His parents' blue-eyed little pet, Tripped up one morn, and down be fell. His mother cried, "Come, Willie, let Me kiss the spot, and make it well."

A mother's kiss bath power to cure; Her love is balm for every wound ; Her gentle smile, her words so pure, Can heal the bruise, and make us sound. And if there come a bruised heart.

And bitter tears arise and swell, A mother's love still soothes the smart-A mother's kiss will make it well!

What matter if the world forget To praise us for the good we do; Or, if it never pays the debt Which to our faithfulness is due.

A mother's sympathy is ours, Wherever on the earth we dwell; Though gone forever childhood's hours, The mother-kiss still makes us well,

My mother's hair is grey, and mine Is slightly touched with silver streaks; I am a full-grown man, but Time Has deeply marked my mother's cheeks Yet still her thrilling kiss is warm, Upon my brow, imprinted well; Through all my life it hath a charm, My mother's kiss, to make me well!

From infancy until to-day, In sickness, sorrow, and mistrust, Her gentle words drive care away, And lift my spirit from the dust. She tells me that the angels call, That she must go with God to dwell; My broken heart! if such befall,

No mother's kiss will make thee well!

I told him that for a few days I to this subject. -S. Chipman. shewed a little wormwood as a substitute, and he said he once knew a company of prisoners who used a strong decoction of wormwood, and in a short time the craving for tobacco passed away.

Eminent physicians have united in the opinion that tobacco has cut short as many lives as alcohol, and ceived the day before. One of the merchants handed Fisher, Otter, &c., at LEMONT'S Variety Store. Dec 7. bids equal defiance to the effect of remedies prescribed for diseases produced from other causes. Having entered my seventy-seventh year, I was attacked by an acute and agonizing disease, and my physician declared that nothing but my strict temperance could have saved me from death.

I argued with a Christian neighbor who constantly used tobacco, and acknowledged its injurious influence, that he was not born with a love of tobacco, but had voluntarily brought the evil upon himself and it was his duty to God, no less than to himself and his fellow-men, at once to give it up. He did so at once and forever. He too substituted for a time the use of wormwood. I saw him a few months after, when he joyfully said, "I have conquered that foe. and have no fear of being brought into bondage again by him." "How much money," said I, "would buy you back ?" "Money," said he, "could not do it. I think I should not have lived long if I had not got rid of the fithy stuff. I used to have spasms, which were but the beginning of delirium tremens brought on by tobacco, but now I feel like another man." Another neighbor was a money-changer, but found that his use of tobacco unfitted him for business. His love of money gained the ascendancy; he gave up tobacco and became wealthy, saying he would yet give one thousand dollars if he could still chew and have health.

The habit is inconsistent with consecration to God, for "No man can serve two masters."

I am too noble, and of too high a birth, said Senaca, to be a slave to my bedy, which I look upon HASTY WORDS.

Solomon, reputedly the wisest mere man that ever whose wisdom has been handed down to us embodied in proverbs, often spoke in praise of silence. He says, "There is a time to keep silence as well as a time to speak." "In the multitude of words there wanteth not sin; but he that refraineth his lips is wise." "A fool's mouth is his destruction, and his lips are the snare of his soul." " A fool uttereth all bis mind, but a wise man keepeth it in till afterwards." | 1 case Tonquin Beans, Julap, Spanish Saffron; 1 case Py-"Whose keepeth his mouth and his tongue, keepeth his soul from trouble." These are all wise and weighty sayings, whose truthfulness may be corroborated every day.

In my domiciliary visitations, I have found many illustrations of the evils of hasty speech and the value of enforced silence. Take two:-

A. and B. were husband and wife, both young, with a family of little children. A. had a favorite dog, which, much to the annoyance of B., was encouraged to come into the house, and occasionally to sit on a chair, or even lie on a table. One day the Cloves; 160 ozs. Nitrate Silver. dog was taking his usual repose when husband and wife were both at home. The latter pettishly declared the creature should not be so indulged, and threw it violently on the floor. This roused the anger of the former, and he now reinstated his favorite, and declared it should not be interfered with by any one with impunity. The wife, instead of silently yielding or quietly expostulating, flew into a rage, and loudly declared that she would kill the dog very shortly. This intensified the husband's rage, and he then threatened to kick the wife out of the house if | DAISINS, ALMONDS AND NUTS .- 100 boxes Layer she dared even to touch the dog with one of her fingers. Hearing all this, but resolving not to yield, the Brazil Nuts. wife flew at the dog, and once more threw it on the floor. The husband instantly felled her to the ground, kicked her into the street, forbade her ever again en' tering his house or speaking to one of his children, and locked the door against her. Weeks after that I saw that woman with an almost broken heart, still estranged from her husband and home, stealing an opportunity to see and converse with her own children. Surely grievous words stir up anger, promote strife, and lead to lamentable consequences. Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth ! But take an opposite case-C. and D. were hus-

DRINKING COMMERCE. Five years ago, a large number of persons who were earning considerable wages at the Nottingham potteries, signed the pledge, and the residents in the neighbourhood discovered, to their astonishment, that their business had increased in a remarkable manner, and the solution was found in the fact, that about £10,400 had been in a short space of time taken out of the public house, and about £20,000 had been put into the pockets of other tradesmen. THE ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY, 92

Lombard-street, London, and Royal Insurance build-Chairman of the London Board .- SAMUEL BAKER, Esq. Chairman in Liverpool .- CHARLES TURNER, Esq. The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest Iffices in the kingdom. At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following highly satisfactory results were shown: FIRE DEPARTMENT. The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct are insurance companies of this kingdom.

The Premiums for the year 1855 being.....£180,060 While the Premiums for the year 1558 are.... 196,148 Showing an actual increase of 66,088 upwards of 50 per cent. in three years. The recent returns of duty made by Government for this latter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an | advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the olety of its advance.

LIFE DEPARTMENT. The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is og far the largest received in any similar period since the nencement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 882, the sum assured £887,752 6s. 8d., and the premiun £12,854 3s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension pusiness during the last ten years.
