The Address has passed in the Senate.

Sir John A. Macdonald said the elections in 1867 the country have not yet come in .- News. returned more Conservatives than Reformers in Ontario, and consequently it was fair to reduce the Reformers in the Cabinet from three to two. He said McDougall drew his salary as Minister of Public Works till December 8th, when Aikens was sworn $12,250.

in, but none since. hostility. He condemned the manner of negotiations | this. - Tel. last year with Howe, instead of the Local Government of Nova Scotia, which Province was not being concili ted, while discontent was rife in New Brunswick. He thought Sir Fra cis Hincks the worst possible choice for Finance Minister, and it was enough to condemn the Ministry in his eyes. He did not hold the same view as the present Opposition leaders, but would unite with them to do his utmost to break down the present Government.

After recess Mr. McDougall made explanations, and condemned the arrangement by which the reform balance in the Ministry was lost. He did not ventilate the Governorship matter.

Sir John A. Macdonald and Blake argued the question of Reform representation in the Cabinet warmly, Mr. Cartwright announced his want of confidence in the Ministry, particularly condemning the new Finance Minister.

3:r Francis Hincks defended his claim to be a representative Reformer, and stated that Galt had given tion in 1854. Galt denied this.

Jones spoke in opposition, followed by Bowell, condemning the introduction of Sir Francis to the Masson, of Terrebonne, condemned the paragraph in the Speech respecting the North West. OTTAWA, Feb. 21.-In Senate, Mitchell explained and moved second reading of Bills respecting coasting trade and respecting disbursed moneys. Carried. making personal explanations respecting trip to North West. He most emphatically denied encouter terms, and complained that Howe at their meet- cajoled." ing had not prepared him for troubles ahead. Stated that while in Territory Howe had consorted with parties now in rebellion. Howe retorted warmly upon McDougall for ad-

Government, and instructed them to withhold the same from him. Blake reviewed Howe's course. Considered explanations insufficient, and thought from his own showing, his conduct in the North West calculated to induce trouble. Humorously compared McDougall dressing communication to one or two members of

to a man fallen among thieves, and Howe to a levite that passed by on the other side. Sir G. Cartier read letters which passed between Galt and Ministry respecting the offer of the Finance Bureau, showing that Galt declined unless allowed to maintain his avowed independence principles.

Sir Francis Hincks, replying to Galt, entered upon an elaborate defence of his former financial policy, shewing that debts incurred during his administration were for railways and other pecessary public

OTTAWA, Feb. 21.—Galt replied to Finance Minister and Tupper, making important explanations about views on Independence. When title was offered him holding his views on the future of the Provinces, without fully explaining those views, would be to accept the honor under false pretences. He therefore asked the Governor General and received permission to put his views in writing, which he did in a letter to Earl Granville. In this letter he stated his belief that it was the Imperial policy that Confederation should lead to Independence not immediately but ultimately; he was not at liberty to state language honor was conferred; therefore, in his opinion, on this subject, he stood beside the Ministers of the Crown in England,

OTTAWA, Feb. 22.-Last night, Cartier spoke strongly deprecating newspaper attacks on Catholic Clergy respecting Northwest difficulty. He claimed might justly have appointed a French Governor to the Northwest though they had not done it. To day Cartwright resumed debate, reviewing financial condition of the country; he condemned former policy of Hincks, believing that its ill effects yet remain, but would not offer factious opposition to good measures emanating from present Government. Huntingdon, replying to the charge of disloyalty by Sir Francis against independents, denominated him a political Van Winkle reminiscene, rather than a reality. He denied the statement that he (Huntingdon) secretly favored Annexation, declaring that he favored independence as much from belief that it was hest preventative to Annexation as from the fact of its being the Imperial policy and calculated to relieve colonial disabilities. Sir Francis replied.

Dufresne, in French, thought McDougall an improper choice for North West Governor. OTTAWA, Feb. 23. Debates closed and address passed last night. To-day Tilley laid on table, navigation returns for 1868 and comparative statement imports and exports for year ending 30th June, 1869 Gordon introduced bill to limit rate of interest.

Hincks gave notice that he would on Friday 5th, March move house into Committee on three sets of resolutions respecting banking and currency. In reply to Jones of Leeds, Sir John said full statements of all points respecting Intercolonial Rail way had been forwarded to Rose, as agent for Canada, to be placed in possession of the Government
