WEARINESS AND REST.

Saviour, I come to Thee-A weary child, with pain and care oppressed ; O, let me lean this aching, burdened heart Upon Thy loving breast !

The way is very dark ; I cannot see it, Lord, through these my fears, Take Thou my hand and draw me up to Thee, Through all the lonely years.

I have no strength, dear Lord : O, let me lie where I can touch Thy feet, And gaze up from the dust into Thine eyes, That are so true and sweet.

And come, O come to me! And raise me to Thine arms, and teach me there The strange, deep secrets of Thy love, and bend To listen to my prayer.

Speak to me soft and low : My spirit yearneth for one little word To cheer the still, sad silence of my life-One word from Thee, my Lord.

Speak to me, O my God ! There are sweet voices falling on my ear Long known, long loved, but in my inmost soul Their tones I cannot hear.

But Thou will speak to me; And, as the river falls into the sea And sinks to sleep, so this my wearied heart Shall find its rest in Thee.

STRIKE FOR THE ROCK.

Billy and Tom lived by the sea-side, and were perfect little water-dogs of boys. Their father was an old fisherman, so he had fitted up a little skiff for them, and they could fix their own mast, and trim their sail equal to any boys along shore.

"Them boys o' mine 'll sail nigh onto as close to the wind as any on us," the old man would say, while me so; and I called out, in an angry tone, "If I had a gleam of pride would come into his eyes, and some- a stick, I would whip you ;' but when I heard the times a little moisture that was as real as the salt voice reply, 'I would whip you,' I ran home as fast spray itseif.

'To the vegetable kingdom,' replied one of the little girls. 'And to what kingdom this ?' continued he, as he took from his pocket a gold coin. 'To the mineral kingdom,' she answered. 'And to what kingdom do I belong then, my child ?' inquired he-expecting, of course, that she would answer in right order, 'To the animal kingdom.' But she paused and colored very deeply, not All kinds of Furniture to furnish houses. We want purknowing what to say. She feared that it would not sound respectful to answer to a king that he belonged rich assortment of Table Lamps. We have a very large to the animal kingdom, and she puzzled her brain for stock of Glassware, English and American, contained in a reply.

Ware , of all kind, in setts and by the piece. Remembering the words in Genesis where it says that God 'created man in his own image; in the image of God created he him,' she quickly looked up and said : 'To God's kingdom, sir.' The king stooped down and placed his hand upon her head. A tear stood in his eye. He was moved city, so come along to by her simple words. Solemnly and devoutly did he answer : 'God grant that I may be counted worthy of that kingdom.' A good answer. In this respect, little children are on a level with kings, for Jesus has said : 'Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." " That little girl had more shrewdness in answering a question than one of whom I read the other day," says Cousin Carrie.

" How so ?" " I'll give you the story just as I found it. It was told by the girl herself after she grew up to be a woman :

THE VOICE IN THE WOODS. "The house in which I lived, when quite a child, was close to a wood, and on the other side of it was a high hill. I went one day into the wood to play. My dog Prince, as usual, ran at my side. I thought as I went along, that I would play that I was a dog too. So, for the fun of the thing, I called as loud as I could, "Bow, wow, wow !' What was my surprise to hear a voice call out from the other side of nearly as good as new.

the wood, ' Bow, wow, wow.' "Who are you ?' said I. 'Who are you?' said the voice.

'Jane Merry,' I replied. ' Jane Merry,' said the voice.

Then I got angry to think any one should mock as I could, to tell my father that there was a boy in
