A VOICE FROM NASSAU. - The movement to secure the Confederation of the North American Provinces is attracting attention in all parts of the world, and receiving the approval of the most intelligent of every class of persons. The Bahama Herald, published at Nassau, New Providence, contains an able article on the subject, from which we extract the following remarks :--

It is no dreary idea, but a sound practical notion, which has widely been debated and adopted throughfederacy of all the Provinces within the limits of the Governor Generalship should be formed for mutual protection and unity of action in the event of any atfoundland, Prince Edward's Island, Vancouver's Is- of the United States. land, British Columbia and Bermuda. If such a Confederacy should be formed, British North Ameritain could in the event of an invasion by the Yankees, be perfectly sufficient to defend itself by land, by lakes and by sea. No great Colonial movement of hail with approval and confidence this demonstration of a loyal desire to adhere to the mother country, and the incursions of lawless men, who at the close of States of the Old Union, may turn their arms on the unoffending neighbors in Canada. That British North America, united by Confederacy, could raise a force sufficient to cope with the Yankees, we cannot doubt, and well knowing the hatred and horror with which Yankee Institutions are viewed by British North Americans, we cannot entertain a fear for the repulse of any attempts to seize on the lands and alter the Government of the Provinces adhering to the mother country.

With the fleets of England the blockade of every hostile port in North America could be rigidly enforced, and England could cover the lakes which divide Canaoa from the once United States, with gunboats and vessels of war, leaving open to her the navigation of the St. Lawrence and the Great Well and Canal. Confederated British North America would bring into the field militia and volunteers quite N. Y. paper. a match for any Yankee army, and with a good staff and a good commander the result could not be doubtcient to give stability to the main body. In a politi- the neighbors saying his father had had a tall. cal and military view we have seen nothing so assuring as this projected Confederacy, and we shall watch its progress with a lively interest.

NEWFOUNDLAND has wisely postponed its decision | dable character. upon Confederation until after the next general election. - Presbyterian.

BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE, for January, is received. This number is more than usually interesting. It contains several articles of much interest. Toney Butler is concluded in it; Part II. of a visit to the cities and camps of the Confederate States, is racy and readable; Cornelius O'Dowd is continued; Nile Basins and Nile Explorers; the European situation, east side of the Mississippi River.

UNITED STATES.

The American people are discussing the best means of very shortly paying off their debt, lessening the burdens on tonnage and otherwise competing with their rivals in commerce. Their debt is, after all, only about two thousand millions of dollars; it may become three thousand millions, and we believe the American people can and will speedily reduce it. A sale of wild lands would go far to do it; a slight tax out the whole of British North America, that a Con- on the exports which all the world requires would do so. THE BOUNTY FRAUDS IN NEW YORK .- The frauds ca, aided by the gigantic naval power of Great Bri- perpetrated in New York in the matter of enlistments and bounties are more astounding than anything in the history of Russian or Austrian malversations. It seems that there was a regular system of forging all such importance has occurred of late years-and we the documents necessary to show that men were enlisted, had passed examination, been accepted, and received at the military depots appointed for recruits to provide for the security of life and property against upon which certificates, all in regular order, not only the Government bounties were paid, but the agents the present war between the Northern and Southern of rural towns and villages paid the extra bounties offered for substitutes. Thus the quotas were nominally filled up in many cases without one single man being added to the army, whilst the fraudulent | will see that it is all right. bounty-brokers were depositing each twenty or thirty thousand dollors a month with their bankers. The ramifications of this conspiracy to cheat the Government are said to be extensive, and some fifty arrests have already been made. The whole amount drawn from the United States Government and local municipalities for bogus recruits is said to be fabulous; and the army has just suffered in proportion, as it was just deprived of the men which it appeared to have received. The quotas of New York and many other places will thus require supplementing.
