There will soon be a great deal of foreign capital engaged in the manufacture of oil from shale as well as in our minerals generally—hopes run high of great success. The political prospects are also most gratifying, and, it is needless to remark that the political security of a people, and the sagacity of its statesmen, tell powerfully on the commercial prosperity of a country. We have only to look at the newspapers or the blue-books of some of the finest but worst governed and most wretched countries in the world to find an illustration of these principles. If all the Provinces of British America were united under one Government to-day, what grand commercial prospects would be before us! We should have all the wisdom and ability of all the provinces devoted to the advancement of their material interests—we should have internal free trade; we should have an immense expenditure for railway purposes; increased means of steam communication with each other and with Europe. The political consolidation of the provinces would re-assure our friends in England, attract both English and American capital—the latter even more speedily than the former, our cousins having a fine eye for commercial advantages; while the "Wood-Potter clique" (on whom most of the Canadian papers are now "down") would give up hope of effecting any thing. As regards these results every thing looks favorable. The abrogation of the Reciprocity Treaty makes the necessity of the union of British North America more evident. The spirit in which the negotiations for Reciprocity was conducted, so fair on our part, so utterly unreasonable on the part of the negotiators on the other side, (the New York Times satirizes the latter as a fine specimen of "Tycoon" or "Japanese exclusiveness) has roused the spirit of our people (always excepting those who have no spirit or whose hearts are elsewhere), and disposed them to make common cause together. New Brunswick alone stands in the way of the consummation of union, but the opposition to union here never was so utterly impotent. The House of Assembly has, indeed, been summoned to meet, and we sincerely hope it will meet, but how the Government are to sustain themselves in the House—that is another question, and it is undoubtedly one on which they, themselves, are very much in need of light at the present moment. Their situation has not improved—the Government is morally weak and all but utterly gone, and they know it. When they break down, and that auspicious hour is fast hastening on, the principal barrier in the way of the onward march of these provinces will be removed Then British America and England will rejoice together; then the people of other States will envy our good fortune—then will all our industries receive a new impetus, and the great Confederation which will stretch from the Atlantic to the Pacific, will become known to Europe and the world as one of the most highly favored of countries. Immigration will set in on a grand scale, and the energy of our people of various races will soon cause earth and sea to surrender their treasures. These are "bright prospects" and we believe they are entirely real and not at all illusory.

☞ We clip the following from an editorial in the Christian Visitor of last week:—

One thing is certain, the signs of the times call loudly upon all the true friends of Britain to rally to the support of British interests in these Provinces and elsewhere. We must not be found napping. It is a startling fact that hundreds of thousands on this continent alone are plotting and combining for the dismemberment of our glorious empire, to break it up and trample its honor in the dust. This mighty combination, as a matter of course, gives momentum and energy to the anti-British movement in Ireland, and serves as a grand base of hostile operations against the authority of England as existing in the North American Colonies. Where this rushing tide of enmity to England and her institutions will first break forth on British soil, it is impossible to say; but one thing is certain, the Provinces should prepare to resist promptly and effectually its initiatory developments. This teaches the necessity for immediate concert of action in these Colonies. How is this to be obtained in our present isolated condition? Perhaps our anti confederate friends will answer this question, by furnishing a substitute for union. If they will not allow the Provinces to confederate in all honor and honesty, they are bound at such a time as this to give us something quite as effectual in its place. What will they supply in place of the Intercolonial railroad? How will they provide for the absence of a central Governmental power to act with effect in case of emergency? Our present fragmentary condition, as it appears to us, is one of alarming weakness, and we very much mistake if the Fenian Republic does not so understand it. Hence their opposition to confederation. They know very well that union is strength, that disunion is weakness. They are anxious, therefore, to keep the Provinces apart, that they may the more easily wrest them from British rule. Now, if our anti-union statesmen have no sympathy with these views and aims, we call upon them to give us colonial combination or some thing that shall be equally powerful to resist the diabolical designs of our adversaries. They are our rulers, and we naturally look to them for protection in time of danger. The danger is at hand. Where is the protection?

☞ The Telegraph says that the Hon. Mr. Tilley has delivered at least twenty lectures on Confederation, in Queen's, King's and Charlotte Counties during the last two months; and that every where he has been received with enthusiasm.

The New Brunswick, of the International Steamship Company, will leave Boston for St. John on Monday, March 5th. The New England and New York, will be on the route by 1st April. These steamers have all been thoroughly repaired, and are in first rate order. One of them is expected to call at St. Andrews during the season.

RUNAWAY HORSES.—On Thursday the horse of Capt. Vaughan took fright and broke loose from the sleigh, leaving Mrs. Vaughan and child in it. The driver held on to the reins for some distance, but was compelled to let go. The horse was caught in Union Street; no serious damage was done. On Friday the horse of Mr. B. Ansley took fright, and broke loose from the light waggon, in King Street, upsetting it and throwing out Mr. B. Ansley and his cousin Charles Ansley whose arm, we regret to say, was broken. The horse was caught at Mr. Robertson's stables.—Colonial Presbyterian.

TRIAL OF SULLIVAN THE MURDERER AT CARLISLE, C. E.—It will be generally remembered that a terrible tragedy took place on board of the Lady Head among her last trips to this Province from Quebec, when she was nearing Carlisle. Two sailors were passengers for Carlisle, where they intended to embark in a vessel bound for Great Britain. Apparently with the best of feeling, they began to wrestle for their amusement. The scene afforded considerable interest to several fellow passengers. One of the wrestlers proved too powerful and too expert for the other, Sullivan, (is the name of the one who was vanquished). His proud spirit would not brook such a mortification. He most inhumanly and most revengefully plunged a knife three successive times into the entrails of the victor, from the effects of which he expired next day, after suffering most excruciating pain. The murderer was instantly apprehended, and put ashore at Carlisle, where he has since been closely confined in the Goal to await his trial, which took place on the 13th inst. As no one before, was ever tried for such a grave offence in that quiet and sequestered town, it naturally excited a deep and far extended interest. A large concourse of people assembled on the occasion. As the horrid deed was done so openly, and in the presence of so many spectators, there was no want of abundant evidence to convict the prisoner. According to universal expectation, a verdict of guilty was brought against him. He was sentenced by Judge White; the presiding Judge, to be executed in Carlisle, on the 16th of next month. The criminal throughout manifested the greatest daring. No relenting feeling at his deeds of darkness seemed to possess his hardened heart. He is branded on several parts of his body as an old offender. The punishment inflicted on him before by the hand of justice, has proved ineffectual.—Journal.

The Legislature of this Province is expected to meet at Fredericton on the 8th of March.

NOVA SCOTIA.

Parliament opened on Thursday last with the usual ceremonies. The opening address of His Excellency, Sir W. F. Williams, was short and to the point. He began by saying—

1. It affords me unfeigned satisfaction, in meeting, for the first time, the Legislature of this my native Province, to be able to congratulate you upon a condition of prosperity never before equalled in the history of the Colony.

2. While we have enjoyed the blessings of peace and immunity from pestilence, the labors of the Husbandman and the Fisherman have been crowned with success; and the sale of Crown Lands, the development of our Coal and Gold Mines, the receipts from our Railways, and the Trade and Revenue of our Province, are greatly in excess of any preceding year.

A company is being formed, composed of Merchants and others here and in Quebec, St. John, N. B., and Halifax, to establish steamers between Canada and the lower ports. It is intended to compete with the routes through the States to Halifax and St. John, with a tender to the Bay of Chaleur. The time between Quebec and St. John is expected to be about three days and a half. The boats are to be met at Shediac by the American and European Railways belonging to New Brunswick.

FENIAN INVASION OF THE PROVINCES.—It would really appear that Canada was the object of the threatened Fenian warfare, provided the following report of the remarks of Gen. Sweeney at Pittsburg, Pa., on Thursday, is correctly given. He said, as represented, that a revolution in Ireland at present was impossible, and that it is only those who have no knowledge of warfare, no conception of the gigantic force it requires to meet an organized military enemy, with his base of operations immediately behind him, who dream of such a possibility. He denounced the attempt as an absurdity, and the sending of detached parties to Ireland murder. He said: "Never, before my God, have I had any other object in view in connection with the Fenian Brotherhood than the deliverance of the home of my boyhood from the accursed yoke of the usurper, and if I decide to strike the enemy three thousand miles from his base and within a few miles of ours, I am confident that the common sense and knowledge of my countrymen will sustain me." He revealed his plans and explained them minutely, excepting those which commanding generals cannot reveal, convincing the most obtuse of their feasibility.—Boston Journal.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

ARRIVAL OF THE "HERMAN."

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.

Steamship "Herman," Liverpool dates 14th inst., arrived.

The London Times says "The new Reform Bill will consist simply of lowering the franchise in boroughs to £6, and in counties to £5 occupation. It seems Earl Russell acts on Mr. Bright's advice—resolving to stake the existence of the administration on the bill. We cannot suppose the Government believes such a bill would be accepted as a settlement of the reform question. The conduct of the Ministry on Reform seems to show that they are themselves conscious that they are settling down."

In the French Senate, Marshal Forey said the return of the French troops from Mexico would not take place so speedily as supposed to be in France, and even advised sending fresh reinforcements.

M. Rooker said these opinions were the Marshal's, the views of the Government were embodied in the Emperor's speech and address.

UNITED STATES.

President Johnson's course in reference to re-construction and the rights of the Freedmen is far from satisfactory to the great Republican party. On Feb. the 19th, he sent in a message to the Senate, vetoing the bill enlarging the powers of the Freedmen's Bureau, which some days ago passed the Senate by a vote of thirty-seven to ten, and the House by a vote of one hundred and thirty-seven to thirty-three. It is reported that the veto is approved by a majority of the Cabinet, and that the members of the minority who are opposed to the veto will resign.

The House of Representatives has adopted a series of important resolutions, to the effect that the rebellion had deprived the people of the rebellious States of all civil government; that it is the duty of Congress by legislation to enable such States to form new governments; that their present condition justifies the President in continuing their occupation by the military, and the suspension in them of the habeas corpus, and he is entitled to the thanks of the nation therefor. Each of these resolutions was adopted by an overwhelming majority, some obtaining the unanimous vote of the republican party.—Visitor.

In the Fenian Congress now in session at Pittsburg, Pa., last night, the Military Committee presented a report on the plan submitted by Gen. Sweeney. After being thoroughly discussed, it was unanimously adopted, the delegates present pledging their Circles to support Sweeney with the very last dollar and the last man. Money is flowing very rapidly into the Treasury. The Congress will probably adjourn sine die to-morrow.

It is understood that the British Minister has forwarded a communication on the subject to the State department, and that it formed a topic for Cabinet discussion to-day. A proclamation will probably be issued against any violation of the neutrality laws.
