JUST OVER THE MOUNTAIN. BY REV. DWIGHT WILLIAMS.

I read of a lovelier clime Than earth with its summer array, Beyond the dark mountains of time, It stretches in beauty away; The smile of our God is the light That giveth the hue of its flowers, And mantles each beauty-crowned height With sunlight more tranquil than ours. Just over the mountain it lies, The sweet summer land of the soul; And O, 'neath those beautiful skies,

No storm-cloud ever shall roll.

A pilgrim and stranger I roam, In search of that country afar; I read of a mansion, my home, For beauty as bright as a star; The city prepared of our God, Hath dwellers within it, I know; Familiar its streets are now trod, By those I have loved here below. Just over the mountain it lies, And often in vision I see The house of my Father arise-

The home of my kindred and me. I journey by faith o'er the hills, I wind through the valleys below, I sing 'mid the storms and the ills Which pilgrims must suffer and know; O, shall I, some bright, sunny morn, Look down from the summit of bliss,

A pilgrim to angelhood born, Escaped to that country from this? Just over the mountain it lies, And there is the home of my heart; The sight of it gladdens my eyes, And biddeth my sorrows depart.

And shall I the city behold, Whose builder and maker is God; Whose walls are of jasper and gold, Whose streets by the angels are trod? Shall I through the emerald gate, From earth and its desert of sin, Pass on to my angel estate, With Jesus forever shut in! Just over the mountain it lies, My home in the valley below; And O, what a joyful surprise,

To eatch the first sight of its glow. A pilgrim and stranger confessed, I look to the mountain of light, From whence the dear land of the blest-The Canaan I seek, is in sight. C. Jesus, my Saviour and guide, I follow Thy rough, thorny road, Till with Thee I safely abide, At home in the land of our God. Just over the mountain it lies; Contented and happy I roam, Till dropping this frail, mortal guise, I stand in the light of my home.

A STORY FOR BOYS.

Georgie walked thoughtfully up the street, on his way home from Sunday school. The lesson about Daniel in the den of lions, had impressed him very much. He remembered how fierce the lions looked a day after the king's decree. It may take as when he went to the menagerie last summer, and much courage for my little boy to stand by the flag how frightened he lelt when they growled. What of the cross in his every day life at school," he cona great and good man Daniel must have been, to be willing to be thrown in among hungry lions, rather than give up praying to his God for thirty

"Papa," said he that evening, as they sat by the fire-light, waiting for the supper bell to ring, " don't you think Daniel was a very good man?" "Yes, my son," answered his father, smiling

"do you think there are many men now as good | the leaves, he went off to play. as Daniel was ?"

"I have no doubt there are a great many," an-

Georgie sighed, and looked into the fire. "I

There was not more time for conversation; and his task.

The next day, as Georgie raced and frolicked remember this? with the boys on the way home from school, you would suppose he had forgotten all about the den

"I say, boys," said Guy Davis, as they came round the corner, "let's go a skating; Jim says it's splendid down on the back pond."

"Hurrah, I say," shouted Georgie, who loved to skate better than anything; and, "Hurrah," they all screamed, as they went tearing down the street. "Hold on, boys," cried Archie Gale, who had fallen a little behind the rest. "I've got ten cents to get some pea nuts. Let's go into 'Old Royal's' and get warm; and any fellow that's got some cents can contribute, and we'll have a jolly treat before we go down." His suggestion was received with loud applause, and a stampede was made at once for "Old Royal's," who kept the "corner grocery," the like of which is to be found in almost every village. There was always a bright fire, and much good cheer, which made it an inviting place to boys, whose ears and toes were always cold going to and from school; and they household adds a little contribution, and sends it liked nothing better than to go in and hear some funny story while they warmed themselves by the fire. Georgie did not often go in, for he had heard his father say that Mr. Royal did as much harm as of the joys, sorrows, plans, and pursuits of the one Sunday school could do good; but to-day he rushed in with the rest of the boys. "Well, boys, what's up?" said Mr. Royal, pleas-

"We're going a skating," said Archie, " and we want some peanuts." "Ha, ha, ha," laughed Mr. Royal. "Want some peanuts to go a skating on! Come up to the fire

"Yes," said Archie, as the boys clustered about the fire, " we are going to have a contribution of all the cents in our pockets, and get a parcel of peanuts."

and warm you. Its an awful raw wind to-day."

"Peanuts," said Mr. Royal, rubbing his hands "Every man to his own liking; but if I was going skating this cold day, I'd have something that An old farmer said to his sons:" Boys, don't would keep me warm."

"Iv'e got a barrel that's prime—make you skate like lightning."

"Is it new?" asked one of the boys, who had signed the pledge a few weeks before, and though nothing was said about hard cider in particular, he

"Got the sparkles a little," said Mr. Royal. "Bu it won't hurt you. Get your cents out, and I'll heat it up, and you'll think it's just squeezed out of the

"Good for you," said Archie, while several boys clapped their hands. "Get out your chink." Georgie had already taken seven cents out of his morning for bringing a basket of shavings, and two that had been in his pocket several days. He thought the peanuts a good idea; but when the cider was mentioned he hesitated, for he had signed the pledge too, and, looking at the cents rather doubtfully, he put his hand slowly back into his pocket. He wished heartily that he had not come into the store, for Archie was the largest boy in the

"Where's your's?" said Archie, coming up to saw it in your hand."

"I don't want any cider," said Georgie. The boys all stopped talking and looked at Georgie, and Mr. Royal stopped and looked around, as he was walking up with a pitcher in his hand. Two or three men who were in the back part of the store came up to see what was the mat-

"Come, hurry up," said Archie, as Georgie hesitated a little. "We won't have any stingy fellow on the ice with us, will we, boys?" "I'd be ashamed to hold on to my cents that way," said one of the boys.

"So would I, and I," echoed two or three. "Never mind, boy," said a rather good-natured looking man, patting Georgie on the shoulder;

"It isn't that," said Georgie flushing a little, but looking very resolute. "I was going to give my cents towards the peanuts; but I belong to the temperance society, and shan't drink old cider, nor buy it either."

"You needn't try to humbug me that way," said Archie, very angrily, at the same time giving him may 21 The truth was, Archie had signed the pledge too, but was trying very hard to forget it; and Georgie's reminding him of it made him very an-

Georgie looked rather sober as he went out of the door, for he was sorry to lose the skating. "I don't care," he thought as he started down the hill, "I'd rather not skate for six weeks than tell a lie; and if I break the pledge it is telling a lie of the worst kind," and he whistled cheerily as he set out

"Why, papa, what do you mean ?" said Georgie, very much astonished.

"I mean," said his father, "that it was the same spirit that made you stick to your pledge to-day, that made Daniel kneel down and pray three times tinued, "as it did for Daniel to pray by his window. KEEP UP FAMILY ATTACHMENTS.

One of the saddest things about a large family, who have lived happily together for years under the old roof-tree, is the scattering to distant homes, which takes place as they grow up, one by one, to years of maturity. It is often the case that, in the more infrequent, and finally brothers and sisters brated Shirts, and for the information of persons at a distance desiring to order, the following is published: cares and bustle of business, letters grow more and will sometimes entirely lose eight of each other. These kindred ties are much too sacred to be thus ightly severed. It takes such a little while to write a letter, and the expense is so trifling, that there can hardly be an excuse for the neglect. A loving family circle, thus widely severed, adopted a curious but beautiful plan for keeping informed of each other's welfare. The two most remote, on the first of each month, write a part of a page on a large sheet containing the principal news of the month, and this is sealed and forwarded to on to the next, and so on till the circle is complete. Thus the family circle goes its rounds twelve times a year, and each one is kept well informed

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "athousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The en-riched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon. This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhoea, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or ac-companied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not foltowed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Con-

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial. See that each bottle has PERU-

ACCOUNT BOOKS RULED AND BOUND TO ANY PATTERN. BARNES & CO., Nos. 58 and 60 Prince Wm. Street. may 16 WATCHMAKING IN SWITZERLAND.

[From the Swiss Times of May 30th.] WE have already drawn attention to the annual meeting of the Society of Arts, held on the 23rd current, under the presidentship of M. Th. de Saussure, and are now able to furnish some further details. Professor Soret, in delivering a most interesting report, passed in review the operations of the Industrial section, in reference to Commerce, laying great stress upon the competition that has taken place in the manufacture of chronometers. This competition was instituted with the object of testing the workmanship and precision of chronometers turned out by Genevese manufacturers, and none but those adopted for pocket use were admitted. They were deposited in charge of the authorities at the Observatory, and underwent the most scarching ordeal possible to be applied to pocket instruments of this class. The jury specially retained to decide the difficult question as the specially retained to decide the difficult question as having carried off the sole prize by exhibiting a chronometer which fulfilled in the highest degree every condition required, crowned their first success by gaining honorable mention for two other chronometers. The allusion to this triple honor was received with enthusiastic applause, and Professor Humbert, President of the Fine Arts Section closed the meeting with happy and humorous dissertation upon subjects connected with this department.

GEO. HUTHINSON, Jr., CHURNS! CHURNS! CHURNS! HEALTH! TIME! MONEY! WHY SHOULD I BUY KITCHEN'S PATENT CHURN? BECAUSE they preserve health, save time, save money, and the churning is all done in 5 or 10 minutes. You will then believe what I assure you is true, viz.: That I have for sale the best churn ever invented—Kitchen's Patent Rotary Double Dasher. This churn has two Dashers, each revolving in an opposite direction. It is useless to attempt a description of this churn in an advertisement, it has to be seen to be appreciated. It is estimated by practical farmers that it will produce one-tenth more
