The other side! Ah! there's the place Where saints in joy past time retrace, And think of trials gone; The veil withdrawn, they clearly see That all on earth hath need to be, To bring them safely home.

The other side! No sin is there, To stain the robes that bless'd ones wear Made white in Jesus' blood: No cry of grief, no voice of woe, To mar the peace their spirits knows-Their constant peace with God.

The other side! Its shore so bright Is radiant with the golden light Of Zion's city fair! And many dear ones gone before Already tread the happy shore: I seem to see them there.

The other side! Oh, charming sight! Upon its banks, arrayed in white, For me a loved one waits: Over the stream he calls to me, Fear not I am thy guide to be, Up to the pearly gates.

The other side! His well-known voice, And dear, bright face, will me rejoice: We'll meet in fond embrace; He'll lead me on, until we stand, Each with a palm branch in our hand, Before the Saviour's face.

The other side! The other side! Who would not brave the swelling tide, Of earthly toil and care; To wake one day, when life is past, Over the stream, at home at last, With all the bless'd ones there!

STORIES AND ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE TEN COMMANDMENTS. THE SIXTH COMMANDMENT.

Thou shalt not kill.

DEAR CHILDREN-This whole Commandment is embraced in four little words, but they are very important words. There is nothing God has guarded more sacredly than human life; and the more effectually to impress its sacredness on the minds of men in the early ages of the world, God put a mark on Cain the first murderer, so that he might be spared as a walking advertisement, to warn all that saw him not to shed human blood. No doubt that "mark," whatever it may have been, had a salutary effect. If God had destroyed Cain, both he and his crime might soon have been forgotten; but permitting him to live and bear some mark that showed to others his crime for five or six hundred years, was an effectual way to prevent murder. As men began to multiply and spread over the earth, God issued his laws on the subject to Noah in these words : "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed." This law given to Noah was nearly one thousand years before the Commandment was given to Moses on Mount Sinai.

The first sin we have recorded in the Bible after the fall was murder, and the first punishment inflicted was for that awful crime. No other crime seems to be followed with such awful consequences. It destroys forever the peace and happiness of those who commit it. If God does not set a mark on the murderer that can be seen by others, he sets a mark on their conscience that they can never wipe out. Hence we find, all the way down the history of the world, multitudes whose consciences have been so burdened that life became intolerable, and they have been constrained to come and confess their guilt. Even those who kill their antagonist in a duel, or what the world calls an affair of honor, seldom live in peace afterwards. The blood of their murdered victims follows them all the way through life, crying for vengeance. "He that killeth a man shall surely be put to death;" and in the New Testament it is said, "No murderer hath eternal life abiding in him."

There are only two situations in which we can be placed that justify taking life.

The first is self-defence. If another is about to take our life, and we have no way to prevent it but by taking his, we not only have the right to do it, but it is our duty. For you to stand still and let another other animals, reptiles, and insects, which are danmurder you, when you could prevent it, would be a gerous, and which it is right for us to kill when sort of suicide, or self-murder.

When this Commandment. the nation's rights are attacked, by insurrection at home or by foreign invasion, it is not only our right but our duty to defend them; and the guilt in murderer taking his or her first lesson." that case rests on the heads of those who invade those rights. But the great majority of all the wars little innocent birds, killing them for mere sport, or that have deluged the world have been murders on a the heroes that have waged them, they will go to the go about breaking the legs of little boys and girls, bar of God under a fearful load of guilt. Indeed I that I was no better than a murderer. But life is as it, against attacks of these maladies. In cases of Inflamthe parties was not directly chargeable with whole-

But, my dear children, this Commandment goes but the divine exposition given of it in the New Testament is, that " he that hateth his brother is a murderer." I think I hear one and another of my little readers say, "Well, that hits me." We are all "brethren" in the Bible sense; we all had one father and mother. The black men of Africa and the savage Indians are our brothers and sisters. It is true they don't seem as near of kin, neither are they as fifteen years old, could not look at blood without faint near of kin as those that are raised in the same | ing; but who confessed, when condemned to be exehouse with us; but they are certainly included in this Commandment among those whom we must not hate reer by bleeding hares to death, and that his happiest or kill. He caused a feeling of hatred as leads you to wish a man dead, another to be thrown to wild beasts, because he was the Relief; if toothache, or earache, or taceache, I apply then you are a murderer at heart. I have often heard born on the same day he was. He took pleasure in little boys and girls say, "I will kill you," or "I cutting off the feet and putting out the eyes of such with you was dead." That is the feeling of a murderer, and a direct breach of this Commandment. dress, and others because they were too nice. He as-And suppose you were to see a little boy fallen into sumed the dress and name of Hercules, and went the water and drowning, and you had it in your pow- about in a lion's skin with a huge club in his hand, er to pull him out, and yet refused to do it, you would ordering persons not guilty of any crime to be dis-warn him to escape, but did not do it, you would be guilty of his death.

When the great book establishment of the Messrs. Harper in the city of New York took fire in 1853, and one of the brothers was asked by the firemen, "What part of the property shall we save first?" he promptly and nobly replied, "Save the lives." About six hundred persons were employed at the time in the various buildings of the establishment, all of whom were saved, by the most earnest exertions of the firemen, from an awful death. Had Mr. Harper said, "Rush into my office first, and save my books and money," as many a one would, and left men and women to perish, would he not have been guilty of murder?

A little boy was one day walking along the sidewalk of one of our large cities, where some very smooth ice was covered with a thin layer of snow, when he fell down very hard. As he was limping away from the place he met an old man, and said to him, "Take care, sir, when you get to that tree-box; there is very smooth ice there, and I got a bad fall." The old man thanked the boy, and said, "God bless

In another city, opposite to an alley where the water had run out and formed very smooth ice, some bad boys saw an old woman coming along, when they said to one another, "Let us throw some snow on the ice, and we will have the fun of seeing the old woman fall." She did fall, and broke her leg.

Now look at the contrast: the first boy obeyed this Commandment to the letter, the others broke it; and if the old woman died, they would have been accountable for her death.

Every thing you do to injure another, in person or character, is a breach of this Commandment; and the feeling that prompts you to do it is, just as far as it goes, the feeling of a murderer.

Some boys and girls are spiteful; they are unwilling to forgive those that offend them, and are all the time watching for an opportunity to take revenge. This, dear children, is the very spirit of the devil; and the more you harbor that spirit the more you are like the devil, who was a murderer from the beginning. Indeed, I have no doubt that his malice against God for turning him out of heaven was one thing that led him to seek the destruction of our first parents. I beseech you to banish from your mind at once all revengeful feelings. "Vengeance is mine; I will repay," saith the Lord. If any one does you harm unjustly, it is usually best to leave the matter with God. If you are obliged to defend yourself, do it by some lawful mode, and be careful not to show the same evil disporevenge is to do your enemy a good turn for an evil one; "in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head," or melt him by your kindness as gold is mel-

A neighbour once shot some fine hogs of mine that broke into his field. This wanton mischief roused my indignation, and I determined while I was in a passion to shoot as many belonging to him. Not many days after, his hogs got into my field. I took down my gun, and started to take revenge upon them; but on my way to the field the words of God came to mind, "Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord." I instantly went home and laid by the gun. In a few months all his hogs took the sore throat and died. So did God visit him in his righteous providence. In the eastern part of Pennsylvania there lived a good old Quaker, with a very bad neighbor who was in the habit of killing every stray animal that got into his fields. It happened one day that some sheep belonging to this good old man got into the neighbor's field, and as usual he killed them; and to show his evil disposition still more, he sent for the old man to come and take his sheep home. When he showed them to the old man dead, instead of being sorry for what he had done, he said, "I will kill every beast of yours that comes into my inclosure." "Well," said the Quaker, "I will make thee pay for that." Not long afterwards some of his sheep got into the Quaker's field. The good old man called his boys, and they drove the sheep into the stable and filled the rack with hay; he then sent for his troublesome neighbor to come and get his sheep. He came, expecting to find them dead; but what was his surprise when the Quaker took him to the stable where all his sheep were safe and sound, with plenty to eat. The effect of these "coals of fire on his head" was, that he paid the old man for all his sheep that he had ever killed, and was always afterwards a good neighbour.

Now if I had killed Mr. H---'s hogs, and the Quaker had killed his bad neighbor's sheep, we should have been like those that injured us. Try this Christian way, dear children, to take revenge for injuries you receive, and you will find it affords you the very best kind of "satisfaction."

But there is another thing embraced in this Commandment which I must not omit, as it prepares the way for making murderers : that is cruelty to insects, birds, and animals. Some children seem to delight in torturing little innocent creatures that cannot defend themselves. There are many creatures that God has made for our use for food; and so far as we need them it is right to kill them, but it should always be done in the least painful way possible. And then there are they come in our way. But millions of insects, birds, and animals, that injure no one, are killed every year The other case is when life is taken in punishment for mere sport; all such killing violates the spirit of When I see a little boy or girl catching butterflies, and clipping their wings, and then laughing at their helplessness, I say to myself, "There is a young When I see a boy running with his gun after the

Now, my dear children, I must close my notice of this commandment. November 23, 1865. A Slight Cold, Cough, Hoarseness, or Sore Threat, which might be checked with a simple remedy, if neglected, often terminates seriously. Few are aware of the importance of stopping a Lough or Eslight Rold in its first stage; that which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy, if not attended to, soon attacks the lungs. Brown's Branchial Fraches were first introduced eleven years ago.

It has been proved that they are the best article before the public for Caughs, Rolds, Branchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, the Hacking Cough in Kansumption, and numerous affections of the Threat, giving immediate relief. Public Speakers and Singers, will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. Sold by all Oruggists and Dealers in Medicine, at 25 cents per box. July 20, 1864 .- vi.

CAUTION! CAUTION THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND L CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale.

It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz. :--It washes all fine things, such as Muslin, Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c.; cleaning Sponges Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Feeling deeply the responsibility attached to this branch | Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as of our business, we shall use every precaution to ensure it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot All prescriptions attended to personally.

pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head by dissolving a teaspnonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured.

If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time-saves your clothes-saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washe For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improves them-by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flannels become white and soft like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for months. Thousands of Families made happy! No misery on a Washing Day, with Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal.
