WINDSOR, April 16, 1866.

RESIGNATION.

Pain's furnace-heat within me quivers, God's breath upon the flame doth blow; And all my heart in anguish shivers And trembles at the fiery glow : And yet I whisper-As God will! And in his hottest fire hold still.

He comes, and lays my heart, all heated, On the hard anvil, minded so Into his own fair shape to beat it With his great hammer, blow on blow; And yet I whisper-As God will! And at his heaviest blows hold still.

Why should I murmur? for the sorrow Thus only longer-lived would be; Its end may come, and will to-morrow, When God has done his work in me; So I say trusting-As God will! And, trusting to the end, hold still.

He kindles, for my profit purely, Affliction's glowing, fiery brand; And all his heaviest blows are surely Inflicted by a master hand; So I say praising—As God will! And hope in him, and suffer still.

Miscellaneous.

LITTLE LIZZIE.

"If they wouldn't let him have it!" said Mrs. Leslie, weeping; "oh, if they wouldn't sell him liquor, there'd be no trouble. He's one of the best of men when he doesn't drink. He never brings liquor into the house; and he tries hard, I know, to keep sober, but he cannot pass Jenks' tavern."

Mrs. Leslie was talking with a sympathising neighbor, who responded by saying, "It's a downright

While this conversation was going on, a little girl, not over ten years old, sat listening attentively. After a while, she went quietly from the room, and took her way, unobserved by her mother, down the road. There was a purpose on her mind; she had started on a mission. "Oh, if they wouldn't sell him liquor!" Those earnest words of her mother had filled her thoughts. If Mr. Jenks wouldn't sell her father drink, there would be no more trouble. How simple the remedy! She would go to Mr. Jenks, and ask him not to let her father have any more liquor, and all would be well again. Artless, innocent child!

The tavern kept by Jenks-the laziest man in Milanville, he was too lazy to work-stood nearly a quarter of a mile from the tenement occupied by the Leslies. Towards this point, under a hot sun, Lizzie made her way, her mind so filled with its purpose that she was unconscious of heat or fatigue. Not long before, a traveller alighted at the door. After giving directions to have his horse fed, he entered the bar-room, and to where Jenks stood behind the

" Have something to drink ?" inquired the landlord. "I'll take a glass of water, if you please."

Jenks could not hide the indifference at once felt toward the stranger. Very deliberately he set a pitcher and a glass upon the counter, and then turned partly away. The stranger poured out a full tumbler of water, and drank it off with an air of satisfac-

"Good water, that of yours, landlord," said he. "Is it?" was returned, somewhat uncourteously.

"I call it good water, don't you?"

"Never drink water by itself." As Jenks said this, he winked to one of his customers, who was lounging on the bar. "In fact, it's so long since I drank any water, that I forget how it tastes. Don't you, Leslie ?"

The man to whom this was addressed was not so far lost to shame as Jenks. He blushed and looked confused as he replied-

"It might be better for some of us if we had not lost our relish for pure water."

"A true word spoken my friend!" said the stranger, turning to the man, whose swollen visage and patched, threadbare garments too plainly told the story of his life. "Water, pure water, bright water! is my motto. Its attendants are health, thrift and happiness. It takes not away the children's bread, nor the toiling wife's garments."

There were two or three customers at the bar besides Leslie, to whom this was addressed; and all of them-in spite of the landlord's angry and sneering countenance-treated the stranger with attention and respect. Seeing this, Jenks could not restrain himself; so, advancing to his side, and laying his hand rudely on his shoulder, said, in a peremptory manner, "See here, my friend, if you are about to make a Temperance lecture, you can adjourn to the Town Hall or Methodist Chapel."

The stranger moved aside a pace or two, so that the hand of Jenks might fall from his person, and then said, mildly, "There must be something wrong here, if a man may not speak in praise of water without giving offence."

"I said you could adjourn your lecture." The landlord's face was now fiery red, and he spoke with insolence and passion.

"Oh, well, as you are president of the meeting. I suppose we must let you exercise an arbitrary power of judgment," said the stranger; "I didn't think any one had so strong a dislike of water as to consider its praise an insult.' At this moment a child stepped into the bar-room, She glanced neither to the right nor left, but walked up to the landlord, lifted to him her sweet young face, and said, in tones that thrilled every heart but his, "Please, Mr. Jenks, don't sell papa any more li-

"Off home with you this instant!" exclaimed Jenks. As he spoke he advanced toward the child with his uplifted hand in a threatening attitude.

"Please, don't, Mr. Jenks," persisted the child, not moving nor taking her eyes from the landlord's countenance. "Mother says if you would not sell him liquor, there'd be no trouble. He's kind and good to us all when he does not drink."

"Off, I say !" shouted Jenks, now maddened beyond self-control, and his hand was about to descend upon the little one, when the stranger caught her in his hands, exclaiming as he did so, with deep emotion, "God bless the child! No, no, precious one!" he added, "don't fear him. Plead for your father, plead for your home. Your petition must prevail! He can not say nay to the little ones, whose angels do always behold the face of their Father in heaven. God bless the child !" added the stranger, in a choking voice. "O that the father, for whom she has come on this touching errand, were present now! If there were anything of manhood yet left in his nature, this would awaken it from palsied sleep." " Papa! oh, papa," now cried the child, stretching forth her hand. In the next moment she was clinging to the breast of her father, who, with his arms clasped tightly around her, stood weeping and mingling his tears with those now raining from the little hend the full import of the scene; the stranger looked on wonderingly, yet deeply affected. Quietly, and with moist eyes, the two or three drinking customers, who had been lounging on the bar, went stealthily out; and the landlord, the stranger, the father and his child were left the only inmates of the room.

"Come, Lizzie, dear! this is no place for us," said Leslie, breaking the dead silence. "We'll go home." And the unhappy mebriate took his child by the hand, and led her toward the door. But the little one held back. "Wait, papa, wait," she said; "he hasn't promised yet. Oh, I wish he would promise!"

"Promise!" said Leslie, in a stern and solemn voice, as he turned and fixed his eyes on the land-

"If I do promise, I keep it!" returned the landlord, in a threatening tone. "Then for God's sake promise," exclaimed Leslie, in a half-despairing voice; "promise, and I'm safe.' "Be it so! May I be cursed, if I ever sell you a drop of drink at this bar, while I am landlord." Jenks spoke with an angry emphasis. "God be thanked!" murmured the poor drunkard as he led his child away. "God be thanked! there is hope for me yet." Hardly had the mother of Lizzie missed her child, ere she entered, leading her father by the hand. "Oh, mother," she exclaimed, with a joy-lit countenance, and a voice of exultation, "Mr. Jenks has pro-

"Promised what?" Hope sprang up in her heart on wild and flutttering wings, her face flushed and grew deadly pale. She sat panting for an answer. "That he would never sell me another glass of liquor," said her husband. A pair of thin white hands were clasped together; an ashen face was turned upward; tearless eyes looked their thankfulness to Heaven.

"There is yet hope," said Leslie. "Hope, hope! And, ob, Edward, you have said he word. Hope, through our child. Innocence has prevailed over vice and cruelty. She came to the strong, evil, passionate man, and in her weakness and innocence prevailed over him. God made her fearless

A year afterward a stranger came that way, and stopped at the same old tayern. As before, Jenks was behind his well-filled bar, and drinking customers came and went in number. Jenks did not recogize him until he called for water, and drank a full tumbler of the pure liquor with a hearty zest, then he knew him, but feigned to be ignorant of his identity. The stranger made no reference to the scene he had witnesed there a twelvemonth before, but lingered in the bar-room most of the day, closely observ ing every one who came there to drink. Leslie was not among the number. "What has become of the man and the little girl that I saw here at my last visit to Milanville?" said the stranger speaking at last

"Gone to the devil, for all I care," was the landlord's rude answer, as he turned away.

"Do you see that little white cottage away off there, just at the edge of the wood?" said one of the customers. "Two tall poplars stand in front. The man you asked for lives there. And what is more, if he keeps on the way he has begun, the cottage will be his own in another year."

"Ah! I see; well, did Leslie, as you call him, ever try to get a drink here, since the landlord promised never to let him have another drink?"

"Twice to my knowledge." "And he refused him ?"

"Yes; if you remember, he said in his anger, May I be cursed if I sell him another drop.' That saved poor Leslie. Jenks is superstitious in some things. He wanted to get his custom-fer it's worth having-and he actually handed him the bottle one day, when I saw it, and reminded him of his self-imprecation. He hesitated, look frightened, withdrew the bottle from the counter, and with curses drove Leslie from the bar-room, threatening at the same time, to horsewhip him if he ever set foot over his

"Poor drunkards!" mused the stranger, as he rode past the neat cottage of the reformed man, a couple of hours afterward. " As the case now stands, you are only saved as by fire. All law, all protection is on the side of those who are engaged in enticing you into sin and destroying you body and soul. Can it be a Christian country in which I live, and such things darken the very sun at noonday ?"

IMPORTANCE OF MANNER.

The importance of pleasing manners and a good delivery in the pulpit is very forcibly illustrated by the following true incident which we find in an exchange: Rev. Samuel Treat, grandfather of Robert Treat Paine, was settled in Eastham, Mass, a hundred and fifty years ago. His pastorate continued for nearly half a century. But, in spite of great learning and uncommon vigor of thought, his manner in the pulpit was so repulsive that out of his own parish he was heard reluctantly, even by intelligent congregations. He married a daughter of Rev. Samuel Willard, of

After his marriage with the daughter of Mr. Willard, he was sometimes invited by that gentleman to preach in his pulpit. Mr. Willard possessed a graceful delivery; a masculine and harmonious voice; and in his sermons were strength of thought and energy of language. The natural consequence was that he was generally admired.

Mr. Treat, having preached one of his best discourses to the congregation of his father-in-law, in his usual unhappy manner, excited universal disgust; and several nice judges waited on Mr. Willard and begged that Mr. Treat, who was a worthy, pious, man, it was true, but a wretched preacher, might never be invited into his pulpit again. To this request Mr. Willard made no reply; but he desired his son-in-law to lend him his discourse; which being left with him, he delivered without alteration, to his people a few weeks after. The hearers were charmed. They flew to Mr. Willard and requested a copy for the press. "See deodorizes, but disinfects perfectly and destroys forever the difference," they cried, "between yourself and the cause of infection; it is not poisonous, as it may be your son-in-law; you have preached a sermon on the same text as Mr. Treat's; but whilst his is contemp-

Chairman of the London Board.—Samuel Baker, Esq. Chairman in Liverpool.—Charles Turner, Esq. The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest Offices in the kingdom.

At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following highly satisfactory results were shown :---FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct are insurance companies of this kingdom. The Premiums for the year 1855 being £130,060 While the Premiums for the year 1558 are 196,148 or upwards of 50 per cent. in three years. The recent returns of duty made by Government for this atter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than naintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Comnoiety of its advance. LIFE DEPARTMENT. The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is by far the largest received in any similar period since the commencement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the premium £12,854 8s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension of business during the last ten years. ASIATIC CHOLERA. In 1849 Radway's Ready Relief cured over 10,000 persons, seized with Asiatic Cholera, and by its timely use as a preventive, saved over one million of lives. YELLOW FEVER.

In 1856 Radway's Ready Relief cured thousands of perons seized with Yellow Fever. As a preventive of this terrible disease, Dr. Frederick B. Page, of Mississippi, urged its use to the medical boards of the Southern States, and publicly recommended it as the most certain safeguard DURING THE WAR More lives were saved by the use of Radway's Beady Relief than from the best efforts of the medical staff. We have hundreds of letters proving this fact. We have the evidence to prove that in cases where men, by exposure to malarious swamps, bottom lands, rice fields, etc., used Radway's Ready Relief, invariably escaped sickness; those who did not, were seized with Dysentery, Swamp Fevers, Billious Fevers, Diarrhoea, Cholera, Rheumatism, &c., and those only who, when thus seized, used the Ready Relief, entirely recovered. ITS UNIVERSAL USE. It cures the worst diseases incidental to all climates. It has been tested in Asia, Africa, South America, Europe,

East and West Indies, and cured the worst forms of Cholera, Dysentery, Fluxes, Fevers, Yellow Fever, Swamp Marsh, Ship and other Fevers-and never failed in protectng persons who used it as a preventive against attacks. WHY NOT? If Radway's Ready Relief possesses such remarkable lisinfecting, neutralising, strengthening, aperient, suodorific, anodyne, and other properties, as to cure the worst forms of disease as they exist, in the most sickly climates of the world, and where the poisonous malaria is so thick that you may almost "cut it with a knife," why not cure, with the great ease it does, all sorts of fevers of the milder

type, in our own chinate? Diarrhæa, Dysentery, Fever and Ague, Billious Fever, Influenza, &c., are but the milder and weaker forms of the more terrible diseases. If i cures the worst forms as they exist in the most sickly climates, it will readily cure the less as they prevail amongs DOMESTIC PURPOSES. Every family should be provided with a bottle of RAD WAY'S READY RELIEF. One bottle costs only 25 cents and this bottle can be used for various purposes, with the assurance of doing more permanent good than one hundred dollars expended for other medicines and physicians' prescriptions. If suddenly seized with sickness, the use of the Relief will instantly arrest the disease, and afford immediate ease to the patient. TEN YEARS' RHEUMATISM CURED by rubbing the Spine with Radway's Ready Relief. Robert Elv. Esq., aged sixty, had been afflicted with Rheumatism for ten years For the past twelve months bewas confined to his room, perfectly helpless. His habs were distorted, swollen, and mishapen; his hands cramp-, so that he could neither move his fingers nor open nor hut his hands; rheumatic pains ran'riot ail over his body; moving him from his bed involved the most intense suffer; heretofore sold at the Drug Stores are composed chiefly of ing. He was induced to have his spine rubbed one hour, oil and alcohol-ingredients which are antagonistic to the morning and night, with Radway's Ready Relief. The first rubbing gave him ease; a few successive rubbings relieved him of pain; one month's application of the keilef, and a few doses of Radway's Pills cured him. He is now a well and hearty man, and uses the Relief and Puls occasionally A FAMILY MEDICINE. As a family medicine, it is the most useful remedy known to the world. If seized with pain or sickness, or threatened with any malignant disease, its use will quickly cure the patient and protect the system against a tacks. In a few minutes after the application of the Ready Relief externally, or its administration internally, the patient, seized with the most excrutiating Pains, Aches, Cramps, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout, Lumbago, Fever and Ague, Spasms, Sore Throat, Influenza, Diptheria, Congestion or nflammation, will enjoy ease and comfort. IMPORTANT .- To Farmers and others residing in sparsely settled districts where it is difficult to secure the services of a physician, Radway's Keady Relief is invaluable. It can be used with positive assurance of doing good in all cases where pain or discomfort is experienced, or if seized with Influenza, Diptheria, Sore Throat, Bad Coughs, Hoarseness, Billious Colic, Inflammation of the Bowels, Stomach, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys; or with Croup, Quinsy, Fever and Ague, or with Neuralgia, Headache, Tic Poloreux, Toothache, Earache, or with Lumbago, Pain in he Back, or Rhematism, or with Diarrhea, Cholera morbus, or Dysentery, or with Burns, Scalds, or Bruises, or with Strains, Cramps, or Spasms. The application of Radway's Ready Rehef will cure you of the worst of these plaints in a few hours.

RHEUMATISM.-This painful disease has baffled the most skillful physicians and popular remedies. It is the nost difficult of diseases to treat-yet RADWAY'S REA-DY RELIEF has never failed in affording immediate relief o the sufferer; and in all cases of Acute, Inflammatory or Nervous Rheumatism, to effect a permanent cure. (In Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, RADWAY'S CLEANSING SYRUP, called Kenovating Resolvent, should be taken as an adjunct with the Ready Relief.) Sold by Druggists everywhere. DR. JOHN RADWAY & CO.,

CAUTION! CAUTION!

THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, I you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.:-It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c,; cleaning Sponges. Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as t immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teasphonful of the Crystal in a quarter of Dear Sir-I am happy to inform you that the use of one | a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and al mair destorer has restored my hair, Guins, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a which was nearly white, to its original brown, and it is tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and soft and glossy as in earlier days. Dr. Walsh tells me that | unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured.

If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time -saves your clothes-saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improves them-by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flannels become white and soit like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for months. Thousands of Families made happy! No nisery on a Washing Day, with Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal.
