"BEHOLD I STAND AT THE DOOR AND KNOCK." Dost thou not hear amid the din Of life, its cares and joys, Its toils and pleasures, grief and sin,

Amid all these a voice? Doth not thy heart a knocking hear, A still small knock, but sounding clear Above the earthly noise ? Dost thou not hear ? O seek to flee

A moment from the din That drowns a voice which calleth thee, Thy secret soul within ; The voice of One, whoe'er thou art, Who stands and knocketh at thy heart, And asks to enter in.

Who is it knocks ? Dost thou not know ? Thy weight of sin He bore, He came from heaven, He died that thou Might'st live for evermore ; Thou sitt'st at ease within, He stands, And with those nail-imprinted hands He knocketh at thy door.

Who is it knocks? It is the King, It is the Lord most high, Whose praises that the angels sing. Ten thousand tongues employ. It is the King of glory waits, For whom the everlasting gates Lift up their heads with joy.

Yet if thou openest the door, Lo! He will be thy guest ; Thou wilt of angels food have store, Ye shall together feast. The bread of heaven shall be thine, The fruitage of the living vine, New pressed, thy lips shall taste.

O heart ! fall prostrate and adore, For thou the Lord shouldst see, Shouldst feel his presence ; even more, His dwelling-place shouldst be. Yea, He to whom the angels bow With veiled faces, even now Would come and dwell with thee.

What if thou, still with closed door,

STICK TO YOUR BUSH.

Mr. Morgan was a rich, and also a good man. The people of the town respected him, sent him to Parliament, and seldom undertook anything without asking his advice. If a school-house was to be built, the plan had to be talked over with him. Widow P. -asked him what she should plant in her field, farmer S----always got his advice in buying cattle, and M.rs. R----consulted him about bringing up her boys. When asked how he was so successful, Mr. Morgan said :- "I will tell you how it was. One day, when I was a lad, a party of boys and girls were going to a distant pasture to pick whortleberries. 1 wanted to go with them, but was fearful that my father would not let me. When I told him what was going on, and he at once gave me permission to go with them, I could hardly contain myself for joy, and rushed into the kitchen and got a big basket, and asked mother for a luncheon. I had the basket on my arm, and was just going out of the gate, when my father called me back. He took hold of my hand, and said, in a very gentle voice : 'Joseph, what are you going for, to pick berries, or to play ?' 'To pick berries,' I replied. ' Then, Joseph, Iwant to tell you one thing. It is this: When you find a pretty good bush, do not leave it to find a better one. The other boys and girls will run about, picking a little here and a little there, wasting a great deal of time, you will come with an empty basket. If you want berries, stick to your bush.'

" I went with the party, and we had a capital time. No sooner had one found a good bush than he called all the rest, and they left their several places and ran off to the new-found treasure. Not content more than Ivory Handle Dinner, Dessert and Tea Knives. Fancy whole pasture, got very tired, and at night had but the Boys. Moccassins and Showshoes, an sizes and thus. My father's words kept running in my ears, and I 'stuck to my bush,' When I had done with one, I found another, and finished that; then I took another, and finished that; then I took then I took another, and finished that; then I took then I took another, and finished that; then I took SIMON NEALIS. another. When night came, I had a large basketful of nice berries, more than all the others put together, and was not half so tired as they were. I went home happy. But when I entered, I found my father had been taken ill. He looked at my basket full of ripe, blackberries, and said, ' Well done, Joseph. Was it not just as I told you? Always stick to your at short notice and reasonable prices. A perfect fit and bush.' "He died a few days after, and I had to make my way in the world as best as I could. But my father's words sunk deep into my mind, and I never forgot the experience of the whortleberry party -- I 'stuck to my bush.' When I had a fair place, and was doing tolerably well, I did not leave it, and spend weeks and months in finding one a little better. When other young men said, 'Come with us, and we will make a fortune in a few weeks,' I shook my head and 'stuck to my bush.' Presently my employers offered to take me into business with them. I staid with the old house until the principals died, and then I had everything I wanted. The habit of sticking to my business led people to trust me, and gave me a character. ### ABOUT SILENT LIES.

There were prizes to be given in Willie's school, and he was very anxious to merit one of them. As Willie was young, and never had much chance to learn, he was behind the other boys in all his studies except writing. As he had no hope to excel in anything but writing, he made up his mind to try for the special prize for that with all his might. And he Mrs. Simms was a widow, and poor.
