

A portion is seen to be excited over the Fenian movement, more especially by the recent threats of the Brotherhood in the States. This, or some cause unknown, has caused them to run on the Banks for Gold. Yesterday, a large quantity of gold was withdrawn in small amounts—many thousands of dollars. We understand that the same class of persons have given notice to the Savings Bank of their intention to withdraw in all over $10,000, next week. It may be that these people have positive information of a contemplated descent by the Fenians on our City and its Banking institutions—a knowledge that is not possessed by others.—Morning Telegraph.

We understand that J. V. Troop, Esq., was yesterday (Tuesday), at Fredericton, sworn in as an Executive Councillor, to fill the vacancy created by Hon. Mr. Wilton's resignation.—Newes.

The receipts of the European and North American Railway for February, were $8,333, against $6,644, in 1865, being an increase of $1,689.

The Telegraph announces that the post of Collector in the Water Dept. will be filled by Mr. Chas. F. Flagg, formerly Station Master at Penobscot on the St. John and Shadawic Railway. The office of Station Master, vacated by Mr. Flagg, is to be filled by Mr. E. B. McCready.

Fifty-four workmen lost their lives by the burning of a building in Cronstadt recently. There were three doors to the building, but only one was unlocked, and all opened inward. The unfortunate men, pressing forward in crowds, kept it closed, and it had length to be broken down, but fifty-four men had already perished.

UNITED STATES.

Mrs. Johnson, the President of the United States, is seriously disappointing the hopes that were entertained of him at the time he was sworn in chief magistrate on the death of the lamented Lincoln. His veto of the Freedmen's Bureau bill awakened the most gloomy suspicions that he was on the wrong side; but since he has delivered a speech in Washington under circumstances calculated to lower his character as President, and uttered sentiments, which certainly should never come from the head of a great nation. Mr. Johnson is without doubt an unsafe man, and not to be relied on, and occupying the position that he does, it cannot be told how much injury may do, not only to his own country, but also by plunging other countries into difficulty. A Canadian contemporary gives the following contrast between Lincoln and Johnson:

The contrast between Presidents Lincoln and Johnson is great, and will appear much greater in history than it does at present. When the thousand and one events and passions of the day are forgotten by all except students of history, Abraham Lincoln will be remembered as the man who liberated four millions of men from slavery, Andrew Johnson as the man who refused them equal rights. The former allied himself to the religious, the conscientious, the enlightened, and the liberal minded all over the world. The latter has cast in his lot with the irreligious, the prejudiced, the ignorant and unjust. Booth, when he struck down Lincoln, was, it seems, after all, rendering most essential service to that dark spirit of slavery which has so long ruled the United States; for with the immense influence of the President opposed to negro emancipation (we use the word in the same sense that it was used with regard to the doubt that the deep prejudices of the great majority of the whites, both South and North), will carry the day against it.

The Morning Star, in an article on "Passing Events" says:

The action of the President in vetoing the Freedmen's Bureau bill, together with the events which have followed it, has occasioned much excitement in all parts of the country, and has caused in the mind of every sincere patriot gloomy and anxious forebodings.

In the House of Commons, 15th, Cardwell introduced a bill for future government of Jamaica. He briefly explained that Government had thought fit to ratify the decision which the Legislature of Jamaica arrived at, abolishing itself, and it would be proposed to establish Government similar to that in Trinidad for a period of three years, and if experiment was successful then made permanent, if not, some other arrangement devised.

In House of Commons 16th, Sir George Gray gave notice that on the following day Saturday, the House having agreed to specially meet that day, he would move for leave to bring in Bill to suspend for limited time the Habesas Corpus Act in Ireland. Loud and general cheers followed the announcement.

Colonial agents give notice that on 23d he would call attention to inadequacy of neutral laws to enable England to fulfil international obligations toward foreign countries.

Government Bill on cattle disease was debated, amended in several particulars, and passed through Committee.

In House of Lords 16th, Earl Russell announced proposed suspension of Habesas Corpus in Ireland, asked House to sit on Saturday, 17th, that no time might be lost in passing the measure. Earl Derby explained that Government had thought fit to ratify the word in the same sense that it was used with regard to the doubt that the deep prejudices of the great majority of the whites, both South and North, will carry the day against it.

The Morning Star, in an article on "Passing Events" says:

The action of the President in vetoing the Freedmen's Bureau bill, together with the events which have followed it, has occasioned much excitement in all parts of the country, and has caused in the mind of every sincere patriot gloomy and anxious forebodings.

In House of Lords 16th, Earl Russell announced proposed suspension of Habesas Corpus in Ireland, asked House to sit on Saturday, 17th, that no time might be lost in passing the measure. Earl Derby said it would be for Government to justify course to take place, and if Commons agreed to proposal of a pro-slavery cast were adopted and submitted to the President, and the meeting was adjourned by such men as S. S. Cox, Montgomery Blair, S. H. Hendricks of Indiana, and others of the same sort. Not a single Union speaker advertised was present.

At the conclusion of the speeches, the crowd, which seems to have partaken somewhat of the nature of a mob, repaired to the White House, and listened to a lengthy harangue by Andrew Johnson, in which he not only disgraced himself but the nation. His speech, abounding in egotism, and containing declarations of his love for the Union on the one hand, and attacks upon northern radicals on the other, is more keeping with his remarks in the Senate chamber on the 4th of March, than any utterances from his lips which we have seen since that time. In view of his proceedings a correspondent of a local journal who witnessed them well remarks: "The President Lincoln's own career is the most remarkable in this afternoon the political career of President Johnson has received a death blow in Grover's Theatre, from those who professed to be his friends."

An influential Ohio paper says:

The past week has been prolific in ill-omened fruits at Washington. After the first shock caused by the publication of the veto message had partially subsided, the telegraph reported a public speech, delivered on the 23d, in which Mr. Johnson, which in its vulgar condescension, is probably unique in a parallel in the history of the utterances of men in high official position. All true mankind, of whatever shade or party, must blush for shame at the spectacle which our chief ruler thus presented in stooping to the low demagogism of the most petty stump politician. It has usually been supposed that the public addresses of men in so exalted a station should at least be possessed of an ordinary measure of dignity. But to our unspeakable mortification, our President sees fit to indulge in the use of language and the expression of sentiments, which utterly outrage all propriety. It was a custom in an age less enlightened than ours, to have about the courts of kings, persons, who, by their vulgar, and often obscene jests, ministered to the amusement of the sovereign and those about their courts. Did the tastes of the present time demand the services of such an official, our court at Washington might be spared the necessity of picking among small towns thereby giving greater feeling of security.

Times assumes Gladstone's budget will show excess income over expenditure about three millions sterling. It thinks Gladstone will attempt to reduce National Debt.

Rumoured Sir Charles Wood, late Secretary for India, been offered and accepted passage.

Daily News believes Government have acceded to propositions of Roman Catholic hierarchy in Ireland, and that henceforth Senate of Queen's University in Ireland will consist of half Protestants and half Roman Catholics.

FRANCE.—In debate on the address, the Duke de Persigny contended that the English Parliamentary institutions were unfitted for France.

The Emperor said he had given to France double liberty founded on solid basis of authority, it depended on public opinion to develop the liberty granted by the constitution.

Rowland said existing liberties were sufficient, while Marquis de Boulay maintained contrary opinion, finding the address in response to the Emperor's Speech was not unanimous.

Woolley returns to Paris. France show an increase in cash of fifteen million francs. Bank reduced discount from five to four and a half. Among reasons assigned for the large stock of bullion in the Bank of France, while the drain was going on from England is the fact, that extraordinary large shipments of French manufacturers to the United States has all been for cash, while there have been no material investments in American bonds or other securities.

The Paris Patrie says the new Peruvian frigate Huanuco, lying at Brest had enlisted French sailors, but they were subsequently disengaged at the request of the authorities. Four hours off 97.

SPAIN.—The newly born child of the Queen died on the 14th. Court would remain closed three days as testimony of regret.

Cape of Good Hope Mails to Jan. 5th received. Between Free States and Basutos continued, but only in small. Great distress continued to prevail at the Cape among working classes from lack of employment, and farmers from failure of crops. A day of humiliation and prayer had been observed on account of drought.

Commercial matters dull, but breadstuffs considerably advanced in consequence of the blockade of Valparaiso.

LATER—Portuguese Telegraph of the 18th announces American squadron has sailed for the Mediterranean.

Letter from Rome says it was believed at the next Consistory a Bishop of United States will receive the Cardinal's hat.

London Times to-day gives great prominence to letter urging postponement of Reform question, on the ground that politicians show indifference to matter, and that Parliament has to consider many other pressing importance.

India.—Late advice report 4,000 Turks attacked Fenian Brotherhood, issued an appeal to the members of the order. He says:—"England is seeking to crush out a rebellion before it is well begun, by letting her jails well packed; and asks, 'Come forward to fight the common foe in the only way in which military aid can reach them. Not a man will be lost.' Your prompt assistance will enable us to take the field within blank days. Let men who can contrive send their money at once to these headquarters, for which they will receive Irish National Bonds."

The Treasury department issued circulars to the officers of the Customs, not to allow either Spanish or Portuguese vessels of war to enter ports of the United States with prizes or captures, except in distress.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Notwithstanding the circular which the Archibishop of New York sent to the clergy of the Roman Catholic Church on Saturday, and caused to be read in all the parishes, addressing Catholics in regard to Dr. Chase's Word, must still go on with an immense meeting of Fenians at the time and place named by the Head Centre. Several city railroad cars were broken down by the crowd of people.

One hundred thousand persons were on the ground at noon o'clock, and it was consequently one of the largest meetings ever held on this continent. Upwards of two hundred circles were represented. Five stands were erected for speakers. Judge Connelly presided at the principal stand.

Speeches were made by George Francis Train, Col. O'Malley, Judge Connolly, and many others. They were nearly all of the same burden—money was wanted.

The enthusiasm was unbounded and no serious disturbance occurred.

LONDON, March 5.—Captain John McCaffery, to bill suspending Habesas Corpus in Ireland on the 17th, Sir Geo. Gray in asking his leave to bring in bill amending Habesas Corpus Act in Ireland, said Fenian conspiracy was assumed present proportions. It was necessary to strike one effective blow. Scheme was wholly disengaged by American Government and loyalty of army was beyond doubt. Lord Lieutenant earnestly requested suspension, stating he could not hold himself responsible for the safety of the country if power was withheld.

Israel concurred. Bright protested, but would not oppose Government. Leave was granted by vote of 364, against 6. The bill was passed through all stages and sent to Lords, who suspending all orders, likewise passed the bill without opposition. Royal assent will be given at eleven o'clock Saturday.

LONDON, March 5.—It is given assent given to bill suspending Habesas Corpus in Ireland on the 17th. Upwards of one hundred arrests made in Dublin on 17th, principally strangers; amongst others Colonel John Wm. Byron of Federal army. Many more arrests expected.

It is reported that the Emperor of Austria is willing to furnish Maximilian with any troops required, on condition that they be incorporated in Mexican army and expenses be paid.

Diplomatic relationship ceased between Russia and Papal Court.

UNITED STATES.

Mrs. Johnson, the President of the United States, is seriously disappointing the hopes that were entertained of him at the time he was sworn in chief magistrate on the death of the lamented Lincoln. His veto of the Freedmen's Bureau bill awakened the most gloomy suspicions that he was on the wrong side; but since he has delivered a speech in Washington under circumstances calculated to lower his character as President, and uttered sentiments, which certainly should never come from the head of a great nation. Mr. Johnson is without doubt an unsafe man, and not to be relied on, and occupying the position that he does, it cannot be told how much injury may do, not only to his own country, but also by plunging other countries into difficulty. A Canadian contemporary gives the following contrast between Lincoln and Johnson:

The contrast between Presidents Lincoln and Johnson is great, and will appear much greater in history than it does at present. When the thousand and one events and passions of the day are forgotten by all except students of history, Abraham Lincoln will be remembered as the man who liberated four millions of men from slavery, Andrew Johnson as the man who refused them equal rights. The former allied himself to the religious, the conscientious, the enlightened, and the liberal minded all over the world. The latter has cast in his lot with the irreligious, the prejudiced, the ignorant and unjust. Booth, when he struck down Lincoln, was, it seems, after all, rendering most essential service to that dark spirit of slavery which has so long ruled the United States; for with the immense influence of the President opposed to negro emancipation (we use the word in the same sense that it was used with regard to the doubt that the deep prejudices of the great majority of the whites, both South and North), will carry the day against it.

The Morning Star, in an article on "Passing Events" says:

The action of the President in vetoing the Freedmen's Bureau bill, together with the events which have followed it, has occasioned much excitement in all parts of the country, and has caused in the mind of every sincere patriot gloomy and anxious forebodings.

In the House of Commons, 15th, Cardwell introduced a bill for future government of Jamaica. He briefly explained that Government had thought fit to ratify the decision which the Legislature of Jamaica arrived at, abolishing itself, and it would be proposed to establish Government similar to that in Trinidad for a period of three years, and if experiment was successful then made permanent, if not, some other arrangement devised.

In House of Commons 16th, Earl Russell announced proposed suspension of Habesas Corpus in Ireland, asked House to sit on Saturday, 17th, that no time might be lost in passing the measure. Earl Derby said it would be for Government to justify course to take place, and if Commons agreed to proposal of a pro-slavery cast were adopted and submitted to the President, and the meeting was adjourned by such men as S. S. Cox, Montgomery Blair, S. H. Hendricks of Indiana, and others of the same sort. Not a single Union speaker advertised was present.

At the conclusion of the speeches, the crowd, which seems to have partaken somewhat of the nature of a mob, repaired to the White House, and listened to a lengthy harangue by Andrew Johnson, in which he not only disgraced himself but the nation. His speech, abounding in egotism, and containing declarations of his love for the Union on the one hand, and attacks upon northern radicals on the other, is more keeping with his remarks in the Senate chamber on the 4th of March, than any utterances from his lips which we have seen since that time. In view of his proceedings a correspondent of a local journal who witnessed them well remarks: "The President Lincoln's own career is the most remarkable in this afternoon the political career of President Johnson has received a death blow in Grover's Theatre, from those who professed to be his friends."

An influential Ohio paper says:

The past week has been prolific in ill-omened fruits at Washington. After the first shock caused by the publication of the veto message had partially subsided, the telegraph reported a public speech, delivered on the 23d, in which Mr. Johnson, which in its vulgar condescension, is probably unique in a parallel in the history of the utterances of men in high official position. All true mankind, of whatever shade or party, must blush for shame at the spectacle which our chief ruler thus presented in stooping to the low demagogism of the most petty stump politician. It has usually been supposed that the public addresses of men in so exalted a station should at least be possessed of an ordinary measure of dignity. But to our unspeakable mortification, our President sees fit to indulge in the use of language and the expression of sentiments, which utterly outrage all propriety. It was a custom in an age less enlightened than ours, to have about the courts of kings, persons, who, by their vulgar, and often obscene jests, ministered to the amusement of the sovereign and those about their courts. Did the tastes of the present time demand the services of such an official, our court at Washington might be spared the necessity of picking among small towns thereby giving greater feeling of security.

Times assumes Gladstone's budget will show excess income over expenditure about three millions sterling. It thinks Gladstone will attempt to reduce National Debt.

Rumoured Sir Charles Wood, late Secretary for India, been offered and accepted passage.

Daily News believes Government have acceded to propositions of Roman Catholic hierarchy in Ireland, and that henceforth Senate of Queen's University in Ireland will consist of half Protestants and half Roman Catholics.

FRANCE.—In debate on the address, the Duke de Persigny contended that the English Parliamentary institutions were unfitted for France.

The Emperor said he had given to France double liberty founded on solid basis of authority, it depended on public opinion to develop the liberty granted by the constitution.

Rowland said existing liberties were sufficient, while Marquis de Boulay maintained contrary opinion, finding the address in response to the Emperor's Speech was not unanimous.

Woolley returns to Paris. France show an increase in cash of fifteen million francs. Bank reduced discount from five to four and a half. Among reasons assigned for the large stock of bullion in the Bank of France, while the drain was going on from England is the fact, that extraordinary large shipments of French manufacturers to the United States has all been for cash, while there have been no material investments in American bonds or other securities.

The Paris Patrie says the new Peruvian frigate Huanuco, lying at Brest had enlisted French sailors, but they were subsequently disengaged at the request of the authorities. Four hours off 97.

SPAIN.—The newly born child of the Queen died on the 14th. Court would remain closed three days as testimony of regret.

Cape of Good Hope Mails to Jan. 5th received. Between Free States and Basutos continued, but only in small. Great distress continued to prevail at the Cape among working classes from lack of employment, and farmers from failure of crops. A day of humiliation and prayer had been observed on account of drought.

Commercial matters dull, but breadstuffs considerably advanced in consequence of the blockade of Valparaiso.

LATER—Portuguese Telegraph of the 18th announces American squadron has sailed for the Mediterranean.

Letter from Rome says it was believed at the next Consistory a Bishop of United States will receive the Cardinal's hat.

London Times to-day gives great prominence to letter urging postponement of Reform question, on the ground that politicians show indifference to matter, and that Parliament has to consider many other pressing importance.

India.—Late advice report 4,000 Turks attacked Fenian Brotherhood, issued an appeal to the members of the order. He says:—"England is seeking to crush out a rebellion before it is well begun, by letting her jails well packed; and asks, 'Come forward to fight the common foe in the only way in which military aid can reach them. Not a man will be lost.'

Your prompt assistance will enable us to take the field within blank days. Let men who can contrive send their money at once to these headquarters, for which they will receive Irish National Bonds."

The Treasury department issued circulars to the officers of the Customs, not to allow either Spanish or Portuguese vessels of war to enter ports of the United States with prizes or captures, except in distress.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Notwithstanding the circular which the Archibishop of New York sent to the clergy of the Roman Catholic Church on Saturday, and caused to be read in all the parishes, addressing Catholics in regard to Dr. Chase's Word, must still go on with an immense meeting of Fenians at the time and place named by the Head Centre. Several city railroad cars were broken down by the crowd of people.

One hundred thousand persons were on the ground at noon o'clock, and it was consequently one of the largest meetings ever held on this continent. Upwards of two hundred circles were represented. Five stands were erected for speakers. Judge Connelly presided at the principal stand.

Speeches were made by George Francis Train, Col. O'Malley, Judge Connolly, and many others. They were nearly all of the same burden—money was wanted.

The enthusiasm was unbounded and no serious disturbance occurred.

LONDON, March 5.—Captain John McCaffery, to bill suspending Habesas Corpus in Ireland on the 17th, Sir Geo. Gray in asking his leave to bring in bill amending Habesas Corpus Act in Ireland, said Fenian conspiracy was assumed present proportions. It was necessary to strike one effective blow. Scheme was wholly disengaged by American Government and loyalty of army was beyond doubt. Lord Lieutenant earnestly requested suspension, stating he could not hold himself responsible for the safety of the country if power was withheld.

Israel concurred. Bright protested, but would not oppose Government. Leave was granted by vote of 364, against 6. The bill was passed through all stages and sent to Lords, who suspending all orders, likewise passed the bill without opposition. Royal assent will be given