Poetry.

NOT LOST, BUT GONE BEFORE. BY BERTIE LAWRENCE.

When we gather around our fireside now, For the tender evening prayer, On our aching hearts a shadow falls From many a vacant chair; For some have passed from our darkened home, Who knelt with us once to pray, . And the ties that bound our hearts to earth Are breaking and fading away.

In the quiet land beyond the stream, By the peaceful jasper sea, Where naught that defileth can enter in, My mother is waiting for me. We miss the clasp of her gentle hand, And the smiling of lips we love ; But we know that smile is undimmed by tears In the beautiful land above.

From the crimsoned field in the far South-land, With none but the Master near, Our soldier-brother, with willing feet, Went up through Death's valley drear. We may never kneel by his last low bed, Or plant bright flowers on his breast, But we know in the land where they hollow no graves

Our darling's forever at rest.

A little child, with a rippling laugh, And a maiden young and fair, And one in the strength of manhood's prime, - And one with silvery hair, Have passed away from this land of storm To the city paved with gold-With life's burden dropped, and its labor done, They rest in the peaceful fold.

There are more I love in the world of light, Than here in this land of woe, And I long in their presence to forget All I have suffered below; And oft, when my heart grows heavy and faint With bearing life's burden alone, I comfort myself, on my weary way, With thoughts of my dear ones at home.

will be a terrible trial, for you know, as I do, that she places implicit confidence in you, and her affection for you will receive a severe shock. Oh! Agnes, Life Insurance Company it is such a terrible, terrible thing to find yourself deceived when you have trusted any one with all your heart. Oh! it is such cruel, cruel suffering to lose faith in one you fondly love. I pity you, but I pity Minnie more. You suffer because you deserve to suffer, but she will suffer so innocently." Agnes had never thought of that. In confessing to Minnie, she felt that all the humiliation and sutfering would be hers. Now she began, for the first time, to be conscious of the real injury she had done her friend, and her distress became more violent than ever. As Harriet had said, there was but one thing left for her to do; but oh ! where could she find the strength to enable her to do it? There was only one source whence it could be derived, and she knew it; but she had never gone there with a great conscience-burden such as this, and she did not realize the willingness of her Heavenly Father to comfort and strengthen his erring little ones. "Harriet," she said, " leave me alone a little while, and then send Minnie to me." Harriet kissed her and went out, but, before she closed the door, she said gravely : "We have both forgotten, Agnes, that, in your deception, Minnie is not the only one sinned against. You have wounded One whose love for you far outweighs a simply human love, and to whom the confession of your sin will bring no sorrow."

Agnes sunk her face in her hands, and, for the first time in all her life, carried a heart broken for sin to the throne of grace; and she did not carry it there in vain. When Minnie entered the room, Agnes felt a strange courage take possession of her. She told her story calmly, not sparing herself, not excusing herself; but, as she finished, Minnie's paleness, for a moment unnerved her, and she burst into tears, exclaiming : "I dont ask you to forgive me now Minnie. I can wait. But, oh ! tell me that some day-some day, weeks, months, years hence, if need be-you will once again repose in me the old confidence, the old faith. Tellme that, and I can wait."

Poor Minnie! She felt no anger ; she was only conscious of a great, great wound in her heart. She could forgive-oh ! yes ; but, with her sensitive nature, she must suffer.

" Minnie, speak one word-can't you ? Reproach me. Oh ! anything is better than this terrible silence." Minnie took one of Agnes' hands, and, pressing it gently between both of hers, said in a tremulous

117 AS Chartered by Congress, in 1868, with a capital of ONE MILLION DOLLARS, every dollar of to the Stock. was paid in before commenc

This capital is four times as large as that of any American mpany doing a Life Insurance business exclusively side this immense capital, the Company have invested nium reserve to meet maturing Policies of seven idred and sixty-six thousand dollars, making their total sets to January 1st, 1881, one million seven hundred and xty-six thousand dollars. Their liabilities to same date e $807,389, or in other words, they have more than two llars assets for every dollar of liabilities. This success s owing to the facts that their business is conducted upon only common sense plan-"so much insurance for so uch money"-and that the Company's financial management has been economical and cautious.

In this Company there are none of the bewildering unities and disappointments of "notes," "dividends &c., &c., which enter so largely into the business ans of Mutual Companies. The insured buy what they ay for-Insurance. They are not called upon to insure thers, but they are insured by the Company. Instead of charging thirty per cent. more than is neces ary to cover possible losses, the National charges the net st of Insurance and risks its capital to cover any extra ortality. Mutual Companies MAY not need to use this extra thirty per cent.; in that case it is returned to the Policy-holder and mis-called a "Dividend." The National oes not need any extra guarantee, its capital being sufcient, and consequently its rates are from 25 to 30 per ent. lower than those of Mutual Companies The National's Policies are more liberal than any issued the Provinces, allowing residence or travel anywhere in nperate climates. No extra Premiums, Policy-fees, ermits, or extra charges, except upon the half-dozen ocpations generally recognized as EXTRA hazardous. The National is the only Company which has made the quired deposit at Ottawa for the SOLE benefit of Canadian large and of excellent quality, consisting of the best Policy-holders. I has hitherto been found in using any of the Domestic Glue Pots now before the public, that they have generally caused disappointment, for the Flue as soon as sufficiently heated, as speedily becomes chilled, owing to the oling of the small quantity of water which can be used melting the Glue. This inconvenience is avoided in th use of "SPEIGHT'S PATENT DESIDERATUM GLUE POT," where the Family Night Light not only dissolve BLACKSMITH WORK exceuted promptly, on liberal the Glue, but will keep it in a hot and liquid state for several hours, and the necessity and manifest inconvenence is therefore obviated of having to place the Glue Pot on the bars of a hot grate or over a gas jet, as has been ually recommended, and is absolutely necessary in the use of any other Glue Pot. Another great improvement is the inner cup of porcelain which can be at any time ro moved for cleaning, and will be found equally useful for ve agent. The advantage of having a Glue Pot, the separate parts of which can be removed and cleaned, and when necessary renewed, is sufficient alone to recommend the article to public use, and altogether will be found of a character immensely superior to any other of the Domestic Glue replete with all the leading Spring Novelties. CHURNS! CHURNS! CHURNS! HEALTH! TIME! MONEY!

A. LOTTIMER.

Why Should I Buy Kitchen's Patent Churn ? November are now in stock. 560 doz. Rouillon's Best RECAUSE they preserve health, save time, save money, D and the churning is all done in 5 or 10 minutes. You will then believe what I assure you is true, viz. : That I have for sale the best churn ever invented-Kitchen's Patent Rotary Double Dasher. This charn has two Dashers, each revolving in an opposite direction. It is useless to attempt a description of this churn in an advertisement, it has to be seen to be appreciated. It is estimated by practical farmers that it will produce one-tenth more butter from the same quaotity of cream than any other churn now in use. The public are respectfully requested to call at my store, examine the article, and select for themselves. ELY PERKINS,

A moment after, Agnes' face paled strangely Harriet's expression had told Agnes something that made her heart flutter and her eyes fill with tears of mortification. She sank down on a chair and hid her face in her hands and sobbed.

" Oh ! Harriet, I knew I should be found out at last, and I'm almost glad of it, for the falsehood has «weighed so heavily on my conscience. Often and often have I tried to acknowledge the truth, but I lacked the moral courage to do it. The morning Minnie asked me to write in her album I had been reading Campbell, and, in turning over its pages, I encountered those few lines, which I wrote off almost without a moment's thought, and then, having promised that what I gave her should be original, I omitted the quotation marks. When the girl's complimented me, I said to myself-They evidently expect great things of me, and seem to think me quite capable of originating what I have written ; so I can't see that there's been any tremendous degree of harm done. But, oh ! Harriet, I only felt this way for a little while. Soon my guilty secret began to weigh me down, and I have felt every minute since, that I've been acting out a falsehood, and oh ! how I have hated myself for it. Harriet, what can I do?"

said very gently :

You must confess your deception to Minnie. This 1 for the future.
