SILENCE KEEP.

If a storm of sudden rage
Meet thee on thy pilgrimage,
Move on calmly 'neath the strife;
Silence keep for death or life,
Silence keep!

Let no words escape thy tongue,
Though bad hearts thy heart would wrong,
Peace! the trial is not long:
Silence keep!

Better be misunderstood,
Though thy cause to thee seem good,
Than to speak in angry mood;
Silence keep!

Of unruly words beware,
Else thy tongue shall prove thy snare;
Then, till thou hast thought a prayer:
For their sake sweet Mercy pleads:
Silence keep!

Then, if thou wilt silent be,
Thou shalt hear heaven's minstrelsy,
As sweet Mercy pleads for thee:
Silence keep!

Silent as the flowers that sleep
In a midnight silence deep,
Silent as the tears you weep:
Silence keep. —Home Journal.

Miscellaneous.

AWFUL CONSEQUENCES OF GAMBLING.

Thomas P. Loehr has been acting as Clerk of the State Prison for about two years past. He had the confidence of Lieut.-Gov. Machin, the resident Director, and other officers, was competent and faithful, and believed to be thoroughly moral and correct in his habits. About the first of August he obtained leave to visit Amador County, his former home, to attend to certain quartz mining interests belonging to him. A few days afterwards Lieut.-Gov. Machin met him in San Francisco, and then learned that he had not been to Amador at all. Loehr was evidently laboring under much mental distress, and told Machin that he was ruined, following up the statement with a voluntary confession that he had been gambling and had lost money which he took from the Prison safe. The Lieut.-Gov. advised him to return to the prison, which he did, when an examination revealed the fact that about $1,500 which had been deposited in the safe by employees of the Prison authorities, including $400 belonging to Mr. Machin in his capacity of School Trustee for the adjoining district, was missing. The State's accounts were found to be all right, and the Lieut.-Gov. decided to replace from his own means the money abstracted, and to discharge Loehr without any exposure, out of regard to his past good conduct, his evident contrition, and the respectability of his parents in Pennsylvania, who are said to be in good circumstances. On Sunday last Loehr was missing, and no traces have since been found of him except his tracks on the beach near the Prison. He had previously said he would destroy himself, and Mr. Machin had tried to reason him out of such a desperate resolution. On inspecting the papers he left behind, the following letter was found, evidently written while he was yet in San Francisco, and giving an account of his melancholy fall. The writing is bold and handsome:

SAN FRANCISCO, August 5th, 1865.

HON. T. N. MACHIN.—My dear and kind friend, my heart is broke, because I have brought disgrace upon myself, my family, and so many who loved and trusted me. I have sinned grievously, and did you know the mental suffering I have undergone the last two months past, you would pity me although much I have wronged you. Oh, the anguish and remorse preying at my heart! It nearly kills me. You, who loved me, trusted me, and who did me so many kindnesses, will feel the wrongs I have done most. I must leave you forever; and to leave thus, makes me almost mad.

Last February I was inveigled into a gambling hell, and now I am ruined. I have lost my own money and much that did not belong to me, and I can see no earthly chance to pay it back. I did not dare to tell you. Your scorn would have withered me; and now, did I not fear a just God more than man, I would put an end to my existence; but I believe in a hereafter, and from henceforth my walk shall be upright, and my endeavor will be to make money to pay back what I have taken wrongfully: and perhaps I may find forgiveness from the hearts that know me, and forgiveness from God. I am not depraved—never will be. The big tears are blinding me while I write, and I groan aloud, often unconsciously, with mental regret and suffering. But I have little time to say more. I must leave these shores without further delay. When I am away on the sea and can compose my mind, I will tell you the particulars of my depredations and what led me on.

My deeds for the quartz I send you; also a power of attorney. I think you can make enough out of the quartz in Amador to pay my debts. There is a fortune there in those lodes of mine. Do the best with them you can. As soon as I can make money, you shall have it; but God only knows the future. If I do not soon find peace, I will seek release in death.

May God bless you and yours, and may he forgive me for my transgressions—of you I cannot ask that much. Dear, kind, good friends, good bye—forever.

THOS. H. LOEHR.

This will kill father and mother.

Subsequently to writing this, and on going back to prison, he seems to have become more desperate in his musings over his shame, and to have meditated self-destruction. In this mood he wrote the following notes on the eve of his final disappearance:—

SAN QUENTIN, August 12th, 1865.

To those who can feel for the transgressor: Life is but a shadow; my race is run. Oh how stormy and turbulent have been my days; fate must have decreed it thus; my spirit was so gentle and my disposition so kind. One besetting sin I had, and only one; this has caused my fall; and oh, what a fall! I cannot be saved; I have done injury to those I loved most, and only my death can atone for it. May God give me strength to do what I deem a duty. I am so very miserable. Oh, could I be saved without exposure, my life should be so exemplary, and I would do so much to redeem the good will of those I love; but it is too late—too late.

God forgive me, and lighten the blow on those that are so dear to me. Sorrowful world, farewell, forever!

THOS. H. LOEHR.

I can live no longer; God forgive me for what I have done. Farewell forever! THOS. H. LOEHR.

AUGUST 12th, 1865.

P. S. I will not trouble any one to bury me.

But there's one hope still I cherish—
Another home beyond the sky;
And there I know I'll meet you all,
For I am now prepared to die.

It is supposed at the prison that Loehr has drowned himself, and that his body has been carried down to the bay or out to sea. Investigation is now being made to determine if he had committed any other breaches of trust. His story has a moral which points itself.

Since writing the above, we learn that Loehr had for some time previously to the above occurrences been in the habit of gambling on the occasion of his visits to the city; and having become involved, he borrowed money entrusted to his charge for the purpose of endeavoring to get even, intending from his gains at play or from his business to make good his delinquencies and cover up his offence. It seems that something might be done to suppress the trade of gambling as carried on in this city. On many of our principal streets gambling hells, where the fascinating game of Faro is continually dealt, are carried on without difficulty, and the locations of these gambling houses are as well and publicly known as that of any prominent business firm in the city. There is no difficulty in obtaining access to these places. One has but to apply and the doors are open to him; and when once the victim becomes interested in the game, its fascinating influences weave a spell about him which requires the strongest efforts to break. He becomes a slave to its seductive excitements, and led on by the hope of winning "the next time," he gambles day after day until he awakes from the terrible dream and finds himself a ruined man. These cases are of common occurrence; and those which are made public and the circumstance detailed at length in the public press, form but a small proportion of the real number. During the past year defalcations by clerks in business houses in this city have been of frequent occurrence, and numbers have been sent out of the country by their friends to save them from the inevitable disgrace which must follow were their dishonesty made public, and with the hope that away from the influences which surrounded them here there might be chances for their reformation. The fate of John W. Gould, Alfred W. Haskell, Thomas H. Loehr, and scores of others, should serve as a warning to all young men, and more particularly to those who gamble moderately now. Loehr's friends are almost heart-broken at his disgrace and supposed death.—California paper.

A SAD STORY OF TRUE LOVE.

The St. Louis Democrat of July 3rd, has the following "o'er true tale."

A week or two ago we mentioned the circumstance of a young lady drowning herself at Venice, on the opposite side of the river, on account of disappointment in a love affair with one Andrew Funkhouser. On Saturday morning Funkhouser visited the scene of the suicide, and there in a fit of remorse, shot himself through the heart. Funkhouser was a German cigar-maker, and boarded at Bohn's boarding-house, on Franklin avenue, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets. He had a room near by, where he slept and worked. He had been a soldier in the army, and soon after obtaining his discharge, paid his addresses to Miss Elizabeth Lederer. One day, during a stroll on the bank of the Mississippi near the village of Venice, the lovers sat down under the shade of a tree, and there exchanged their vows of love. They were engaged to be married, and to them the horizon of the future was tinged with the roseate hues of hope and undying affection. They met daily, and were exceedingly fond of each other. But fate, as if envious of their happiness, sent the malignant demon of doubt to plant thorns in their pathway. The course of their true love did not long run smooth. One day, about a month ago, Andrew in the excess of his happiness, remarked playfully to Elizabeth that he did not intend to marry her, and left her. She pondered upon his parting words, and thinking he might be in earnest, was greatly depressed, and became a prey to harassing doubts and suspicions. Filled with boding thoughts of evil she revisited the trysting tree on the bank of the river, near Venice, and wandering along the shore, mingled her tears with the flood that flowed at her feet. Seating herself under the tree, she gave vent to her feelings in reproaches against her lover, and repinings at her cruel fate. She returned to the city after a short time spent on the opposite shore, but failing to hear from Andrew, she went back to Venice, and in a moment of despair rushed into the water, and was swallowed up by the remorseless current. The body of Miss Lederer was recovered, and her lover, who was almost distracted by the intelligence of her death, took charge of the body, purchased a lot in a cemetery, had the remains interred, and a tombstone placed above her. He told his friends that he wished to be buried by the side of his lost Elizabeth, and assured them it would not be long before he would go to his resting place. Funkhauser was a man of about thirty, but after the sad death of his betrothed he became apparently an old man; his hair turned grey, and his whole aspect was changed. On Saturday morning he went over to Venice with a friend to revisit the spot where he had exchanged vows with his dead mistress. His friend asked to him to take a glass of beer, but he declined, and said he had drank all the beer he intended. He was seen sitting under the tree on the bank of the river, with his breast bare, a pistol lying by his side, and a miniature of Miss Lederer in his hand. Not willing to intrude upon his meditations, his friend turned to leave him, and had gone a short distance, when he heard the explosion of the pistol. Running to the spot he found Funkhouser weltering in his blood. He had placed the muzzle of the pistol to his heart and fired. His agony was brief. In a moment he was dead. His remains were brought over to the city yesterday afternoon and buried by the side of his betrothed, as he requested. Thus it will be seen that a little word, spoken in jest, has caused the death of two innocent and loving beings who might have lived to be happy and useful members of society. We therefore admonish all persons, especially lovers, to be serious in all things, and beware of practical jokes.

THE VALUE OF BRAINS.

Working as an ordinary hand in a Philadelphia shipyard, until very recently, was a man named John L. Knowlton. His peculiarity was that while others of his class were at ale-houses, or indulging at jollification, he was incessantly engaged in studying upon mechanical combinations. One of his companions secured a poodle dog, and spent six months in teaching the quadruped to execute a jig upon his hind legs. Knowlton spent the same period in discovering some method by which he could saw out ship timber in a bevelled form. The first man taught his dog to dance; Knowlton, in the mean time, discovered a mechanical combination that enabled him in two hours to do the work that would occupy a dozen men, by a slow and laborious process, an entire day. That saw is now in use in all the shipyards of the country. It cuts a beam to a curved shape as quickly as an ordinary saw-mill saw rips up a plank. Knowlton continued his experiments. He took no part in parades or target shootings, and in a short time afterward he secured a patent for a machine that turns any material whatever into a perfectly spherical form. He sold a portion of his patent for a sum that is equivalent to a fortune. The machine is now in operation in this city cleaning off cannon balls for the Government. When the ball comes from the mould its surface is encrusted, and the ordinary process of smoothing it was slow and wearisome. This machine almost in an instant, and with mathematical accuracy, peels it to the surface of the metal, at the same time smoothing out any deviations from the perfect sphereodial form. Within a few days the same plain, unassuming man has invented a boring machine that was tested in the presence of a number of scientific gentleman a few days ago. It bored, at the rate of twenty-two inches an hour, through a block of granite, with a pressure of about three hundred pounds upon the drill. A gentleman present offered him ten thousand dollars upon the spot for a part interest in the invention in Europe, and the offer was accepted on the spot. The moral of all this is, that people who keep on studying are sure to achieve something. Mr. Knowlton doesn't consider himself by any means brilliant, but if once inspired with an idea he pursues it until he forces it into tangible shape. If everybody would follow copy, the world would be less filled with idlers, and the streets with grumblers and malcontents.—Philadelphia North Republican.

The sale of the Plantation Bitters is without precedent in the history of the world. There is no secret in the matter. They are at once the most speedy, strengthening, health restorer ever discovered. It requires but a single trial to understand this. Their purity can always be relied upon. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya Bark, Cascarilla Bark, Dandelion, Chamomile Flowers, Wintergreen, Anise, Clover Buds, Orange Peel, Snake Root, Caraway, Coriander, Burdock.

S.—T.—1860—X. &c.

They are especially recommended to clergymen, public speakers, and persons of literary habits and sedentary life, who require free digestion, a relish for food, and clear mental faculties.

Delicate females and weak persons are certain to find in these Bitters what they have so long looked for.

They purify, strengthen, and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome the effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhoea, Cholera and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They are the best Bitters in the world. They make the weak man strong, and are exhausted nature's great restorer.

The following startling and emphatic statements can be seen at our office:—

Letter of Rev. E. F. CRANE, Chaplain of the 107th New York Regiment:

Near Acquia Creek, March 4, 1863.

Owing to the great exposure and terrible decomposition after the battle of Antietam, I was utterly prostrated and very sick. My stomach would not retain medicine. An article called Plantation Bitters, prepared by Dr. Drake, of New York, was prescribed to give me strength and an appetite. To my great surprise they gave me immediate relief. Two bottles almost allowed me to join my regiment. * * * I have since seen them used in many cases, and am free to say, for hospital or private purposes I know of nothing like them.

REV. E. F. CRANE, Chaplain.

Letter from the Rev. N. E. GILDS, St. Clairsville, Pa.:

Gentlemen—You were kind enough, on a former occasion, to send me half a dozen bottles of Plantation Bitters for $3.50. My wife having derived so much benefit from the use of these Bitters, I desire her to continue them, and you will please send us six bottles more for the money enclosed.

I am very truly yours, N. E. GILDS,
Pastor Ger. Ref. Church.

Soldiers' Home, Superintendent's Office,
Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 15th, 1863.
* * * * * * *

I have given your Plantation Bitters to hundreds of our noble soldiers who stop here, more or less disabled from various causes, and the effect is marvellous and gratifying.

Such a preparation as this I heartily wish in every family, in every hospital, and at hand on every battle field.

G. W. D. ANDREWS, Superintendent.

Dr. W. A. CHILDS, Surgeon of the 10th Vermont Regiment, writes: "I wish every soldier had a bottle of Plantation Bitters. They are the most effective, perfect, and harmless tonic I ever used."

Willard's Hotel, Washington, D. C., May 22, 1863.

Gentlemen—We require another supply of your Plantation Bitters, the popularity of which daily increases with the guests of our house.

Respectfully, SYKES, CHADWICK & CO.

THE ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY, 92 Lombard-street, London, and Royal Insurance buildings, Liverpool.

Chairman of the London Board.—SAMUEL BAKER, Esq.
Chairman in Liverpool.—CHARLES TURNER, Esq.

The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest Offices in the kingdom.

At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following highly satisfactory results were shown:—

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct fire insurance companies of this kingdom.

The Premiums for the year 1855 being........£130,060
While the Premiums for the year 1858 are.... 196,148
Showing an actual increase of................ 66,088 or upwards of 50 per cent. in three years.

The recent returns of duty made by Government for this latter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the moiety of its advance.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is by far the largest received in any similar period since the commencement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the premium £12,354 3s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension of business during the last ten years. Thus:—

Years.	No. of Policies.	Sums Assured.	New Premiums.
1848	98	£48,764 17 0	£1,380 9 1
1850	190	95,650 9 11	2,627 4 7
1852	422	181,504 10 6	5,828 5 10
1854	408	161,848 13 4	4,694 16 0
1856	708	297,560 16 8	8,850 3 11
1858	832	387,752 6 8	12,354 3 4

The remarkable increase in the business of the last four years is mainly consequent upon the large bonus declared in 1855, which amounted to no less than £2 per cent. per annum on the sums assured, and averaged 80 per cent. upon the premiums paid.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES

A Slight Cold, Cough, Hoarseness, or Sore Throat, which might be checked with a simple remedy, if neglected, often terminates seriously. Few are aware of the importance of stopping a Cough or Slight Cold in its first stage; that which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy, if not attended to, soon attacks the lungs.

Brown's Bronchial Troches were first introduced eleven years ago. It has been proved that they are the best article before the public for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, the Hacking Cough in Consumption, and numerous affections of the Throat, giving immediate relief.

Public Speakers and Singers, will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine, at 25 cents per box.

THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale.

It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.:—It washes all fine things, such as Muslin, Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c.; cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teaspoonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured.

If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time—saves your clothes—saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improves them—by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flannels become white and soft like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for months. Thousands of Families made happy! No misery on a Washing Day, with PICKSTONE'S Cleansing Crystal.
