(From the Morning Star.) "CLOUDS AND DARKNESS ARE BOUND ABOUT HIM.

When the loved by death are taken, And the heart, in anguish lone, Like some leafless branch is shaken, When the Autumn zephyrs mosn: Then the " clouds and darkness " gather Round about the glorious Throne; Still Thy goodness, beavenly Father, Leadeth us through paths unknown,

If our idol child hath wandered From the path of virture sweet, And the hours of youth bath squandered Where the vile and reckless meet; Or if one who wowed to love as Meets our love with hearts extranged, Till the sky of life above us Seems all coldly, sadly changed;

Then the misty cloud-land darkens, And the storm-winds round us rise, Till the soul no longer bearkens To that voice above the skies ;-Still forgetting that our Father Only chastens us in love, Thus the soul's rich fruits to gather, Ripened, for his home above.

When each weary grief is over, And that quiet rest is won, Where the clouds no longer hover In their darkness round the Throne; O how blest will be the vision Bursting on our raptured sight! While the angels, in their mission Welcome us to God's own light.

LOTTIE AND THE VOICE.

You remember a story of little Samuel. One night, after he had gone to bed, he heard a voice, saying "Samuel, Samuel !" He thought it was Eli calling him. So he got up and went to Eli, and asked him what he wanted. Ell said he did not call him, and told him to go and lie down again. Samuel heard the woice the second time, and the third time. Then Eli thought it was God speaking to Samuel; and he told him, when he heard the voice aga n, to say, "Speak, Lord, for thy servent heareth."

God does not speak to contonen in these days as He spoke to Samuel. We cannot bear his voice with our ears. He does not say, "Philip, Philip!" "Mary, Mary!" But God does not pass by without speak ing. No: I am sure lie does not do that. God speaks to us, for He loves us. He whispers to us by His Spirit in a still small voice.

THE HABIT OF TEAZING.

The babit of teazing or coaxing is a fault very prevalent among children, which is strengthened and encouraged often unconsciously by a mother's yielding to the repeated importunities of her child, even after having once refused. Let a child understand that you are decided, that your word can be depended upon, that you mean what you say when you refuse him anything, and he will very soon learn that you cannot be coaxed out of what you have once refused him. As illustrative of this, I will state a case that came under my own observation. A mother gave her two sons each an apple when they returned one day from school. They went to play, but as soon as they had eaten them, one of the boys went to his mother, and asked for another; she refused, and he did not repeat his request, but went to play again. His brother asked him to go again and coax her to give them another. "No," said he, with much emphasis, " William, don't you know that mother said no, and meant no!" A child very soon discovers whether his mother can be teazed into a compliance with his

I once took tea with a lady, and while we were sitting at the table a little boy came round her chair, and asked several times for a piece of cake, which she at first refused, but finally gave to him. A little sister then came, and made a similar request, but was refused. I sat near, and overheard her little brother whisper in her ear. "Coax her, Jane, and you will get it." The mother was busily engaged talking with, and entertaining her visitors, and, probably to get rid of the child and his importunities, had given him the cake without thinking, perhaps, what she was about. But this habit which she was fostering in her child, was not calculated to diminish her trouble, or prevent her from similar importanities when she was particularly engaged. Instead of weighing the pros and cons in their own minds, some mothers are in the habit of making the conduct of their children the entire foundation of refusing or the sweeping of the gold-room, depend on Silver Leaf; 40 gals and 65 cans 1, 14, and 14 gallon each the "spare moments"—the careful use of fragments.

But this only engenders a peevish and fretful disposition, and often leads them to think that it is obstinacy, and not necessity, which prompted the refusal. Children usually have minds open to conviction, and when they see that their parents desire their happiness as really when they deny them, as when they yield to their wishes, they will generally acquiescs.

It is true that a mother cannot always make up her judgment at once, but when she has sufficiently reflected, let her act promptly, and decidedly. DROWNING A SQUIRREL.

When I was about six years old, one morning, going to school, a ground squirrel ran into its hole in the road before me, as they like to dig holes in some open place, where they can put out their heads to see if any danger is near. I thought now I will have fine fun. As there was a stream of water just at band, I determined to pour water into the hole till it should be full, and force the little animal up, so that I might kill it. I got a trough from beside a sugar-maple, used for catching the sweet sap, and was soon pouring the water in on the poor squirrel. I could bear it struggling to get up, and said, "Ah, my fellow, I will soon have you out now."

"Just then I heard a voice behind me. " Well, my boy, what have you got in there?" I turned and saw one of my neighbors, a good old man, with long white locks, that had seen sixty winters. "Why," said I, "I have a ground squirrel in here, and am going to drown him out."

Said he, "Jonathan, when I was a little boy, more than fifty years ago, I was engaged one day, just as you are, drowning a ground squirrel; and an old man like me came along, and said to me, 'You are a As the Subscriber intends devoting his whole little boy; now, if you were down in a narrow hole like that, and I should come along and pour water down on you to drown you, would you not think I was cruel? God made that little squirrel, and life is sweet to it as it is to you, and why will you torture to death a little innocent creature that God has made?" He said, "I have never forgotten that, and never shall. I never have killed any harmless creature for fun since. Now, my dear boy I want you to remember this while you live, and when tempted to kill any poor little innocent animal or bird, think of this, and mind God don't allow us to kill His pretty little creatures for fun."

More than forty years have since passed, and I never forgot what the good man said, nor have I ever killed the least animal for fun since. Now, you see it is pinety years since this advice was first given, and it has not lost its influence yet. How many little creatures it has saved from being tortured to death I cannot tell, but I have no doubt a great num- | For less than Cost, till the whole Stock ber, and I believe my whole life has been influenced

THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to causion the public against spurious imitations of his highly colebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless apound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale.

It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.:—It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c.; cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Fiannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teasphonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water ; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child cating it by mistake, will not be injured. If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has eyer been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time-saves your clothes saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. 147" All business communications must be addressed For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improve hem -by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flannels become white and soft like new. White things are
