

THE RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCER.

miles little better than a canal of mud. A few croakers began to shake their heads and to say in undertones to one another that we should never even succeed in getting to our starting point. I never, however, doubted for one moment of our success, and knowing what great things Canada expected from us, served us all to redoubled exertions. Once started, our journey occupied about seven weeks from Shebandowan Lake to Red River. During that time the labor so cheerfully endured by the men was excessive. To sail at the oar day after day, from dawn till dark, to drag boats over other stores over about forty-six miles such was the work that had to be performed before we reached our destination. I have campaigned in many parts of the world, but I never before saw men go through such incessant labor—for days together the men were wet through and through, and had at times to work up to their waists in water, and during the months of June and July, fine weather was the exception and rain was the rule. Great as was their labor and trying as was this exposure, I never heard a murmur from any one; officers vied with their men in carrying heavy loads, and the praiseworthy rivalry between the regular troops and militia, in their eagerness to get forward, enabled me to reach our destination earlier than I had at one time anticipated. My temperature friends will learn with pleasure that this was one of few military expeditions ever undertaken here which formed no part of the daily routine. There was a large allowance of tea taken, and notwithstanding the melancholy shortcomings of some medical officers, this result was a complete success. There was a total absence of sickness and crime. I am glad to find that some individuals have endeavored to make the world believe that the command of the Militia since their arrival at Fort Garry has not been so orderly as it might have been. I can assure you that during the time I stayed there, I never had cause to find any fault with them. They were as well behaved as any regiment of our army could have been under similar circumstances. Money and provisions are ample, and plenty, both fresh meats and vegetables. There are accumulations of food sufficient for two months' consumption, and an abundance of flour and wine in the magazines. All is orderly and quiet.

THE DESOLATION OF STRASBOURG.

Five hundred houses were destroyed at Strasbourg by the conflagration caused by the Prussian fire. Ten thousand of the inhabitants are homeless, and subsisting only upon the generosity of the Prussian Commissariat, which furnishes subsistence to thousands. The houseless poor have been furnished with tents for dwellings. The inhabitants of Berlin and Orlans are moving actively to relieve the poor of Strasbourg. Money and provisions are freely offered.

Advices from Versailles state that the winter quarters for the Prussian army encamped there will be well advanced. However, the cold nights and scanty shelter are having a serious effect upon the troops, many of whom are prostrated by severe fits of rheumatism. The number of deaths from the rheumatic courses by the use of Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam. It commands itself the world as the best remedial agent—the most rapid in its operation, and the most safe, specific, certain, and permanent in its cure. It knows no failure, is devoid of danger, restores the strength, and imparts vigor and life, however much shaken by disease.

DETERMINATION OF BLOOD TO THE HEAD.—In practice or neglect of health is tantamount to constructive suicide—the penalty a short, quick stroke, or instantaneous death. All who are of habit or subject to apoplectic or epileptic fits, should never be without a supply of Dr. Wilson's Antidotes and Preserving Pills, as they will fit a safeguard in occasional doses of them. In every instance they have been attended with most successful results.

The best remedy you can apply to your horse for strains, stiff joints, lameness, &c., &c., is Dr. Wilson's Stomach Oil Liniment. This valuable compound is much esteemed by those who have the care of horses, and is found to be safe and effective. Use it once, and you will never be without it.

The horse naturally the friend, companion, and the most useful servant of man, is peculiarly liable to the effects of cold, heat, and fatigue. Dr. Wilson's Antidotes and Preserving Pills, as they will fit a safeguard in occasional doses of them. In every instance they have been attended with most successful results.

The verdict of the naval committee of inquiry into the loss of the "Maine" exonerates everybody connected with her construction and management.
