HARSH JUDGMENTS.

O God! whose thoughts are brightest light, Whose love runs always clear, To whose kind wisdom sinning souls Amidst their sins are dear !

Sweeten my bitter-thoughted heart With charity like Thine, Till self shall be the only spot On earth which does not shine.

Hard-heartedness dwells not with souls Round whom Thine arms are drawn ; And dark thoughts fade away in grace, Like cloud-spots in the dawn.

Time was, when I believed that wrong In others to detect, Was part of genius, and a gift To cherish, not reject.

Now, better taught by Thee, O Lord! This truth dawns on my mind,-The best effect of heavenly light Is earth's false eyes to blind.

He whom no praise can reach, is aye Men's least attempts approving ; Whom justice makes all-merciful, Omniscience makes all-loving.

When we ourselves least kindly are, We deem the world unkind ;

Dark hearts, in flowers where honey lies, Only the poison find.

How Thou canst think so well of us, Yet be the God Thou art, Is darkness to my intellect,

But sunshine to my heart.

Yet habits linger in the soul ; More grace, O Lord ! more grace ! More sweetness from Thy loving heart ! More sunshine from Thy face ! -FABER.

KATE'S FORGIVENESS. "I will never speak to Clara Martin."

"O! Nellie, that is a very hard thing for you to said to have failed. She thought Clara must have seen this letter. She felt in her pocket, and found it was not there. "I must have drawn it out with my pocket-handkerchief," she said to herself, "but it was dishonorable of Clara to read it, even if she found it."

And so of course it was, for no girl of honor would read a letter addressed to another without special permission.

Kate hurried into the house to search for the letter. She could not find it, but the postman had just brought another for her full of good news. The money in the bank was safe, and her father was not, after all, a poor man, and as for Kate she might stay at school as long as she liked. Gladdened with this good news, Kate made up her mind that she would forgive Clara. She went back again into the garden to finish her quiet walk. There, behind one of the trees, she saw Clara Martin OPTICIANS AND OCULISTS crying bitterly. Kate went up to her, and called her softly."

"Go away," she said. "Why do you disturb me? I am not going to apologize, for I am not sorry; go away."

But Kate was not to be repulsed like that. "Clara," she said gently, "let me stay. I am not angry with you, but I want to talk to you, for I know you are not happy." Clara tried to push her away, but Kate was taller, and she took the trembling girl in her arms, and kissed her, and laid her cold hands on Clara's hot forehead.

Poor Clara could only cry more, for she had not expected that; and Kate soothed her, and talked to her kindly.

"I do not so much mind the things you have said about me, but I should like to have my letter back." "O Kate! I am so ashamed," said Clara; "I found the letter and read it, and knew it would tease the girls to talk about it. You will never forgive me.'

Kate kissed her once more.

"I have quite forgiven you," she said, "because I am sure you will not do so dishonorable a thing again. And you have misunderstood the letter, Clara; the only reason why I left the other school was because I was ill, and they thought I had better not remain."

"I did understand it, Kate; but my wickedness made me say the other. I will tell the girls all about it. Come with me, Kate."

So they walked up the garden together, to the great amazement of all the girls, and Clara confessed her wrong, and begged their pardon, and told them

"I should be grieved, if not surprised, Nellie; and though I do not so much as wish to know everything, I am quite sure that you had better think over her ! your words again, and resolve to forgive Clara, whatever she may have done."

"No, Kate, it is quite impossible, and all the girls say the same. They know what she has done, and they all declare they will never speak to her again." "But that is very unkind of them, and quite too hard for Clara to bear. What has she done ?" "O! several things. She has been so rude, Kate, that you never could guess the things she has said." "Whatever they are, she will soon be sorry for them, and perhaps she will apologize, and then, of course, all the girls whom she has offended will forgive her at once."

Martin will never apologize, I know; she is too ill- Fred. tempered and proud for that. Don't you take her part, will you, Kate ?"

" I don't know, Nellie dear; if you all turn against her, poor child, she will need some one to take her part, and I do not yet know whether you or she was the more wrong."

"Then I will tell you all about it, Kate, for I think you ought to know. She has been in a dreadful temper all day, but this is what begun our quarrel. I could not find my grammar anywhere, and I could not remember where I had put it."

after all, you see! If you remembered the motto on the school-room wall, 'A place for everything and everything in its place,' you would not have lost your listening with apparent pleasure to various exercises grammar."

would not have said it."

"Well, all the girls said what a shame it was, and that only made Clara worse. She told me I was a stupid little thing, and that she would not like to learn her lessons no better than I did mine. And she said something quite as bad to each of the others; but the worst things of all, and those which prospects on leaving school were as bright as mine." made us all the crossest, were said about you."

"About me ?" said Kate, in surprise. "Yes, dear Kate, I don't know how she found it all out, but she says she knows everything about five dollars I shall have to go to the poor-house or you. She says your father is poor enough to be her starve." father's servant, that you would never have so much as even a shilling a week for pocket-money ; that all your dresses are quite poor and common, and that you will soon have to leave school because your friends cannot afford to keep you here."

"Well, supposing it is all true, Nellie, should I be

"You could not be surprised though, Kate, if you that as Kate had forgiven her, she hoped they would not be angry long.

" TIME ENOUGH."

"Fred, you must clean your boots before you go to school," said Mrs. Lawrence to her son.

"I know it, mother, but it's time enough," replied Fred, who sat reading a story-book. Presently the lady spoke again, "Fred, have you looked over your grammar lesson this morning? It is too difficult to learn in a hurry." "Well, I almost learned it last night; it's time "I don't think they would even then; but Clara enough; I want to finish this chapter," answered

> "O, my son !" said Mrs. Lawrence, "I wish you would overcome that habit of putting off necessary duties."

Fred closed the story-book reluctantly, and took his grammar, wishing that his mother would not "bother him so; he knew he had time enough."

Presently Mrs. Lawrence left the room, feeling very much troubled about Fred's bad habit; and wishing that he could be induced to break it off before he became a man. Knowing that God only could give him the strength and disposition to do so, "Ah, little Nellie, you were the first to be wrong she went to her own room, and kneeling down, prayed to this effect. That day a gentleman visited the school ; and after by the scholars, the principal requested him to talk "Well, but don't begin to scold me, Kate, for I to the boys for a little while. He did so, and interdid not begin the quarrel. I asked Clara to lend me | ested them very much by relating some anecdotes of her's, for she was not using it, and what do you his own school-life. One of these incidents was the means, by God's blessing, of curing Fred's habit. It seemed to Fred that the gentleman must have known what his bad habit was, or he could not have said honest enough to keep it!" There ! As if anybody anything so suited to his case. The gentleman said that one day he was stopped in the street by a very "That was certainly very unkind of Clara, but shabby-looking man, who, after calling him by name, she must have been very angry at the time, or she and asking if he did not remember Henry Brown, begged him to lend him some money.

"I remember Henry Brown very well," replied the gentleman. " Can it be possible you are he, wishing to borrow five dollars ?"

"Yes I am," answered the man in a despairing, sorrowful tone.

"What has brought you to this condition ? Your Time enough has brought me here," replied he.

"I was always putting off necessary business by saying that. Now I am old the habit is fixed, and I cannot break myself of it. If you do not lend me

IN MEMORY OF PHEBE E. SCOTT, Who died August 11th, 1868, aged seven months. Precious Baby, sweetest flower,

OF DEATHS, that annually occur, are caused by Preventable Diseases, and the greater portion of those complaints would, if Radway's Ready Relief or Pills (as the case may require,) were administered when pain or uneasiness or slight sickness is experienced, be exterminated from the system in a few hours. PAIN, no matter from what cause, is almost instantly cured by the Ready Relief. In cases of Cholera, Diarrhœa, Cramps, Spasms, Bilious Cholic, in fact all Pains, Aches and Infirmities either in the Stomach, Bowels, Bladder, Kidneys, or the Joints, Muscles, Legs, Arms, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Fever and Ague, Headache, Toothache, &c., will in a FEW MINUTES yield to the soothing influence of the Ready Relief.

Sudden Colds, Coughs, Influenza, Diptheria, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Chills, Fever and Ague, Mercurial Pains, Scarlet Fever, &c., &c., take from four to six of Radway's Pills, and also take a teaspoonful of the Ready Relief in a glass of warm water, sweetened with sugar or honey; bathe the throat, head and chest with Ready Rebef, (if Ague or intermittent Fever, bathe tho spine also,) in the morning you will be cured.

How the Ready Relief Acts!

In a few minutes the patient will feel a slight tingling irritation, and the skin becomes reddened; if there is much distress in the stomach, the Relief will assist nature in removing the offending cause,-a general warmth is felt throughout the entire body, and its diffusive stimulating properties rapidly courses through every vein and tissue of the system, arousing the slothful and partially paralyzed glands and organs to renewed and healthy action, perspiration follows, and the surface of the body feels increased heat. The sickness at stomach, colds, chills, head-ache, oppressed breathing, the soreness of the throat, and all pains, either internally or externally, rapidly subside, and the patient falls into a tranquil sleep, awakes refreshed, invigorated, cured.

It will be found that in using the Relief externally, either on the spine or across the kidneys, or over the stomach and bowels, that for several days after a pleasing warmth will be felt, showing the length of time it continues its influence over the diseased parts.

Price of R. R. R. R. ELIEF, 25 cents per bottle. Sold by Druggists and Country Merchants. Grocers, &c.

CAUTION! CAUTION! CAUTION THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale. It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.:--It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c,; cleaning Sponges Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Vater Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teaspnonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water ; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured.

If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time-saves your clothes-saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; for Laces, and tine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improve them -- by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flannels become white and soft like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for months. Thousands of Families made happy! No misery on a Washing Day, with Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal. Sold by most respectable Grocers and Chemists, in Pack-ts THREE CENTS EACH, sufficient for 20 Gallons of water, r Twelve for Thirty Cents, also in Boxes containing 144 Packets, price Three Dollars eauh. 1998"Be sure to ask for PICKSTONE'S Washing Crystal, as there are spurious imita-tions. Do not condemn it untried. Make one trial! PRO-TECTED BY ACT OF PARLIAMENT. Sole Agent for New Brunswick

THE ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY, 92 Lombard-street, London, and Royal Insurance buildngs, Liverpool

Chairman of the London Board .- SAMUEL BAKER, Esq. Chairman in Liverpool.—CHARLES TURNER, Esq. The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest

Offices in the kingdom. At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following nighly satisfactory results were shown :---

FIRE DEPARTMENT. The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact-that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct fire insurance companies of this kingdom. The Premiums for the year 1855 being £180,060 While the Premiums for the year 1558 are 196,148 r upwards of 50 per cent. in three years.

The recent returns of duty made by Government for this latter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the noiety of its advance.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

Erne amount of new Life Premiums received this year is by far the largest received in any similar period since the mencement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the premium £12,354 Ss. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension of business during the last ten years. Thus :-- any the worse for being poor ?"

"No, Kate, you would still be the dearest girl in the world. But she said something else about you : she said we should not make so much fuss with you if we knew that before you came to this school you were turned away, expelled, from the last school." "That is not true," said Kate, looking very white.

"True! We know that not a word of it is true. And must not that Clara be a mean and wicked girl ? You will not speak to her again now, will you, Kate ?" "I think I shall, Nellie dear, but I will think about it first."

And Kate walked away for a little quiet thought. If you had known Kate Davis, you would not have been surprised that she was the greatest favorite in all the school. She was quite a year older than the other girls, and she was taller, too. - She had soft, brown eyes, and a face that was rather pale. She was a serious girl, and her smiles were so sweet and kind that they were valued by all about her. She was a real friend, always ready to help others, and she never got angry, even in play, or said unkind things to the rest. They all loved her, and were glad to be with her; and it seems as if they could not say enough things in her praise. So you may be sure they were both surprised and indignant at Clara Martin's speech. They each said something to her about it, and one girl even said, "You ought to be dismissed from the school for saying such wicked things."

Kate walked to the bottom of the garden, where the girls could not see her, and she could not keep the tears from coming into her eyes. It is always hard to have unkind things said about one, and Kate felt it. She wondered, too, where Clara had gained so much information about her. She remembered that her last letter from home had said something about her being obliged to leave school, if her father lost some money which was put in a bank that was

Thou art vanished in an hour; Our dear baby, she's at rest, And in heaven with the blest. How tenderly her little hands Are folded on her breast, Sheltering the flowers so lovingly Upon her bosom pressed. There is no beating of the heart, No heaving of the breath; Her little hands are icy cold, She sleeps the sleep of death.

They closed her eyes and shrouded her, While we stood weeping by; And when they bore her to the grave, We followed silently.

They laid her in her narrow house Appointed for the dead ; But we all hope to meet our babe When she rises from that bed.

Her little dimpled hands Have laid her toys away, Never to take them up again In sweetest childish play.

The night is bitter cold, The wind is wailing by, And on our little Phoebe's grave The grass is growing high. Fond parents, while you mourn the loss Of one so young and fair, O could you look beyond the veil And see your darling there-

Your tears for her would cease to flow, For she is happy now-Clad in a robe of spotless white, White jewels on her brow.

This disease is not only cured by Dr. Radway's Relief and Pills, but prevented. If exposed to it, put one teaspoonful of Relief in a tumbler of water. Drink this before going out in the morning, and several times during the day. Take one of Radway's Pills one hour before dinner, and one on going to bed. If seized with Fever, take 4 to 6 of the Pills every six hours, until copious discharges from the bowels take place; also drink the Relief diluted with water, and bathe the entire surface of the body with Relief. Soon a powerful perspiration will take place, and you will feel a pleasant heat throughout the system .--Keep on taking Relief immediately, every four hours, also the Pills. A cure will be sure to follow. The relief is strengthening, stimulating, soothing, and quieting; it is sure to break up the Fever and to neutralize the poison. Let this treat-ment be followed, and thousands will be saved. The same treatment in Fever and Ague, Yellow Fever, Ship Fever, Bilious Fever, will effect a cure in 24 hours .--When the patient feels the Relief irritating or heating the skin, a cure is positive. In all cases where pain is felt, the Relief should be used. Relief cts.; Pills 25 cts. Sold by all Druggists. See Dr. Radway's Almanac for 1868.
