?' Sometimes I suffer a good deal, especially from ifficulty in breathing.'

Do you think you will get well ?'

'No, sir.'

Would you like to get well ?' 'It makes but little difference with me whether I do, or not.'

* Does the thought of approaching death give you

' I have no fears nor care about it.' "Do you feel willing to die ?

I have wished I were dead a hundred times since I have been sick, to get rid of my sufferings.'

What is your hope for the future?' 'I do not concern myself at all about the future. He answered all these inquiries in a strong, clear voice, but with the most stoical indifference. He seemed not to manifest, by look or tone, the least solicitude, feeling, or care, in view of his speedy entrance upon the untried realites of eternity. I spoke to him of the Saviour, as the only hope of the sinner; the only one who can give sweet visions of glory, and peace, and rest, in the hour of death, and save forever in heaven. Afterwards I asked him if I should pray with him.

'I do not care, if you want to,' he replied, with a listlessness and coolness which deeply impressed me. I knelt by his bedside, and commended him to the Saviour of sinners.

In two or three days he died, apparently without any change in his feelings. A short time after his witable for Country Trade. Crates carefully packed to ther made this remark in my hearing: 'My son lies in yonder cemetery - an INFIDEL - from the effecte of novel reading ! Parents, what do your children read ? The Science of Health. EVERY MAN HIS OWN PHYSICIAN.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT!

DISORDERS OF THE STOMACH, LIVER, AND BOWELS

The Stomach is the great centre which influences the health or disease of the system-abused or debilitated by excess-indigestion, offensive breath and physical prostra tion are the natural consequences. Allied to the brain, it is the source of headaches, mental depression, nervous complaints and unrefreshing sleep. The Laver becomes affected and generates bilious disorders, pains in the side, &c. The Bowels sympathise by Costiveness, Diarrhoea and Dysectery. The principal action of these Pills is on the stomach, and the liver, lungs, bowels and kidneys participate in their recuperative and regenerative operation.

ERYSIPELAS AND SALT RHEUM Are two of the most common and virulent disorders prevalent on this continent; to these the Ointment is especially antagonistic-its modus operandi is first to eradicate the vermin and then complete the cure.
