For the Religious Intelligencer. THY REWARD IS IN HEAVEN. Though oceans between us their dark billows roll, No distance our union shall part; But friendship for thee shall remain in my soul,

And thy memory shall live in my heart. The words of thy lips have been cherished by me, They shall cheer my loan heart as I foam; They shall be as a light on my dark stormy sea, And shall be help to guide me safe home.

Home to heaven, I mean, where the weary shall rest; Where the ransomed of Jesus abide; Where to praise Him forever, the lovely, the best, Who to save me hath suffered and died.

Well may you be faithful my brother, my friend, Well may you be valiant and true; So spend and be spent till thy mission shall end, Christ is worthy of all you can do.

Dear brother go on in the work of thy Lord, In the way our dear leader has shown; By the shape of his armor, and make of his sword, A true soldier of Jesus is known. The cause of thy Master is dear to thy heart,

More precious than silver or gold; Thou hast chosen that better, that fadeless part That brings comfort and joy to the soul. How glorious thy rest with His people shall be,

When on earth thy sweet labors are done; Thy reward is in heaven now waiting for thee, And thy crown shining bright as the sun. Those who love to obey their dear Saviour's command Shall reign in His kingdom above; It's the faithful alone in His presence shall stand To bask in the smiles of His love.

Through His grace I will ever stand firm at my post; With His Word for my compass and guide, I shall weather the headlands of life's dreary coast, And the waters of death's chilling tide.

With Christ for my pilot all danger I'll brave, Though the breakers around me do roar; He will bring me in safety across th dark wave, And land me on Canaan's bright shore.

Though now from your circle all lonely I stray, Yet my heart and affections are there; Oh, remember the Sailor, who is now far away, When you meet at your Bethel for prayer.

Miscellaueous.

What his uncle would have said, I cannot tell, for just then a man came rushing in, all out of breath, saying in an excited manner, "There's an awful row down at Simpson's-I'm afraid there'll be blooshed." "Bloodshed!" and Mr. Allen's heart stood still in his bosom. "What do you mean, man?" "Simpson's got it into his addled head that his wife has done something with Kitty. Kitty was sent on an errand, you know. She's just running home. So he dragged his wife up into a chamber, and has locked her in there with him. He has an axe there and threatens to kill her, and stands ready to hew down the first man that breaks open the door. | Apr 3.

Poor Mrs. Simpson is screaming and begging for somebody to save her, and nobody dares to go nea that madman."

Mr. Allen seized his hat and rushed down th street with the crowd of men and boys who were going to see "what was the row at Simpson's." Suddenly there was a cry of fire, and soon the saw the flames bursting from the chimney of Simp son's house and catching upon the roof.

I don't think, boys, that this pen of mine can cor vey to you any picture of the awful scene transpirin beneath that burning roof. Kitty reached home t hear her mother's screams, and her father's terribl threats, but before any harm had been done. Th dear child ran lightly up stairs and putting her lips tthe key-hole, said in her clear, piping voice, "Father dear father, I've come! I'm Kitty, father.! Let m in, papa, please." The door was instantly opened, and the wretched man thrust his wife from the room. and clasped his child to his bosom. Only for a mo ment, however, and then there came other visions to his excited mind. He was a murderer, fleeing from justice-so he thought-this child, this idolized daughter, was the sole witness against him. Something told him he must sacrifice this one ewe lamb to save his own life and his soul from perdition! Now it was all real to him, he heard outside the voices o his enemies come to drag him to judgment. And his sole reply to every voice demanding admission, telling him they were his friends and neighbours, was, "What officer are you?" in such a hollow tone or utter despair as thrilled the souls of the listeners with pity and borror. I have heard some of them say they shall never forget it to their dying day.

Now in a closet off the chamber was stored large quantities of old fyles of newspapers. A large grate was in the room. He would make a funeral pyre, he would lay his child first upon it, then himself, and they would awake together in the blissful region somewhere beyond the stars.

So with his sunken eyes fixed in horrible intensity upon the little one's face, he whispered it all to the dear little innocent face uplifted to his. Poor little Years. No. of Policies. Sums Assured. New Premiums. Kitty! She had never seen her father in such a mood before. Her soft little hand upon his brow, and her rosy cheek pressed to his, always before had stilled the tempest in his soul. But now he was haggard, stern, unrelenting, with a pitiless determination in his gleaming eyes.

"It won't hurt long, Kitty; we'll die together, Kittie-" and high up in the grate he heaped the papers, and dragged out a huge chest filled them to feed the flames when his child should be laid upon him. It was Kitty's turn now to cry, "Save me! oh, save me!" and battering blows came again upon the door, and determined men stood there ready to force an entrance. Again the maniac stationed himself with the ming axe uplifted. "Don't come," sobbed poor little Kitty, "he'll kill you! he'll kill you!" Then a thought flashed into the child's mind like an inspiration. "Oh, pa, the fire's all down! get more papers, papa, and we'll go together, now." He laid down the axe, stepped into the closet for more papers, and the child sprang to the door, pressed it to with all her little strength, the bolt sprung and-Kitty was saved. It was the work of a moment to unlock the chamber door, and then she fell fainting Poor Charlie felt sober enough as he stood there into the arms stretched out to receive her.

RUST, GILDING, AND POLISH.—Some people are rusty. Their harsh, ungainly manners eat out whatever is good in their own character, and saw the very fiesh of those that come near them.

Some people are gilt. A very brilliant exterior they present; but the first brush of hard using rubs off the gilding, and reveals the base metal beneath. A third class are polished. The polish, indeed, is on the surface; but it is a polish on the surface of so-

The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct fire insurance companies of this kingdom. The Premiums for the year 1855 being.....£130,060 While the Premiums for the year 1558 are.... 196,148 Showing an actual increase of 66,088 or upwards of 50 per cent. in three years. The recent returns of duty made by Government for this latter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than naintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the LIFE DEPARTMENT. The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is og far the largest received in any similar period since the commencement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the premiu £12,354 3s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension f business during the last ten years. if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale.

It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.:—It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c.; cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teasphonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured. If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time-saves your clothes—saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improve them-by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flan-nels become white and soft like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for months. Thousands of Families made happy! No misery on a Washing Day, with Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal.
