deemed it right to manifest displeasure; and when he asked a question about the business of the day, I was short and reserved in my answer to him. An hour or more elapsed. The time had nearly arrived when he was to repeat his lessons. He came into my study and said: "Papa, I cannot learn my lessons except you are reconciled; I am very sorry have offended you, I hope you will forgive me; think I shall never offend again."

I replied, "All I want is to make you sensible to your fault; when you acknowledge it, you know I am easily reconciled with you."

"Then, papa," said he, "give me the token of reconciliation, and seal it with a kiss." The hand was given and the seal most heartily exchanged on each "Now," exclaimed the dear boy, "I will learn

"Stop, stop," I called after him; "Have you not a heavenly Father? If what you have done has been evil, He is displeased, and you must apply to Him for forgiveness."

With tears starting in his eyes, he said: "Papa, I went to him first; I knew that except He was reconciled I could do nothing." As the tears fast rolled down his cheeks, he added: "I hope he has forgiven me; and now lam happy!" I never had occasion to speak to him again in tones of disapprobation.

From the Morning Star. LITTLE TIBBIE'S SACRIFICE.

Tibbie was a dear little, black eyed, rosy-cheeked boy, whose brown hair hung in clusters around a fair white brow. He was usually overflowing with fun Josephine, Duchesse, &c. and mischief, but there were noble thoughts in his young heart which prompted him to do right whenever anything serious was involved. He had a great desire to have money of his own with which to purchase beautiful toys for himself and little sister. How to obtain this was the question, for Tibbie's father was not wealthy, and did not give his children money to spend for toys. Various methods were talked over by Tibbie and his sister, but one after another was rejected among the impossibilities. At last a bright idea was suggested. Tibbie had beard that the skin of the woodchuck could be so tanned, cut and braided as to make very good whiplashes. He determined to borrow a steel-trap, and if he only could catch the woodchucks, he was sure he could do all the rest. He knew it would be a tiresome and disagreeable process, and it must be months before Still on we went; my soul was wrapt in silent ecsta- he could commence to braid the lashes; but he was not easily discouraged, and the hope of having money I wondered what the end would be, what next should to spend as he chose was a powerful motive to him.

With his usual perseverance Tibbie was successful, -and when braiding the last of the hard-earned whip lashes, he looked up to his sister with an unusually When suddenly a change was wrought, and I was happy expression, saying, "What do you suppose I am going to do with the money I shall get for these?"

They had often talked of the toys they so much desired, and the sister guessed first one and then We passed through streets of glistening pearl; o'er another, but Tibbie said "no." What then would he do with his money? And the little girl's face was eager with expectation.

"Why," said Tibbie, "You know Elder Wsaid the poor heathen would think more of just the Gospel of Matthew than we do of a whole new Bible, and if they really do, I believe I would rather go Bright angels paced the shining streets, sweet music | without the nice toys, and put my money in the Missionary-box, and perhaps it would buy several Testaments for the heathen children."

Tibbie had anticipated so much pleasure from the And some that I had loved on earth stood with them possession of the toys he desired, that this resolution cost him many a struggle, but right had triumphed sion-box he felt that he had done something for Jesus, and was very, very happy. This was the beginning of the spirit of self-sacrifice in that noble boy; And as I gazed he smiled on me with wondrous love and the same spirit prompted him, when a man, to give his life in his country's service. Leaving home Lowly I bowed before his throne, o'erjoyed that I at and friends behind, for nearly three years he worked for God and country, and then

HOW TO DO A KIND DEED.

Just in front of my window is a hill, where the village children come to coast in snow-time. It is very ong, and the slope is so gentle that it is quite safe. Well, this morning quite a crowd of merry youngsters were enjoying the sport, and making all the hills about us ring with their clear voices. But at the top of the hill, a little back from the startingpoint, stood a queer-looking little fellow all by himself. I thought he must be poor, for he was dressed in a man's ragged coat, and he had an old handkerchief tied over his head. As he moved forward to look after the descending sleds, I saw that he was lame. No one seemed to notice him for a long time, except once when a naughty boy threw a big snowball at him. My heart began to ache for him, he looked so lonesome, standing there by himself. Presently a bright-looking lad left his mates and went to him, I could not hear what he said, but directly I saw him help the lame boy to a seat on the sled, and down the long slope they went together. Then I heard the boys hurrah, and half a dozen strong little chaps | Crushed do; 66 casks Porto Rico, Cienfuegos and Barbatook hold together, and drew the sled up the hill with The vision faded from my sight, the voice no longer | the lame boy on it. A KIND Acr. -On a sultry day last midsummer, as I was walking near the great Islington Cattle Market, I saw a flock of sheep which had be n put into an enclosure after a long journey along dry and dusty roads. They were exhausted and foot-sore from overdriving, and seemed half-dead with heat and fatigue. They lay panting upon the ground, their tongues lolling out of their mouths for thirst. What to do to help them I could not tell. A cabman who was watering his horse at a trough a little way off came up, and making a cup in the top of his Jim-crow, filled it with sparkling water at the pump and brought it to Greek and Latin with anybody;" and was hastening the poor creatures. The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest Offices in the kingdom. At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following nighly satisfactory results were shown :-

FIRE DEPARTMENT. The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct fire insurance companies of this kingdom. The Premiums for the year 1855 being.....£130,060

While the Premiums for the year 1558 are.... 196,148 Showing an actual increase of...... 66,088 or upwards of 50 per cent, in three years. The recent returns of duty made by Government for this atter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the moiety of its advance. LIFE DEPARTMENT. The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is of far the largest received in any similar period since the mencement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the premium | ter's Tooth Powder. For sale by £12,354 8s. 4d. 135 Union Street CAUTION! CAUTION! CAUTIO THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING A I CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to tion the public against spurious imitations of his hig celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harm compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and other deadly mixtures so common to be found amon washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Cryst if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, whi washes every thing, and has rapid sale.

It will be found invaluable for the following do purposes, viz. :- It washes all fine things, such as Mus ace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c,; cleaning Spong Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Ha Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, immediately removes all condensed perspiration the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the f pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the hea by dissolving a teaspnonful of the Crystal in a quarter a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, as unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child es ing it by mistake, will not be injured. If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose a time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introdu into this country which has effected such a wonder change upon Washing Days. It saves your time-save your clothes -- saves your money; and it does not inj ne most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crysta makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, wear and tear of labor, and improves every article wash For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surp for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and imp hem--by its use they retain their original brilliancy. nels become white and soft like new. White things much improved, and keep their color, even if put by months. Thousands of Families made happy! No miss on a Washing Day, with Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal.
