peoples. The Church and the world will enter upon new struggles, the struggles full of obscurity, the conditions of which it is impossible to determine.

Austria has succumbed. The last hope of the Papacy, the last prop of its secular power, has been swept away. Venice belongs to Victor Emmanuel and Italy is free from the Alps to the Adriatic, with the sole exception of Rome and a few leagues around it. Roman Catholics must now make up their mind to see the Head of their Church relieved from the cares and honors of mere earthly sovereignity. The Pontiff who could once place his foot on the neck of a prostrate Emperor must now own himself the subject of a hated Italian King.

The expulsion of Austria from Venetia takes away the last excuse for the French occupation of Rome. Without French aid Italy has secured the object of her heart's desire: Austria is humbled and Venice is free. This being the case the French Emperor cannot with any decency continue to force upon the people of Rome the hated domination of the Pope. Italian unity cannot be completed till Rome as well as Venice own the sway of Victor Emmanuel.

The present year will in all probability witness the end of the Pope's temporal power. Nobody doubts that this will prove a severe blow to the Papacy throughout the world. The prestige of worldly pomp and monarchy will be sacrificed, and a suspicion will creep into the minds of many that papal promises and curses do not amount to much after all. It will be a mighty step towards the final overthrow of the Church of Rome, and in this light it should be hailed with thanksgiving throughout the Protestant world.

We should not however imagine that because the temporal power falls the Papacy must go with it. The Roman Catholic system was powerful before the Pope owned a foot of soil, and no doubt it will continue powerful when the last vestige of earthly sovereignity shall have passed away.

It is not unlikely that the fall of the temporal power may be followed by a wide-spread revival and extension of the spiritual power. Rome will probably put forth tremendous efforts to popularize herself with the ignorant masses. The church will become democratic, "liberal," "radical." The battle she used to fight in palaces she will fight to better effect in the hovels and cots of the poor. Jesuitism foiled in one direction will turn with redoubled energy in another.

Against the political aspects of the Papacy politicians have fought and conquered. Cavour and Louis Napoleon and Bismarck will tumble the Pope from his throne of State. But against the spiritual campaign which Rome knows how to play and carry out, no defence will avail but the truth of the Gospel.—Presbyterian Witness.

UNITED STATES.

☞ Henry Ward Beecher has written a letter, approving of the course of President Johnson, from which we take the following extract:

The Federal Government is unfit to exercise minor police and local government, and will inevitably blunder when it attempts it. To keep a half a score of States under Federal authority, but without national ties and responsibilities; to oblige the central authority to govern half the territory of the Union by Federal civil officers and by the army, is a policy not only uncongenial to our ideas and principles, but preeminently dangerous to the spirit of our Government. However humane the ends sought and the motives, it is, in fact, a course of instruction, preparing our Government to be despotic, and familiarizing the people to a stretch of authority which can never be other than dangerous to liberty.

I am aware that good men are withheld from advocating the prompt and successive admission of the exiled States by the fear, chiefly, of its effect upon parties and upon freedmen.

It is said that if admitted to Congress, the Southern senators and representatives will coalesce with Northern Democrats and rule the country. Is this nation, then, to remain dismembered, to serve the ends of parties? Have we learned no wisdom by the history of the last ten years, in which just this course of sacrificing the nation to the exigencies of parties plunged us into rebellion and war?

Even admit that the power would pass into the hands of a party made up of Southern men and the hitherto dishonored and misled Democracy of the North, that power could not be used just as they pleased. The war has changed, not only institutions, but ideas. The whole country has advanced. Public sentiment is exalted far beyond what it has been at any former period. A new party, would like a river, be obliged to seek its channels in the already existing slopes and forms of the continent.

We have entered a new era of liberty. The style of thought is freer and more noble. The young men of our times are regenerated. The great army has been a school, and hundreds of thousands of men are gone home to preach a truer and nobler view of human rights. All the industrial interests of society are moving with increased wisdom toward intelligence and liberty. Everywhere, in churches, in literature, in natural sciences, in physical industries, in social questions, as well as in politics, the nation feels that the Winter is over and a new Spring hangs in the horizon and works through all the elements. In this happily changed and advanced condition of things no patty of the retrograde can maintain itself. Everything marches and parties must march.

I hear with wonder and shame and scorn the fear of a few that the South once more in adjustment with the Federal Government will rule this nation! The North is rich—never so rich; the South is poor—never before so poor. The population of the North is nearly double that of the South. The industry of the North, in diversity, in forwardness and productiveness, in all the machinery and education repuired for manufacturing, is half a century in advance of the South. Churches in the North crown every hill, and schools swarm in every neighborhood; while the South has but scattered lights, at long distances, like light-houses twinkling along the edge of a continent of darkness. In the presence of such a contrast, how mean and craven is the fear that the South will rule the policy of the land! That it will have an influence, that it will contribute, in time, most important influences or restraints, we are glad to believe. But if it rises at once to the control of the Government it will be because the North, demoralized by prosperity, and besotted by groveling interests, refuses eo discharge its share of political duty. In such a case the South not only will control the Government, but it ought to do it.

It is said that the Governors of every Northern State is in sympathy with the majority of Congress, and opposed to the policy of the President.

Vermont elections are in favor of the Republicans.

The Fenians continue their secret meetings in New York. It is reported that an effort is being made to induce Gen. Sheridan to resign, and to accept the command of the Irish Republican army. At the head quarters of the Stephens' wing in New York city, arms and ammunition are being received in large quantities.

A Toronto despatch says that everything which transpires in the Fenian Congress is sent by one of the members to the Canadian authorities.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.

The Fenian Congress had adjourned, sine die, having been in Session all Saturday night.

Col. W. R. Roberts was elected President; P. J. Mehan, President of the Senate, and J. Fitzgerald, Speaker of the House. Gen. Sweeney was deposed as Secretary of War, but no successor was named. His accounts were satisfactory, but he was believed incompetent. Gen. O'Neil was appointed Inspector General of the Irish Republican Army, and Col. Bailey, Chief Military Organizer.

Another movement on Canada will undoubtedly be made during the fall, if contributions are plentiful.
