(From the Sunday School World) THE USE OF CONSCIENCE.

BY REV. DR. NEWTON. Conscience is the eye of the soul. I mean by this that conscience is very much the same thing to the soul that the eye is to the body. God has put these eyes in our bodies that we may see where to go and what to do. And so God has put something in our souls which we call conscience, and which is intended to show us what is right and what is wrong; what we ought to do and what we

But the apostle speaks, in our text, of "an evil conscience." "An evil conscience" means a conscience that has been injured, like a diseased eye, so that we can't see properly with it. We all have such a conscience, because we are all sinners. In our text the apostle points out the way in which this injury done to our consciences may be removed, when he speaks of "having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience." Here, then, we have a leaf from the tree of life for the healing of conscience. Our subject to-day is, "The evil conscience

And in order properly to understand this subject, there are three questions to be asked and answered.

The first question is, what is the USE of conscience? God makes use of conscience for several things. One of the things for which God uses conscience is as a guide, to keep us from doing wrong. You know we have reins to our horses for the purpose of guiding them in the way in which we want them to go, and our consciences are the reins by said one boy to another; "there was nobody there to see." "Yes, there was though," said the other boy. "There were two to see. I was there to see myself, and I never want to see myself do a mean or dishonest thing; and then God was there to see me." This boy was minding the reins. Remember, whenever you are tempted to do anything wrong, there are always "two to see." And this shows us the true meaning of the word conscience. It is made up of two Latin words: "scire," to know, and "con," together. It means knowing together.

They didn't know that that little instrument was keeping a 100 brls. Kendall. For sale by correct account of every yard of ground they went over. And just so it is with conscience. It is busy all the time; and at last it will give a correct account of all that we have done.

And then there is another way in which God makes use of conscience, and that is as a detective, to find out sin, after it has been committed.

You know we have what are called detective police, when a robbery has taken place, or a murder has been committed, these men are set to work to try and detect or find out who did it. And God makes use of conscience as one of his detective police, to find out those who have been doing wrong. The Bible says, "be sure your sin will find you out." And God often finds sin out, or causes it to be discovered through the power of conscience. Sometimes conscience makes those conscience conscience makes those conscience makes those conscience makes those conscience makes those conscience conscience makes those conscience conscien who have done wrong feel so badly that they are obliged to come and confess what they have done.

A boy once stole a half sovereign. No one saw him, except the two that we spoke of a little while ago. Nobody suspected him. But he felt so unhappy, so uneasy and ashamed of himself that he could not have a moment's peace or comfort, night or day. He said to himself, "Why, this is dreadful. I can't stand this for all the sovereigns in the Bank of England." So he brought the money back to the person from whom he had stolen it. He confessed his sin and asked to be forgiven; then he felt delivered and happy again. Now you see it was conscience that made this boy feel so unhappy, and compelled him to come and confess his sin. Conscience found it out.

And even when conscience does not lead people freely to confess their sins, as this boy did, it leads o their being found out in some other way.

Some years ago, a gentleman who lived in the isand of Barbadoes, owned a large plantation and a great number of slaves. One time a sum of money was stolen from his office. He believed it had been stolen by one of his slaves, but was at a loss how to find out the man who did it. His slaves, he knew, were poor, ignorant creatures. They had never had any Christian instruction. They thought of God as a great serpent, who lived in the woods near their plantation; and they stood in great fear of this serpent. So he thought he would make use of the power of conscience to find out the thief. Having called his slaves together, he spoke to them thus: "My boys, the great serpent appeared to me last night, and told me that the person who stole my money would have a parrot's feather grow out of the end of his nose as soon as I snapped my gers three times." Then he deliberately snapped his fingers, keeping an eye on the men as he did so. Just as he gave the third snap he saw one of the men put his hand on his nose, to feel if the feather was coming. He charged him with being the thief, and found the lost money hidden away in his cabin. It was the power of conscience in that poor slave which made him feel for the feather.

And so we have answered the first question, What is the use of conscience? We have seen that Gcd uses it as a guide to keep us from doing wrong; as a clerk or secretary to keep an accountof what we do, and as a detective, to find out sin when it has been committed.

MOTHERS, PUT YOUR CHILDREN TO BED.

There may be some mothers who feel it to be a self denial to leave their parlors, or fire-sides, or work, to put their little children to bed. They think that the nurse could do it just as well; that which God wishes to guide us; and if we only it is of no consequence who "hears the children mind the reins we shall save ourselves a great deal say their prayers." Now, setting aside the pleasure of opening the little bed and tucking the darl-"Why didn't you pocket some of those pears?" | ing up, there are really important reasons why the mother should not yield this privilege to any one. In the first place, it is the time of all times when a child is inclined to show his confidence and affection. All its secrets come out with more truth and less restraint; its naughtiness through the day can be reproved and talked over with less excitement, and with the tenderness and calmness necessary to make a permanent impression. If the little one has shown a desire to do well and be obedient, its effort and success can be acknowledged and commended in a matter that need not render it vain or self-satisfied. We must make it a habit to talk to God and ourselves are the two who must know all our children, in order to get from them an expression of their feelings. HOW THEY SHAVE IN CHINA.

A traveler who has been shaved in China says good Bishop Latimer was brought to trial for his that his barber first strapped the razor on his leg, man writing. Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, f Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald ad. Ringworm, and internal IIIcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhoea, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons. It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even when no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of
