

REST.

The following lines were found under the pillow of a soldier, who was lying dead in a hospital near Port Royal, South Carolina :

> I lay me down to sleep, With little thought of care Whether my waking find me Here or there.

A bowing, burdened head, That only asks to rest, Unquestioning, upon A loving breast.

My good right hand forgets Its cunning now-To make the weary march I know not how.

I am not eager, bold, Nor strong-all that is past; I am ready not to do At last, at last.

My half-day's work is done, And this is all my part : I give a patient God My patient heart.

And grasp his banner still, Though all its blue be dim, These stripes, no less than stars, Lead after him.

Miscellaneous.

THE LOST BRACELET.

" Just one penny, if you please, ma'm." It was the day before the end of the year, and, pat up its modest plea for "just one penny."

she started for her husband's office. Mr. Allair was poring over his books when Kate rushed in, with bright eyes and glowing cheeks, and holding the bracelet before his eyes, she exclaimed : "See there, Henry, that's what came of giving my sixpence to the street-sweeper."

Her husband looked up, glad and surprised, first at seeing her, and then because the bracelet was found ; and he listened while she told him of her interview with the child and her mother. "And now, Henry, I am going to ask you if I may do one thing. I really do not need so nice a dress as you have given the money for, and I want to take some of it and buy fuel, and lights, and provisions, for those poor people; they had neither coals nor candles, and nothing but a little cold cabbage for their dinner."

Henry shook his head, but it was not a very nega tive shake. "Nobcdy can resist you, Kate," said he, smiling, "and you may do as you please with the money." Kate thanked him with moistened eyes more than with her voice; and as the door closed after her, Henry said to himself, "There goes an angel; and if ever that text, 'He that giveth to the poor shall not lack,' was meant for any body, it was for her."

The little girl's mother did not get well again ; but before she died Kate told her about Jesus, and won her to love and trust him, soothing her last moments with comforting, cheering words. Even little Jane she taught to say, with faith, "When my mother and father forsake me, then the Lord will take me up."

By and by Mr. and Mrs. Allair took little Jane, now an orphan, to live with them; and if there was one grace more than another that Kate prayed the child might have, it was that of charity ; for Jane's growing beauty of character, and her constant gratitude, proved a continual reminder to her generous benefactress of that sweet lesson of our Saviour's-"It is more blessed to give than to receive."-Evangelical Magazine.

CAUTION! CAUTION! THE Proprietor of l'ICKSTONE'S WASHING AND L CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale. It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz. :--It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c.; cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot an. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teaspnonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Jums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a umbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and inlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eatng it by mistake, will not be injured.

If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no ime in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time-saves your clothes-saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; or Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not njure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improve hem--by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flannels become white and soft like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for months. Thousands of Families made happy! No misery on a Washing Day, with Picksrok's Cleansing Crystal. The sector of the sector ets THREE CENTS EACH, sufficient for 20 Gallons of water. or Tweive for Thirty Cents, also in Boxes containing 144 Packets, price Three Dollars eauh. Be sure to ask for PICKSTONE'S Washing Crystal, as there are spurious imita-tions. Do not condemn it untried. Make one trial! PRO-TECTED BY ACT OF PARLIAMENT.

"You shouldn't have done that," said he, a little reproachfully; and then he laughed as he continued: "Did you spend all your money, so that you could'nt afford a sixpence to ride home with ?"

"Well, I suppose I must tell," said Kate with another blush. "I did have just one sixpence left, and was going to ride, when such a poor little girl

"Yes, that's it, I know what's coming. Why, Kate, you make the very mischief among the poor people and my pennies; they are the most ungratefal set in the world."

"But," said Kate, earnestly, "she was such a delicate, half-clothed, and, I am afraid, half-starved little street-sweeper----"

"Street-sweeper!" and her husband held up both his hands in mock-horror ; "why, Kate, they pick up handfuls of money in a day; and did you walk home, and give one a whole sixpence? Oh, oh, what won't your innocent little heart do next ?"

Kate was about to reply, when, on passing her hand up her arm, she exclaimed suddenly, " Oh, Henry, my bracelet is gone-your gift last new year's day-what shall I do? where could I have lost it ?"

"That is too bad, said he, thoughtfully ; but the next moment he continued, shrugging up his shoulders mischievously : "Maybe some honest person has picked it up. Never mind, though, I can replace it some time."

Her husband took her hand and put something in it, closing the slender fingers tightly over it, saying, " Don't distress yourself any more about bracelets and street-sweepers; here's your new year's gift, and the next time you go to town get a pretty dress with it." > soon reached the house, and Tom commenced work at once. He was awkward at everything he undertook. He spilled, spoiled and broke. He slept in the stable near the horse, and ate what the other servants left. The only thing that troubled him was, he was always in everybody's way.

One Sunday, the minister was to exchange pulpits with the pastor of a church in an adjoining town. Tom hitched the horse to the sulky and his master rode away, charging him to be on watch for the other preacher. It was not long before the watching was rewarded, and the strange minister drove up, Tom seizing the bridle-rein as he stopped. The hostess came out with warm words of welcome for the new comer, who, when he had replied, followed the horse to the barn. But the animal was already safely in the stable, and Tom was sitting on a box near the manger, staring vacantly at the floor.
