thing astonishing. * It affords us much pleasure to state that the Calais authorities are co-operating with those on this side for the prevention of any disturbance, and a determination exists there to see that the laws are properly obeyed. This is a bold avowal of the policy of these murderers-to prevent Confederation, establish an Irish Republic, in New Brunswick, and divide the homes and properties of the present peaceful inhabitants of the regular troops from Halifax. The finest spirit is this Province among the enemies of our Queen and the despoilers of our Country! Will the loyal people of New Brunswick shew any sympathy with the policy and designs of these invaders, by resisting the wishes of our Sovereign for union in order to increase our defences and protection; or play into their hands by supporting Mr. Anglin ? We trust not.

A later despatch from Eastport says: A schooner loaded with arms, and consigned to B. Doran Killian, was seized on her arrival here this morning, but after several hours detention was released. Instructions have been received from Washington to strictly enforce the neutrality laws. A large number of Fenians arrived to day.

At Kars, K. C., Sept. 1st, 1865, Mrs. Flanders, wife of Elder J. G. Flanders, aged 77 years. Sister Flanders was born in Farmington, New Hampshire, August 19, 1788. In 1806 she became united in marriage to Mr. James McNeal, by whom she had six children; after which she was left a widow. In 1828 a woman by the name of Clarissa Danford servation, with a view to the protection of the Rhine | made a visit to the place, and under her labors our sister experienced religion, and soon after was baptized by the Rev. Wm. Demerit, and joined the Church in Madberry. She remained a member of that Church until she came to this Province. In 1825 she was united in marriage to the Rev. Mr. Flanders, with whom she came to New Brunswick. After settling in this place, she joined the Free Bap-tist Church in Kars, K. C., of which Church she remained a faithful and laboring member until her death. Mrs. Flanders was what might be called a truly pious woman, always ready for every good word and work. She was a peacemaker, and nothing gave her more pleasure than to hear of the prosperity of Zion; she was pained when a decline in religion occurred. She was ever ready to speak and larynx, before speaking .- N. Y. Christian Ad- | a word of comfort to the afflicted; but notwithstanding her piety, she was not a stranger to affliction. She was one of the best of companions, especially for one in the place of our much esteemed friend and brother Flanders; also a loving and affectionate mother. She was a friend to rich and poor. For the last few years of her life I was a near neighbour of hers, and often called to see her; visited her often in her last hours. She was ever ready to speak about Christ, and dearly loved the society of christians; and James Fox, I was made acquainted with Mrs. Wins. died in the triumphs of faith. Our dear brother Flanders, with his children and the Church, lost a dear and loving friend and christian by her death. The funeral services years, and have been pleased with its effects. In 1854 he was chosen deacon of the Church at Wood's Harbour. He was much of his time at sea, but exemplified the christian, and although seldom with his brethren, yet they feel they have met with a loss. He leaves Subscribers will please see that their money is correctly a sorrowing widow and seven children to mourn his death. His funeral was improved by the writer from 2 Tim. iv. 7, 8.

Not in the churchyard shall be sleep, Amid the alent gloom; His home was on the mighty deep, And there shall be his tomb.

He loved his own bright, deep blue sea-O'er it he loved to roam : And now his winding sheet shall be The same bright ocean's foam. No village bell shall toll for him

Its mournful, solemn dirge; The winds shall chant a requiem To him beneath the surge. For him break not the grassy turf, Nor turn the dewy and; His dust shall rest beneath the surf. His spirit with its God.
