THIS I DID FOR THEE.

WHAT DOEST THOU FOR ME? I gave my life for thee, My precious blood I shed, That thou might'st ransomed be, And quickened from the dead, I gave my life for thee; What hast thou given for me?

I spent long years for thee, In weariness and woe, That one eternity Of joy thou mayest know. I spent long years for thee; Hast thou spent one for me?

My Father's house of light, My rainbow-circled throne, I left for earthly night,

For wanderings sad and lone; I left it all for thee? Hast thou left aught for me?

I suffered much for thee-More than thy tongue can tell, Of bitterest agony, To rescue thee from hell. I suffered much for thee; What dost thou bear for me?

And I have brought to thee, Down from my home above, Salvation full and free, My pardon and my love.

Great gifts I brought to thee; What hast thou brought to me?

Oh ! let thy life be given, Thy years for me be spent, World-fetters all be riven, And joy with suffering blent. I gave myself for thee; Give thou thyself to me.

"THOU GOD SEEST ME."

THE BANKER'S STORY. It was a large black walnut frame, and it hung almost from the ceiling in the little bedroom. It was a mother's work, putting of it there. She was always doing something quietly for the good of her boys. She never found much fault with them;

At last the fearful moment came. All the others had left. He remained un- now able to furnish some further details. der pretence of finishing some business. He walked to the vault and swung open the heavy door. As he reached out his hand to grasp the money, it fell from his fingers as if it had been a bar of redhot iron. He trembled as in a convulsion, and then the burning thought flashed across has terrible excited mind, "THOU GOOD SEEST Me." He felt the eye of God gazing upon him and, with reproving glance, warning him of his guilt. He fell upon the floor and groaned aloud. The money he had dropped seemed to answer, " Thou God seest me." He cried out aloud, "O God of my mother, save me from this crime!" And God did save him. In uttering the prayer he had passed the crisis. He replaced the package of money, closed the vault, and repaired at once to the house of the president of the bank, related to him all that had transpired, and begged to be dismissed from his position. The president was a good and wise man, and promised that he would keep the matter a secret, assured him that his conto retire for a month from the bank to recover his shattered energies and to reflect upon the past, and prepare himself for the future At the end of that time he could resume his duties as if nothing had taken place. H. came back with a deep sense of his own weakness, but with a firmer reliance upon the grace of God as his only true safeguard, and anything introduced here.
