IN SCHOOL DAYS.

Still sits the school-house by the road, A ragged beggar sunning; Around it still the sumacs grow, And blackberry vines are running. Within, the master's desk is seen, Deep scarred by raps official ; The warping floor, the battered seats The jack-knifes carved initial;

The charcoal frescoes on its wall; Its door's worn sill, betraying The feet that creeping slow to school, Went storming out to playing.

Long years ago a winter sun Shone over it at setting; Lit up its western window-panes, And low eaves' icy fretting.

It touched the tangled golden curls, And brown eyes full of grieving Of one who still her steps delayed When all the school was leaving.

For near her stood the little boy Her childish favor singled; His cap pulled low upon a face Where pride and shame were mingled.

Pushing with restless feet the snow To right and left he lingered :---As restlessly her tiny hands The blue checked-apron fingered,

He saw her lift her eyes; he felt The soft hand's light caressing, And heard the trembling of her voice, As if a fault confessing.

I'm sorry that I spelt the word ; I hate to go above you. Because,-the brown eyes lower fell,-"Because, you see, I love you !"

Still memory to a gray-haired man That sweet child-face is showing ; Dear girl! the grasses on her grave Have forty years been growing !

He lived to learn, in life's hard school, How few who pass above hum Lament their triumph and his loss, Like her, - because they love him.

said, sharply: "Indeed, Mr. Impudence! is there anything more you can tell us about this wonderful carbonic acid gas ?"

"Yes, there is," answered he; "the book says it is a wonderful thing. Water absorbs a great deal FALL AND WINTER, 1870 AND 1871. of it, and this water with the gas in it can dissolve lime and many other minerals in the soil better than pure water can do; and this helps very much | Store, opposite the Telegraph Office, and in the Stores in to make the soil rich. The chemistry says (but I | Hogg's Corner, a few doors above Messrs. Geo. Hatt & shall have to study it hard before I understand it), hogany; 7 Walnut and Chestnut Extension Tables; 14 that the leaves of plants take carbonic acid from the air, and use it in making the wood and all the rest. It is heavier than air, and when there is much of it, the gas sinks; very often it is found in large quantities in the bottom of old wells, and when people go down in them, the gas chokes them to death. It is just the same in coal mines sometimes, and that is why the miners calls it 'chokedamp.'"

"That will do for this time," said his father; "but Johnny must go and stay in the garret till supper to punish him for turning the pantry topsy turvey without his mother's leave."

And so Johnny trundled up stairs, and sat down by the window, looking out on the orchard and the field beyond. He remembered what the book had said—that while a plant is growing, the tiny roots take up minerals dissolved in water, and carrying for Furnishing Houses. them up in sap into the stems, and branches, and leaves, to add to their substance, while the leaves themselves are sucking in carbonic acid from the air for the same purpose. He thought how some of the gas from the saleratus might, perhaps, even then be entering into the Peony that grew by the gate, and that the hickory ashes he had put (a creeping up the juicy stalks, to make the drooping blades still greener. He recalled, too, that the book said that if a plant is burned, the materials and Box-work Boxes and Desks, Purses, Fancy Bags, that are drawn from the ground remain in the shape Beads (various sizes), and other goods.

HOW JOHNNY STUDIED SCIENCE. BY UNCLE OATSTRAW.

in this. The ashes are the minerals, such as lime, Master John Scroggs was thirteen years old. He had blue eyes and red hair, and a nose that turned from the earth, but there is another and a very up at the end. The boys at school made fun of curious substance, called ammonia, that also enters his mouth, telling him that if it was not for his through the roots. This is not left in the ashes, ears, it would go quite round his head. His father but passes off with the smoke when the plant is and mother called him "Johnny," of course. His sister Sally called him "Jack," because it tormented him, and that was the only way she could pay him off for not minding her. Most of the neighbors called him that " awful boy," for he was generally buy some of the chemicals he had read about. in mischief, and very often in trouble.

But it happened one time in June, that he was Johnny's thoughts began to wander. He thought very quiet, and kept out of everybody's way, which is a great thing for a boy to do. His father said brown curls; and of Dick Styles, who was a year that Johnny was getting to be quite a man; his older than he, and was tall and handsome, and who mother remarked that he was not such a bad boy after all ; but Sally stuck to it that he was " conjuring up something, it would'nt be long till they fore, Dick had carried her books for Alice, all the would find him out in some scrape or other." All these sayings had some truth in them, but Sally's against Dick. was the nearest right. For Johnny had struck a new thing, and was busily thinking about it. He had traded away his buck-horn-handled knife with eaves, where he had hid it. Then he came back to another boy for a dog's-eared book on chemistry the window, and sat there studying till the sun He read in it how substances combine with each other to make new ones having different properties, and this was wonderful to him. He found, too, how some of these substances enter into soils, and from these into plants, and from the plants into before the Conference Committee for examination. animals in curious and endless variety. So he kept He was not a book-man nor a theologian, in the thinking, thinking all the while, so that he had no technical sense of that term ; but he knew salvation time for amusement ; he wished so much to underas God teaches it to believing and loving hearts. stand these things that he had never heard of before, and which seemed so strange. The book told how tee, "will you please name some of the evidences to make many experiments, and Johnny picked out of the divinity of our Lord Jesus Christ ?" The those that needed only cheap and common materials and said to himself that he would try some of them. He would enjoy it better, he thought, than stoning asked the committee. The plain man roused him-Mr. Twining's old gray cat, or setting "Buff" barking at Smith's great flock of geese. Thus he. "Yes." His eyes at once filled with tears. He Johnny commenced to travel a very long, and a very steep road-the road of science, and this is started to his feet, and stretching out his great U June 10 how it was.

One afternoon his mother went into the pantry, Methodist hallelujah ring : "Why, bless you, he's and there was Johnny, with a bowl on the shelf saved my soul!" before him, having a liquid foaming and bubbling in it.

"What are you doing here ?" said she. "Nothing," said Johnny, sturdily, "only seeing ed! It means literally, "the band of the house," the carbonic acid come out."

"Good gracious! what is that?" asked his as a band keeps together a sheaf of corn. There mother, as she looked over his shoulder. DECAUSE they preserve health, save time, save money and the churning is all done in 5 or 10 minutes. You will then believe what I assure you is true, viz. : That I have for sale the best churn ever invented--Kitchen's Patent Rotary Double Dasher. This churn has two Dashers, each revolving in an opposite direction. It is useless to attempt a description of this churn in an advertisement, it has to be seen to be sppreciated. It is estimated by practical farmers that it will produce one-tenth more butter from the same quantity of cream than any other churn now in use The public are respectfully requested o call at my store, examine the article, and select for ELY PERKINS, Fredericton, April 22, 1870.
