Before it was fairly light the next morning, the lads were engaged in eager conference. Very little sleep had fallen upon either of them in the night. Heated brains had brooded over the trouble, but failed to see any light breaking upon it.

"You see we want the money at once. It is not as if we could wait and earn it. I only see one way, Charlie-confess it to father, and take the consequences. It might not be as bad as we fear. We would pay every penny of it in time. My salary, except what is necessary for my clothes, should go toward it. You could do without your usual pocketmoney; it would not be pleasant -."

"Harry, as if I cared for the pleasantness! I would tell father, but I dare not. He would perhaps imprison me. He would show me no mercy. He would not cover my fault. Every one would know it, and I should never dare to hold up my head again. If only I could get the money for the present I would not care. I would ask father to let me be his clerk to put me in the way of earning the money."

Harry took up a paper and glanced idly over its first pages.

"Charlie, a thought has struck me. See what a number of advertisements there are here. And it is very certain that they pay. Otherwise they would limbs. not be inserted. Could not we get the money in some similar way ?"

They were bending over and reading some of them: -"Your future foretold for one shilling. Address, enlosing stamps," &c.

"Constant employment guaranteed by Augustus reply." And so on.

"You know, Harry," said Charlie, "if the people sent any stamps in answer to my advertisement, I would return them all as soon as I could; so perhaps it would not be very wrong. Let us try it-anything rather than the risk of father's anger."

So these young men set themselves to concoct an advertisement that should gain the missing money from the pockets of strangers rather than reveal their loss to the father, who should be the very first thought of his sons in trouble and perplexity. Let it be understood that this would not have been a serious loss to Mr. Browne; it was not because the monetary conse- It was as so much Greek to him. The next morning, in the principal daily papers, appeared this among a hundred others :-

HOW TO INCREASE YOUR INCOME BY £2 per week. Whether all advertisements of the kind meet with similar success, or whether there was a stamp of genuineness in this rather un-business like notice, I cannot tell. One thing only is certain-the credulous public caught at it.

"I will call at the post-office this morning," said Harry, the day after its appearance. "We must not be disappointed if there should be no letters. The hands. advertisement may not yet have been noticed.

Harry was known and respected in the town. He met several persons who saluted him respectfully. "Mr. Henry Brown," they said, "will one day be among our most thriving townsfolk."

He could not help feeling that it was wrong, but comforted himself that it was for Charlie's sake, and that He went on to tell his father what the reader already they would honestly return every penny of it. "Are there any letters left here for Edgar Elliott?"

pockets, hurrying off to tell Charlie. "Now, remember, Charlie, boy, not one of these is to be destroyed. Keep the letters until you are replied. able to send 5s. to every address contained in them.'

They broke the seals and took out the stamps. Then Charlie read one of the letters:-"SIR-I hope you are not deceiving the public. I am in great distress, being young and delicate, with a widowed mother depending upon me. I have no which the public had fallen. He proceeded to ex-

In the evening of the day on which they had resolved to return the letters, a stranger had arrived at Bradburn and requested to see the postmaster. They were in close conversation for about half an hour, and then he was shown out by the private door, saying, as he left, "I will be here by the time of opening." He was as good as his word. Early in the morning he came to the office, and was accommodated with a seat and the morning paper. No warning had Henry Browne. He came as usual, his young face clouded with care on what had become a more and more distasteful errand.

"Any letters?" "Yes, sir. Have you any stamps to change this morning ?"

" Not this morning, thank you." He had merely given a casual glance at the person apparently absorbed in reading the paper, and had not noticed a shadow in the doorway. He turned to go when a hand was laid on his shoulder, and he confronted two stern faces: one was the stranger in plain clothes, the other wore the ominous garb of a police-color fled from his face and all the strength from his "It is a a disagreeable duty we perform, but we

Not a word had Henry Browne-to say to it all. He went with the policeman, heedless of the pitying glances of the postmaster, or the curious ones of the Vernon De Lapre. Enclose forty-eight stamps for crowd in the street, heeding nothing until a quick step came toward them, and a haughty voice inquired, "What is the meaning of this? Where are you tak-

Rather staggering than walking, Mr. Browne reached his home. The blow had bewildered him. Surely his son, his eldest boy, whom he had always considered the very soul of honor, had not committed a crime! "Obtaining money by false pretences!"

Mr. Browne called for Charlie, who, hearing the stern tone of his father, came dreading he knew "What is all this about, Henry?" he demanded.

"All what, father? I have neither seen nor heard anything of him since he left in the morning. I hope," he added in a tone of alarm, "that nothing

Mr. Browne could scarcely speak. He was ashamed to confess even to his son what he had seen. "I have just met him in the street; he has-he has -done something-and-and has been arrested." "Oh, father! what has he done?"

"That is precisely what I wish you to tell me. I was informed that he had obtained money by false

"Charles you must! Do you wish me to learn it from some stranger's lips, who would have no sympathy with me or my grief? "It was through my carelessness," broke out

Charlie; -and Mr. Browne ejaculated, "No doubt." Arrived at the post-office a flush came to his face. "I wish I had told you before; Harry advised me to do so, but I was afraid. I lost a twenty-pound note."

Mr. Browne controlled himself to listen to the end. "Yes, sir; a good number. They have been com- Then he said, "It is a shame for boys thus to deceive their father, and the consequences be on your own heads. Bring me the advertisement and the answers." Charlie did so. He said again, "I wish I had told you, father, but I was afraid."

"Wrong-doers are always cowards," Mr. Browne

But when Charles sat in a far corner of the room there was a sore place in Mr. Browne's heart; he grieved for the loss of his children's confidence, though he did nothing to win it. He carefully read the advertisement, and saw at once the trap into settled income, and your advertisement therefore was amine the letters having no doubt but that the proseand that he should find some clue to him in one of Harry's heart misgave him. At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following highly satisfactory results were shown :-

FIRE DEPARTMENT. The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct insurance companies of this kingdom. The Premiums for the year 1855 being.....£130,060

While the Premiums for the year 1558 are.... 196,148 Showing an actual increase of 66,088 or upwards of 50 per cent. in three years. The recent returns of duty made by Government for this atter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Commoiety of its advance.

LIFE DEPARTMENT. The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is by far the largest received in any similar period since the encement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. CAUTION! CAUTION CAUTION! THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale.

It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.:—It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c,; cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teaspnonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured.

If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time—saves your clothes—saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improves them-by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flan-nels become white and soft like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for months. Thousands of Families made happy! No misery on a Washing Day, with Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal.

In 1856 Radway's Ready Relief cured thousands of perons seized with Yellow Fever. As a preventive of this terrible disease, Dr. Frederick B. Page, of Mississippi, urged its use to the medical boards of the Southern States, and publicly recommended it as the most certain safeguard

DURING THE WAR More lives were saved by the use of Radway's Beady Relief than from the best efforts of the medical staff. We have hundreds of letters proving this fact. We have the For changing gray or faded Hair to its original color | evidence to prove that in cases where men, by exposure to malarious swamps, bottom lands, rice fields, etc., used Radway's Ready Relief, invariably escaped sickness; those who did not, were seized with Dysentery, Swamp Fevers, Billious Fevers, Diarrhoa, Cholera, Rheumatism, &c., and those only who, when thus seized, used the Ready Relief, entirely recovered.

ITS UNIVERSAL USE. It cures the worst diseases incidental to all climates. It has been tested in Asia, Africa, South America, Europe, East and West Indies, and cured the worst forms of Cholera, Dysentery, Fluxes, Fevers, Yellow Fever, Swamp Marsh, Ship and other Fevers-and never failed in protecting persons who used it as a preventive against attacks. WHY NOT?

If Radway's Ready Relief possesses such remarkable lisinfecting, neutralising, strengthening, aperient, suodorific, anodyne, and other properties, as to cure the worst forms of disease as they exist, in the most sickly climates of the world, and where the poisonous malaria is so thick that you may almost "cut it with a knite," why not cure, with the great ease it does, all sorts of fevers of the milder type, in our own climate? Diarrhea. Dysentery, Fever and Ague, Billious Fever, Influenza, &c.. are but the milder and weaker forms of the more terrible diseases. If i cures the worst forms as they exist in the most sickly climates, it will readily cure the less as they prevail amongs
