been on starting, proving itself to be the best insulated cable ever manufactured, and many times higher than the standard required by the contract. The cause of the two faults which were picked up was in each case a perforation of the gutta percha through to the copper by a piece of iron wire found sticking on the cable. Electrically the third fault was analagous to the first. The difficulty can be guarded against in the construction of future cables.

4th. That nothing has occurred to create the least doubt in the minds of the practical men engaged in the expedition of the successful laying and working of the Atlantic Telegraph cable, but, on the contrary, their confidence in the undertaking has been largely increased by the experience thus obtained.

5th. That with the Great Eastern steamship and stronger tackle, and with improved picking up machinery, there is a possibility of recovering the end of the cable and completing the line already two-thirds laid.

THE INTER-COLONIAL RAILWAY.

(Special telegram to the Morning Journal.)

QUEBEC, Aug. 22.

Fleming's report has been presented to the Legislature. It gives three classes of routes—Frontier, Central, and Bay Chaleur—and points out advantages and disadvantages of each.

Frontier route by Tobique, Keswick, Nashwaak, and West of St. John, and modifications practiced (?) for cheapness, and commercial value.

Central better as military, and would virtually give New Brunswick another St. John. He says two millions of acres of good land between Fredericton and River Restigouche. Bay Chaleur is best in a military point of view, serving largest number of people, but long and costly.

Shippegan, N. B., and Louisburg, C. B. highly praised as nearest point to Europe, and yet to be important.

Cost of road from River Du Loup to Halifax over twenty million dollars or 46,000 dollars per mile—understood by contractors as quite too high.

Government not committed to the survey which is simply professional for information.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

SUBMARINE CABLES.—The longest of these, of course, is the Malta and Alexandria, which is 1532 miles in length. This cable is the first long one which has proved successful, but it is described by Mr. Gisborne as being too slight, and it certainly has proved liable to interruptions. It is the first cable sent out under water in tanks fitted in the cable ships. The first iron-covered cable, now universally used, was the Dover and Calais, which is 27 miles long, and has been 13½ years in operation. The first application of pure India rubber to submarine-cables—now very seldom used—was with the short cable of three miles between Keyhaven and Hurst Castle. The first cable in which a strand was used for the conductor is the Newfoundland and Cape Breton. That between England and the Isle of Man was the first in which the outer iron wires were protected against rust by hemp and bitumen. The greatest depth seems to be reached by the Corfu and Otranto, the fathoms in this case being 300 to 1000. Between Dover and Calais, the general depth is from 50 to 30 fathoms. The first submarine cable ever laid was only a gutta percha covered wire, between Dover and Calais, and which worked but for one day. Between England and Holland, four separate cables, laid at different times, have been so frequently broken by anchors, that they have been picked up, and are now being stranded into one solid cable, which is to run between Belfast and Scotland. The Holyhead and Howth cable worked five years, and then failed, in consequence of the iron wires rusting so as to hinder repairs, for ten years, but early last year it broke down. The cause of failure in the case of several cables is not known. Two or three were "too light for position;" one was laid in a narrow strait instead of in the open sea; another was "laid in a bad direction, continually chafed through by rocks;" with a third, the outer covering of hemp was eaten away by shell-fish at even 800 fathoms and upwards. In all, 23 cables, which were successful for some time, are not now working, excepting in the case of some which have been relaid with other cables. In nine instances cables failed when being laid down. On the Sardinia and Africa line, the cable ship went out of her course, and the length of cable proved insufficient. In another instance, bad weather came on while the cable vessel was being towed by a steamer, and the cable was cut to save the ship.—Times.

UNITED STATES.

The Banking and Commercial interests of the City of New York have been fearfully startled recently by enormous defalcations and frauds. The following notices of these are from a New York paper:—

HEAVY DEFALCATION IN THE PHŒNIX BANK.—Mr. Henry B. Jenkins, late paying teller of the Phœnix Bank, one of the wealthiest institution in Wall street, was arrested about half-past two o'clock on Thursday morning, on a charge of embezzling $250,000 from the bank. Jenkins was taken before Justice Ledwith, but no examination was had in the case. He admitted his guilt, and implicated five other persons in the embezzlement. The officers of the bank expect to secure further arrests, when all the facts of this interesting case will be made public. Jenkins is 44 years of age, and, it is said, has been employed in the Phœnix Bank for the past 20 years. He was a married man, but has been living in a loose way, spending the money on vile women and vile men. On his information, James H. Earle was on Thursday afternoon arrested for complicity in the embezzlement, and the same evening committed suicide in his cell. He was 31 years of age, a widower, and resided in New Jersey. He had received from Jenkins $100,000. A woman on whom Jenkins spent a great amount of money was also arrested. The whole case is one of shocking immorality and crime. The Cashier of the Bank has published a card stating that the amount of the defalcations will not exceed $300,000.

The Newark Daily Advertiser of Saturday says:—A large portion of our community were startled last evening at the astounding news of the implication of Mr. James H. Earle, of this city, in the defalcation of the Phœnix Bank, N. Y., and his suicide while in prison. The high character which he had always borne and his deportment here had commanded for him the respect of a large circle of a friends, who deeply lament his shocking fate. He was a native of Elizabeth, about thirty-one years of age, and lived with his mother-in-law at 50 Halsey street. He was about five feet five inches in height, with a flowing beard, and gentlemanly manners. He was a member of the second Presbyterian church, and very regular in his attendance at the sanctuary. His style of living here was not unusually extravagant, (beyond the owning of a "fast" horse,) and his taxable income last year was only $1,530. Mr. Earle leaves one child, a boy about six years of age, who is at present with relatives in Monmouth County. His wife died about a year since, having been found dead in her bed.

Mr. Earle was morbidly sensitive as to the opinion of the world, and being connected with some of the most respectable families in the State, it is believed he preferred death to disgrace. His remains will be brought to this city on Monday and taken to Elizabeth for burial.

ANOTHER ASTOUNDING DEFALCATION.—The Evening Post of Tuesday says:—The mercantile circles were thunderstruck this morning by the rumor that the eminent and respectable house of Morris Ketchum & Co., had suspended payment. The earliest reports ran to the effect that it had been concerned in stock speculations beyond its ability to carry the balance against it, and that it had been compelled to stop. These rumors soon, however, took another shape, and it was said, that one of the members of the firm, Mr. Edward Ketchum, a son of the senior partner, had abstracted bonds and other securities from the vaults of the banking house to the amout of two millions of dollars which the firm were unable to make good. Another version of the story was that he had forged gold certificates, to the incredible sum of two millions and a half of dollars which had been passed into the coffers of the banks, which will be the principal sufferers.

On inquiry at the proper place, we learn that there is more or less truth in all these reports. Mr. Edward Ketchum is a defaulter to a prodigious amount—not less than two millions of dollars, which he is said to have procured partly by abstracting securities from the house with which he was connected, and partly by fraudulent gold certificates. He has been for some time entrusted with the management of the affairs of the concern; his father, who had managed them so prudently and successfully, being absent from town, and he has been enticed into speculations that have resulted in his disgrace and ruin.

No house in the city was supposed to be wealthier, or possessed a larger share of the confidence of the community than that of Ketchum & Co., which has been thus prostrated by the criminal folly and iniquity of one of its members. The guilty person, whose character and conduct had won him a most prominent position in the commercial world and whose operations had been carried on so adroitly and mysteriously that his own partners did not yesterday suspect their losses, has disappeared from the city. He left his home last evening, and has not since been traced.

The investigations show that the frauds were perpetrated by young Ketchum, by abstracting securities from the banking house, which had been left there by bankers and brokers, and by forging gold checks to an immense amount on Charles Graham & Co., whose business he had been managing during the illness of Mr. Graham.

This occurrence has produced an immense sensation in Wall street, and several bankers and brokers will suffer severely by the frauds. The Importers and Traders' Bank held about $335,000 of the forged checks. The Fourth National Bank has also $255,000 of the same.

A WOMAN TWO DAYS AFLOAT ON A SPAR WITH AN INFANT.—In the steamship Bellona, Capt. Dixon, just arrived at New York, were two steerage passengers, concerning whom a thrilling incident is related. Franz Mayer, aged 23, and his wife Anne, aged 19, from Canton Soleure, Switzerland, were passengers in the ill-fated ship William Nelson, recently destroyed by fire at sea. In the confusion incident to the efforts to save life, the husband and wife were separated. The husband was picked up by one of the ship's boats which was soon fallen in with by the brig Mercury. The wife, young and enciente, was not discouraged at the uncertainty of her husband's fate, but prepared for her own safety.—Self-preservation could not suppress her womanly instincts so far as to ignore the feeble cries of help from an infant only 14 days old, left to perish by its distracted parents, but regardless of her own state she plunged with her self-imposed charge into the sea. For two whole days did this brave young girl support herself and the infant on the remnant of a ship's spar, without food or water, sustaining the infant's life by the moisture of her own mouth.

Late on the second day the same vessel in cruising with the hope of rescuing more life, fell in with this heroine, and saved her and her little charge. Eventually the family were landed at Havre, France. The Prussian Consul of that port took charge of the infant, as the parents were supposed to have been lost with the wreck. Many ladies at Havre interested themselves to enable this brave young creature, with her husband, to again venture across the Atlantic in search of a Western home. Destitute of everything necessary as an outfit, having lost all, the kindness of the ladies at Havre, was doubtless the most acceptable, and on the Bellona, although poverty was apparent, a remarkable cleanliness in the family was quite noticeable. The heroine of real life, during her present voyage in the Bellona, gave birth to a child.—She is a real object of interest to the benevolent ladies of New York.

SELF DEFENCE.—A party of roughs belonging to Greenwhich Conn., headed by a returned soldier, attempted last week to break up the household of a peaceable colored citizen of that town, for the sole reason that he was married to a white woman. No other "crime" was charged against him. He was legally married. His house was orderly, his family entirely respectable. He earned an honorable living by honest toil, and was respected by all persons whose respect is worth having. But the heinous offence of having a white wife roused the anger of a set of dissolute scamps in Greenwhich, who made up their minds that the moral atmosphere of the village must be purified by the expulsion of Davenport and his family. Fortifying their courage with large potations of bad whiskey, a body of a dozen or more proceeded one night to break up his home, and expel him from the town. They were met at the door by Davenport's mother, who courageously resisted their attack. Armed with a revolver, she fired a warning shot above the heads of the rioters, who at first fell back. Gathering fresh courage, they returned to the assault, and this time the brave old black woman fired upon them with deadly effect, killing the leader, and putting the rest to flight.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.

A despatch from Quebec says that a fire broke out on Thursday at 8 o'clock in that city in a house on the corner of Curran and Queen streets, occupied by Jean Paget, grocer. The flames extended in spite of the utmost exertions of the firemen along Curran and Queen, Richardson and King streets, destroying between sixty and eighty buildings. Loss not yet ascertained.

A San Francisco despatch of July 21st, gives additional news of the movements of the pirate Shenandoah. She was last seen near Cape Thaddeus on the 23d of June, steering in direction towards a fleet of sixty whaling ships. The ship Milo, on board of which the crews of several of the destroyed whalers had been placed by the pirate, spoke a French whaler, which at once sailed towards the menaced fleet, with the object of warning the whaler of danger.

Several additional piracies are related of the Shenandoah.

Our Government has received official information from Port Mahon to the effect that the cholera had appeared on the coast of Spain.

The Herald's Washington despatch says, that the opinion is confidently expressed that the Government will not undertake the trial of Wertz, but cause him to give States' evidence in the approaching trial of Jeff. Davis, whereby it will be proved that Davis was the direct and prime instigator of the cruelties to Union prisoners.

Major Castleman and Lieut. Munford, rebel spies arrested last night, have been paroled to leave the country and never return.

The property of Hager & Ludring, of Richmond, has been libelled for confiscation. They are immensely rich, and did the entire bank note engravings for the rebels.

There are no new developments in the Ketchum forgery. The forger has not been traced. There is a strong belief that he is yet in the city. The Importers' and Traders' National Bank offer a reward of $5,000 for his arrest.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.

Henry Wirtz, the keeper of the Andersonville prison, was yesterday arraigned in Washington, on charges of having combined and confederated with Robert E. Lee, James A. Seddon, Northrup and others, to injure the health and destroy the lives of Union soldiers in Southern prisons, and also with murder in violation of the laws and customs of war.

The specifications allege most civil practices such as starvation, vaccination with impure matter, furnishing rotten food and employing blood-hounds.

Southern papers give shocking accounts of the murders of negroes by their former masters, in the interior of the rebel States.

The number murdered is estimated at several hundred.

Several warehouses in South and Water streets stored with teas, coffee and other goods, were destroyed by fire yesterday.

Loss estimated at half a million.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.

News unimportant. The Herald's Fortress Monroe correspondent says, preparations indicate the forthcoming speedy trial of Jeff. Davis there.

Additional restrictions have been put upon admissions to the fort.

Joe Jonston, while at Fortress Monroe was asked if he would like to see Jeff. Davis. He replied, "I do not wish to see him or hear his name mentioned even." Gold 143.

BOSTON, Aug. 23.

Jeff. Davis has written to one of his counsel, Mr. Gallett, of Albany, in which he says he is still ignorant of the charges against him, the source of them, and the tribunal before which he is to be tried. He expresses a desire for a speedy trial.

The court for the trial of Wirtz, after the arraigning of the prisoner and the reading of the indictment yesterday, adjourned without date. The act caused much surprise, but it is intimated that the adjournment was for the purpose of amending the indictment.
