(From the Advocate.) LOOK NOT ON THE WINE. BY O. WALLACE BOYDEN. Look not on the wine when 'tis red ! There's a spectre beneath the bright wave, Though you see in it nothing to dread, 'Tis the agent of hell and the grave. Where the foam sparkles bright on its surface, beware!

Look not on the wine in your joy ! Though it add to the moment's delight, 'Tis a tempter that lures to destroy, 'Tis a serpent that charms but to bite. At the feast where the goblet is circling with zest, There is always, unnoticed, a skeleton guest.

Underneath is the gulf of eternal despair.

Lock not on the wine in your sorrow! Though it drown for the moment your grief, It will meet you again on the morrow, 'Tis at best but a moment's relief. Meet your fate like a man in the image of God; Plunge not 'neath the waters of Lethe's dark flood.

Look not on the wine when forsaken By the friends whom you fondly deemed true; If in friendship your faith had been shaken, Trust in God! 'tis the least you can do. For the red, rosy wine, with its ambient glow Is deceitful alike, both to friend and to foe.

Then look not on the red, rosy wine! 'Tis a snare that the tempter has given; Worship not at the soul-luring shrine, Though 'tis clad in the livery of heaven. In the grape's purple blood, oh! who would yet lave, Could they see but the misery that lies 'neath its wave.

After he had rested a little longer, he rose up to leave, when the schoolmaster's wife said to him: "Why will you leave us so soon? If it is agreeable to you, you can stay with us some days longer. We cannot do much for you except to love you; if love can take the place of large gifts, you shall certainly have it." But the old beggar was determined to leave. "Good people," said he, "I can really not stay with you, for a companion is waiting for me in the neighboring village. Believe me that I shall never forget your kind reception; and as soon as I can I will return again, and if it is ever possible I will return your kindness."

He then kissed all the children, from the youngest up to the oldest, pressed the hands of the good schoolmaster and his wife, and then went on his way with his little pack.

Some days after this the court of the castle of Baron Grimmenstein was all astir again with excitement. The gateway was covered with flowers and evergreens that had been brought there to adorn it; all the servnats were clad in their gayest livery. Certainly it must be something quite extraordinary that could induce the avaricious Baron to make all arrangements. Strange to say, a messenger had come the day before announcing that the Baron's uncle, old Count Schonbeim, was to arrive the next day. This was the uncle at whose death the Baron expected such a large increase of wealth.

By and by the hour came when the expected uncle had promised to come, and Baron Grimmenstein went out of his castle and along the road in order to meet him. Finally, a cloud of dust was seen in the distance, and a splendid barouche, drawn by four horses, drove up to the castle-gate. The young Baron watched it with great eagerness, and as soon as the swift horses stopped, hastened up to the door to open it. What was his astonishment to see that the man who stepped out, and who was ornamented with shining badges of nobility, was dressed in only a simple suit of gray clothes. THE ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY, 92 Lombard-street, London, and Royal Insurance buildgs, Liverpool. rman of the London Board,-Samuel Baker, Esq.

Chairman in Liverpool.—CHARLES TURNER, Esq. The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest Offices in the kingdom. At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following nighly satisfactory results were shown :--FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct fire insurance companies of this kingdom. The Premiums for the year 1855 being.....£130,060 While the Premiums for the year 1558 are.... 196,148

Showing an actual increase of...... 66,088 or upwards of 50 per cent. in three years. The recent returns of duty made by Government for this latter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the moiety of its advance.

LIFE DEPARTMENT. The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is by far the largest received in any similar period since the mencement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the premium £12,854 8s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension of business during the last ten years. Thus: Years. No. of Policies. Sums Assured. New Premiums £48,764 17 0 422 181,504 10 6 161,848 13 4 4,694 16 0

387,752 6 8 The remarkable increase in the business of the last four years, is mainly consequent upon the large bonus declared n 1855, which amounted to no less than £2 per cent. per annum on the sums assured and averaged 80 per cent, upon
