THE RESURRECTION.

"A seed found in the hand of a mummy two thousand years old, when planted, blossomed into a beautiful flower. Two thousand years ago, a flower blossomed brightly in a far-off land; Two thousand years ago, its seed Was placed within a dead man's hand. Before the Saviour came to earth, That man had lived, and loved, and died; And even in that far-off time; The flower had spread its perfume wide. Suns rose and set, years came and went, The dead had kept its treasure well; Nations were born and turned to dust, While life was hidden in that shell. The shrouded land is robbed at last, The seed is buried in the earth; When, lo, the life, long hidden there Into a glorious flower burst forth! Just such a plant as that which grew From such a seed when buried low; Just such a flower in Egypt bloomed And died two thousand years ago. And will not He who watched the seed And kept the life within the shell, When those His loves are laid to rest, Watch o'er their buried dust as well? And will He not from 'neath the sod Cause something glorious to arise? Aye, though it sleep two thousand years, Yet all that buried dust shall rise. Just such a face as greets you now, Just such a form as here we wear, Only more glorious far will rise To meet the Saviour in the air. Then will I lay me down in peace, When called to leave this vale of tears, For 'in my flesh shall I see God,' Even though I sleep two thousand years. Mrs. SARAH H. BRADFORD.

Miscellaneous.

THE CHILDREN OVER THE WAY.

It was a gay party which gathered round Uncle William that bleak afternoon, and the little girl sobbing by the low attic window passed from the minds of all. Uncle William was to leave the city in an early night train, so it was necessary for him to have his sister's good-bye 'o'clock. When he had bidden them all good-bye, he turned to the children and said: "Now, little folks, I am going to leave something with you." He placed a bright, shining five-dollar gold piece into the hand of each, and added, "I shall pay you a visit in May. This money is yours to spend or do with as you please, and I will expect you to render me an account of it when I come again." How eagerly those little hands closed over the bright bit, and it was theirs to do as they pleased. Each compared their's with the others, and great was the talk they occasioned. Suddenly a grave look settled over Ida's sweet face, and going to her mother's side, she whispered, "Mother, I know what I would like to do with my gold piece."

THE ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY, 92 Lombard-street, London, and Royal Insurance Building, Liverpool.

THE ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY, 92 Lombard-street, London, and Royal Insurance Building, Liverpool. The London Board—SAMUEL BAKER, Esq., Chairman in Liverpool—CHARLES TURNER, Esq. The Liverpool Board—JAMES WILLIAMS, Esq., Chairman. The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest Offices in the world. At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following night's statement was shown:— The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the following facts:—that the increase since the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the leading companies of this Kingdom. The recent returns of the Government for this latter year (1859) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the rate of increase as stated in former years. Only one of the London companies has shown an increase to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the ratio of its increase.

EATING CLOUDS.

Dr. Livingston, relating his adventures on Lake Nyassa, thus tells of one curiosity which he fell in with:— "During a portion of the year, the northern dwellers on the lake have a harvest which furnishes a singular kind of food. As we approached our limit in that direction, clouds, as of smoke rising from miles of burning grass, were observed bending in a southerly direction, and we thought that the unseen land on the opposite side was closing in, and that we were near the end of the lake. But next morning we sailed through one of the clouds on our own side, and discovered that it was neither smoke nor haze, but countless millions of minute midges called "kanga" (a cloud or fog). They filled the air to an immense height, and swarmed upon the water, too light to sink in it. Eyes and mouth had to be kept closed while passing through this living cloud; they struck upon the face like fine drifting snow. Thousands lay in the boat when she emerged from the cloud of midges. The people gather these minute insects by night and boil them into thick cakes, to be used as a relish—millions of midges in a cake. A kanga-cake an inch thick, and as large as the blue-bottle of a Scotch plowman, was offered to us; it was very dark in color, and tasted not unlike caviare, or salted loams. A GENUINE LITTLE BAPTIST. A Cincinnati friend gives us this interesting little story, connected with the recent revival at Newport, on the Kentucky side, opposite to Cincinnati:— "Among the converts is a very interesting little girl of nine years. After she had found the Saviour, she went to her mother and asked permission to be baptized. Her mother objected that the knew nothing about baptism; but the little girl said, 'Yes, mamma, I do;' and hastening to her room, brought back her Bible, and pointed out the places where it tells of going down into the water and being buried with Christ. "But," continued the mother, "you are not fit to be baptized—you are not a Christian." "Yes, mamma, I think I am." "What makes you think so?" "Well, I don't know as I can quite explain it all. But, mamma, I used to read the Bible so as to get praise for good answers in my Sabbath-school class; now I love to read it, because it is Jesus' word. Now I love to pray, I love to go to church, and I love everybody; and I think Jesus loves me." Her mother then proposed to her to come over to the city, and unite with one of the churches here. But she replied, "Mamma, I don't think that would be quitter. I am to live here, to go to school here, and be here every day, and I think I ought to confess Jesus right here." Would that all were as thoroughly converted as this little girl!
