THE LITTLE BOY'S ENQUIRY. " WHAT IS HEAVEN ?"

Oh ! what is heaven ? I want to know, And what is passing there ; Do gentle rivers brightly flow, And flowers perfume the air ?

Yes, there are flowers which never fade. And streams that never dry ; And there is known no evening shade, To dim the glorious sky.

Oh ! what is heaven ? I want to know ; Are children playing there ? And do they thirst and hunger now, And need a parent's care?

No, never do they hunger there, Nor precious moments waste ; But, beauteous as the angels, are With Christ's own image graced.

Oh! what is heaven ? I want to know If the field flowers bloom on high, And in meadows green, like these below, Do birds and insects fly ?

I cannot tell, my dearest boy, If aught like these there be; But every one is full of joy, And loveliest sights they see.

But where is heaven? Oh ! is it far Above the ground I tread? Or is it fixed in yonder star, Whose beams shine mildly red?

No : 'tis the Saviour's smiling face That makes the heaven above ; And, would we reach that happy place, We here His name must love

'Tis in His word that we are told Of bliss beyond the sky, And how to gain a crown of gold, All glorious, when we died.

Dear Jesus, may I now be thine. And have my sins forgiven ; Along with saints and angels shine With thee-for that is heaven.

NOBODY'S CHILDREN.

A year or two ago, as I sat in front of a farm-house one warm summer afternoon, my attention was at tracted by numerous feathery objects that kept floating in and out at the open door. At first I though they were insects, but on examination I found them to be seeds.

"Of what ?" I asked the farmer's wife, as she passed through the entry. "Thistles," she replied. "There's a bed of then just below here, and the breeze carries the seeds hi ther and thither as you see."

Presently, I took up my hat and walked down the lane, until I came to the thistle bed. There it wasa large patch of ground covered with the unsightly things, and as the wind swept over them, thousand. of the light, feathery seeds were borne away, and scat tered all over the surrounding country. Next year. thought I, they will spring up in the hay-fields, and in the corn-fields, and among the grain, and cropwill be injured by them: they will spring up in th flower-gardens, and the farmer's little daughter, goin out to gather flowers, will have her tender finger wounded by them; they will do no good, but only harm wherever they find a place to grow. So I wen back to the house.

"Pray tell me why those thistles are not roote up ?" I asked the farmer's wife.

"O," she said, "they are not on anybody's ground and so they are left to themselves."

Not on anybody's ground, and so they are left themselves!

There is a text for a sermon, but I am not the person to do the preaching.

I sat down again, and began to think. I though of swarming city streets; of barefooted boys and girl: whose rags scarcely cover their limbs; of vulgar an profane language uttered by almost infant lips ; an of crimes committed by little children, no older c larger than the farmer's little daughter.

Who are all these ? O, they are nobody's childre -nobody cares for them-they are left to shift fe themselves. So they grow up, and they become th pests of society. They are the gamblers, the burg lars, the incendiaries, the robbers, the murderers They fill our alms-houses, our jails, our prisons ; the travel on the road to destruction, and they lead thousands and thousands along with them. Why? O. they are nobody's charge ; nobody is responsible for them; they take care of themselves. O, will this ex. cuse stand in the great day of judgment? Dare w look in the face of Almighty God, as we stand befor the "great, white, throne," and say-" They wer nothing to us-we could not help them-we had no power or strength to raise them from their degrada

For all her anx- and trudged away to school. On reaching home, sh ieties and all her efforts to preseve the life of her glanced at the table, and lo! there stood a large los " goodly child " was she abundantly rewarded.

When God lays a new-born babe in the arms of a wedded pair, he says to them, "Take this child and has heard my prayer." "Mother, has an ange! nurse it for me, and I will give you your wages." brought all this in at the window ?" And the answer of Christian faith and gratitude impress of a godly example. We will shelter this you, and heard your prayer. It is she who has s soul in its infancy with the 'sincere milk' of love, that in after years it may bear 'strong meat' for strong service of God and righteousness. O! God, in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed." make our lives in harmony with thee, that this young life may reflect thine image in reflecting ours !"

To such pious fidelity God offers the only wages that can satisfy the claims of love. He pays the heart's claim in the heart's own coin. What wages could repay Hannah's prayerful care like the sight of Samuel's after career as Israel's upright jndge ? Moses standing on the mount was the "wages" of the poor Hebrew mother who cradled him in her basket of rushes. St. Augustine's mighty service for the Gospel was the best reward that God could give to Monica. John Wesley's mother was repaid for all her patient discipline when her son built the worldwide tabernacle for Methodism to worship in. George Washington was God's reward to Washington's good mother; as Archibald Alexander, and Brown of Haddington, and Lyman Beecher found their "wages" in the noble sons who took the Gospel-banner from their aged hands.

When I have seen a happy father and mother looking on the prizes their children brought home from school, or enjoying the home that filial love had provided for their old age, then have I seen how God rewards parental patience and fidelity. When J have seen pious parents beholding their children as they stood up before the altar to profess Christ in the freshness of a youthful consecration, then I have said to myself, "God is paying those parents their wages." They once dropped the seed with faith and tears ; now, their sheaf is large and golden. God rewards a mother's fidelity and a father's godly example with accumulating interest through all eternity. Alas! I have seen other " wages " too, paid dearly for, by parental impiety or neglect of duty. Eli's sin was repaid in Eli's sorrow. I have seen a frivolous, prayerless mother paid in the wages of a broken heart. And when to many a father's door a drunken son has been brought home from a Sabbath-breaking debauch, it was only the wages of his own sin which a just God was paying him. The "wages of sin is death"-and of no sin more surely than parental. It is death to peace of mind-death to domestic happiness-death to the neglected or misguided souls of Paper. their offspring. a * * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a derangement of the kidneys and the urinary organs that has disturbed me for years. It acts like a charm. C. C. MOORE, 254 Broadway."

NEW BEDFORD, MASS., Nov, 24, 1863. DEAR SIR-I have been afflicted many years with severe prostrating cramps on my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. Physicians and medicine failed to relieve me. Some friends in New York who were using Plantation Bitters, prevailed upon me to try them. commenced with a small wine glassful after dinner, Feeling better by degrees in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the Plantation Bitters, Respectfully, JUDITH RUSSELL."

If the ladies but knew what thousands of them are constantly relating to ns, we candidly believe one-half of the weakness, prostration and distress experienced by them would vanish. James Marsh, Esq., of 158 West 14th St., 341 bags Horse Wrought NAILS; 94 do. Ship SPIKES N.
