"THE NOBLE ARMY OF MARTYRS. Where do they sleep-God's heroes, That pure, triumphant band, Who fell when persecution Waved high her demon brand;

Who at the stake or torture, Gave out their dying breath, Weak limbed, but giant-hearted, Were true to Christ till death?

Some, in the bloody circus, Mocked with a chance of life, Have rushed to meet with gladness, The gladiator's knife.

Some, 'neath the fangs of lions, Have met death's welcome shock; Whilst some, with sharp spears goaded, Leapt headlong from the rock.

They sleep: where Rome's proud city, (Which echoed with their groans.) Piles o'er their heads her ruined walls, As monumental stones,

Where sluggish Nilus wanders; Where Syria's palm-tree waves; Where Grecian fountains wimple; There are the martyrs' graves.

Where'er Spain's priestly tyrants Have stretched her iron rod, Wrapped in their fiery cerements, Have fallen the loved of God.

Some sleep in fair green Britain, For Rome, once rampant there, Flung the flame-blistered ashes Abroad upon the air. Flung them for God to gather

And garner, till the day When sky and sea and mountain, For aye shall pass away.

When stricken nations kneeling, Shall hear the clarion clear, That e'en will pierce the deafness Of death's earth-deafened ear ;

Then shall the martyrs' ashes Burst from the fire-wrapt sod, To form, 'mid plains of heaven, The body-guard of God.

MY EARLY LESSON. FOR THE YOUNG.

I once had a little sister, but she died when I was five years old. The grief of losing her sank deep into my heart; and weeks went by before I could be happy in the playroom, where we had so often been together, or could endure the sight of her little books and toys.

Often I stole away alone to the churchyard where she lay, and sat for hours near the little mound that covered her pretty form; for I did not feel so lonely when I sat beside her there.

I had always been a quiet child; but this sore trouble completely took away my spirits, and made me almost ill. At last my parents became alarmed for my health, and proposed to take me to the seaside. But I begged so hard to remain near my little sister, and was so unhappy at the thought of leaving her, that at last they let me stay.

"Dear boy," my mother said, "our little Teddy is not coming back just now. God will not just now bring her body out of the ground. He has her soul safe up in heaven with Him. If you love Jesus, will see dear Teddy. When the right time comes, God will raise up your body and Teady's."

"Must I go into the ground too? And will I come out all bright like Teddy ?"

"Yes, my boy."

"But, mamma, I don't see how. How can it ever

My mother opened her hand and showed me a little seed which she held there. She bade me take that little seed and bury it in the ground. She said that God meant to have the seed buried in that way, so that after a time it might grow up and make beautiful flowers; that God could take care of it in the ground, and not forget it. She told me that when our friends died, and we had to lay them down in the ground, God liked to have us feel quite sure that He could take care of them, and would not forget them. And he liked to have us feel sure of seeing them

Every day I loitered for hours about the spot where I had buried the seed, and even brought my book and studied my little lesson there. I felt as it ing of my little sister; that if my mother's words prospect of some day seeing little Teddy again.

At last, one morning, after a very rainy night, I green leaves peeping above the ground, just where I had buried my seed.

To this day I can remember the thrill of joy at that sight. It was not merely delight at finding that I was to have a flower of my own; but to my childish heart it seemed like an assurance, straight from heaven, that my little Teddy would be taken care of of the country. He says:and given back to me again.

THE IDOLS HE SHALL UTTERLY ALLI ABOLISH!" ALLIA

TO THE PEOPLE OF GOD. Dear Friends .- It is written, "Lovest thou Me?" I was a smoker for twenty six years, and many a pound and many a precious hour were wasted which God gave me for quite another purpose. But, blessed be his name, He bath said, " From all your idols will I cleanse you," and cleanse me He did from this, many years after He brought me to Himself. Depend upon it, if there is an idol by which the enemy gets the dear people of God to rob Him of his glory. smoking is one. I was born and brought up in the little vidage of Gifford, which claims the honour of being the birth place of that man of God over whose remains it was said, "There lies one who never feared. the face of man." I have seen the forester, on the Marquis of Tweeddale's estate, going through the wood with his hedge-bill in his hand, and every tree he intended to cut down he gave it a sney, and, if he did not change his mind, it was doomed; so the Lord takes his knife in hand, and says of the idol, "Thou shalt die, and not live," but, unlike the earthly forester, there is no change with Him, for die it must. I mind well when the Lord struck at this idol in my heart; ob, how the old man foamed. As Boston says, "If you pitch him over the boat, he'll hang on by the hands; and if you cut off his hands, he'll hang on by his teeth." I gave it up about half a dozen times in the twelvemonth, but I just fell before it perfectly helpless, until it came to be man's extremity which is God's opportunity. That last night I took a smoke I mind it well, though thirteen years since. My wife was oft sitting up till I came home, youngest child. The Lord had her waiting up for me that night; so, when I came in, she went and sat down by the fireside, with her hands over each other, and I sat down to take my smoke. She was seven years of age; she had no book to her hand, but just after I had taken about a dozen draws, she says, "Father, what's the meaning of self-denial?" Oh, his sweet voice who says, "Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings He perfects praise." I answered her, laid down my pipe, and glory be to God who cut the cords of the ungodly crew, I hope never to lift it again. Dear brethren, our God gave me grace to give up this idol to Him, and He filled the place it had occupied with his own blessed presence. Oh, what an exchange; and He says to you, "Go, and do Citrate from and Quinine.

I mind three children teaching me a sweet song one day as I went into the Queen's Park. They were coming out with the hold of each other's hands, and as they came they sang-

I have never seen the dear bairns, since, and may never until we meet at the judgment seat of Christ. Oh, that we may meet at the right hand of the Beloved on that day when He will make up his jewels, and there together sing his praise throughout eternity. -Revival, (London.) PETER JACKSON.

THE WORTH OF CHARACTER.

Though a man have comparatively little culture, slender abilities, and but small wealth, yet, if his character be of sterling worth, he will always command an influence, whether it be in the workshop, the counting-house, the mart, or the senate. You may admire men of intellect; but something more s necessary before you will trust them. Hence Lord John Russell once observed in a sentence full of truth, "It is the nature of party in England to ask assistance of men of genius, but to follow the guidance of men of character." This was strikingly illustrated in the career of the late Francis Horner-a man of whom Sidney Smith said that the Ten Commandments were stamped upon his countenance. NSTORE-50 Bbls. No greater homage was ever paid in Parhament to any deceased member. Now let every young man ask-how was this attained? By rank? He was the son of an Edinburgh merchant. By wealth? Neither he, nor any of his relations, ever had a superfluous sixpence. By office? He held but one, and only for a few years, of no influence, and with very little pay. By talents? His were not splendid, and he had no genius. Cautious and slow, his only ambition was to be right. By eloquence? He spoke in calm, good taste, without any of the oratory that either terrifies or seduces. By any fascination of manners? His were only correct and agreeable. By what then was it? Merely by sense, industry, good principles, and a good heart-qualities, which no well-constituted mind need ever despair of raised him; and this character not impressed upon him by nature, but formed out of no peculiarly fine upon the coming up of that plant, depended the rais. elements, by himself. CAUTION! CAUTION! CAUTION! THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale.
It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.: -It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c,; cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teasphonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders tinen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured. If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time-saves your clothes-saves your inchey; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; for Luces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improves The Subscribers have received the greater portion them-by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flan-nels become white and soft like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for months. Thousands of Families made happy ! No misery on a Washing Day, with Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal. Agents for Saint John:
