Brother, in thy day of need, Sister, in thy night of sorrow, Weaker than a bruised reed, Waiting, trembling, for the morrow-Whatsoe'er thy burden be, Jesus whispers, 'Give it me!'

Presses close thy cup of pain, Evermore to make thee sip? Seekest thou relief in vain From the chalice at thy lip? On the Great Physician call! He will heal thee—tell him all!

Spreads the tempter covert snares, Waiting that thy feet may slide? Hedges he thy path with cares-Walking always at thy side? Luring but to plunge thee in Deeper in the depths of sin ?

Or do words and deeds-thine own-Weigh thee to the very dust, Shutting out the crown and throne-Hiding from thy soul her trust? Stretch thy hand! uplift thy cry! Loving, pitying, He is nigh!

Doth some cross before thee rise, And thou dar'st not leave it there-Yet, to thy beclouded eyes Looks it terrible to bear? Ask of Him to give it Thee-LIFE and LOVE that cross shall be! Bows thy spirit in the dust, Smitten, thoughtlessly and sore-Gathering up the broken trust, Looking toward her friends no more? Lean on Him, thy Living Head-All forsook Him once-and fled. He forgave! Oh, then forgive! Sinning, sorrowing, weary, weak-Dare we unforgiving live, We who daily pardon seek? Gather we about His cross-He will give us gold for dross. Christian Union.

BURIED IN A COAL MINE.

you like to visit a coal mine? We come to a great hole in the ground, and get into a big basket hung by stout chains to a windlass. Down, down we go. It grows blacker and blacker, and is quite dark by the time we touch the bottom. Here passage-ways run off in every direction, often crossing each other like the streets of a town. On each side of these are caves, where the coal is dug out. Thick pillars are left between, to hold up the roof. The men who hew out the coal are called "hewers." The coal is put into tubs running on wooden wheels, and dragged to the foot of the shaft. Those who do this are called "putters." It is hard work pulling these heavy loads through the long, low, dark passages. Beside these, are the "trappers," whose business is to sit cooped up in little black holes, to open and shut the trap-doors which lead out of the passages. This is boys' work. Often little boys of nine or ten are employed. It is not hard, but very dismal and tiresome. And they have to stay all day long! How should you like it, children, who go to school, and play on the grass in the sunshine?

Then there are dangers down in the mine which do not happen to people above ground. Foul air sometimes chokes the men to death; water sometimes spouts up and drowns them; and sometimes a part of a mine "caves in." This is called a

One morning, while the pitmen were at work in a mine in the north of England, they heard a noise like thunder. In a moment every lamp was out; for the men work by lamps,-there is not a spark of daylight there. "A crush! a crush!" cry the men; and all throw down their tools, and run.

It is Tuesday morning. The men gather at the mouth of the pit and count their number. Five are missing. two "hewers," two "putters," and one little "trapper," Robert Lester. People above hear the noise, and rush to the pit's mouth. The workmen are taken up. O, the agony of the wives and mothers of those who are left behind! Brave men go back to their rescue. They light their candles, and reach the "crush." There is nothing but a heap of ruins. Were the poor miners instantly killed, or are they hemmed in to die of starvation ? it is a dreadful thought. They called and shouted but no answer. They began with pickaxes and shovels to clear the way. It is hard labor and great risk. The news of the accident brings help from far and near. Men flock from all quarters to offer their services. How they work! Towards night they hear something. Listen! It is not a voice, but a tapping. It can just be heard! Clink, clink, clink, clink! five times, and then it jewelry. stopped. Five more, and then a stop. What does it mean? One man guessed that, as there were five missing, the five clinks showed all five were alive waiting for deliverance. A shout of joy was raised in and above the pit.

Among the foremost of the workers was the father of little Robert the "trapper." Night and day he never left the mine, and hardly quitted his work.

How does it fare with the poor prisoners? They awful noise. Little Robert left his door, and ran all the burial they get .- Our Young Folks. to the men, who well knew what it meant. Waiting till everything was quiet, they went forward to examine the passage-way Robert left. It was blocked up. They tried another; that, too, was blocked up. O, fearful thought, they were buried

What dark and dreadful days! Worse then all, the sounds they had heard did not appear to draw near. And yet prayer and songs of praise might have been heard in that dismal cavern. By Friday morning their food was gone, and by Friday night their

If you don't fancy a crib of sand for a baby, what do you think of a big shoe, stuffed with moss to make it comfortable? The droll little Lapps cradle their babies in that way. The shoe is large of course, and made of reindeer skin. It comes up high at the back, like the slippers we wear nowadays, and is turned up at the toe. The moss with which it is stuffed is the famous reindeer moss, lung across its mother's back.

Perhaps this baby that lives in a shoe is no more comical than the baby who lives in a fur baganother sober little black-eyed baby, away off in the silvery Esquimaux huts. WATCHMAKING IN SWITZERLAND.

[From the Swiss Times of May 30th.] WE have already drawn attention to the annual meeting of the Society of Arts, held on the 23rd current, under the presidentship of M. Th. de Saussure, and are now able to furnish some further details. Professor Soret, in delivering a most interesting report passed in review the operations of the Industrial section n reference to Commerce, laying great stress upon th competition that has taken place in the manufacture hronometers. This competition was instituted with th object of testing the workmanship and precision of chro-nometers turned out by Genevese manufacturers, and none but those adopted for pocket use were admitted. They were deposited in charge of the authorities at the Observa-tory, and underwent the most searching ordeal possible to be applied to pocket instruments of this class. The jury specially retained to decide the difficult question as to whom to award the palm of excellence unanimously decided in favor of Messrs. J. M. Badollet & Co. This firm nometer which fulfilled in the highest degree every condition required, crowned their first success by gaining honorable mention for two other chronometers.
