REACHING THE HARBOUR. BY MRS. HARRIET WARD HUDSON. What matters though life's passage be stormy, That the wind and the billows unite With the roar of the echoing thunder

To fill our sad thoughts with affright? No reckoning from sun or from starlight To be taken o'er all the dark way; Nought else but the chart left to guide us. As our bark rushes on through the spray.

What though o'er the tempest-tossed ocean The blackness of darkness prevail; As with tear blinded eyes, O, so vainly, We search for a near friendly sail.

All alone on the dark seething waters, That yawn from beneath to overwhelm. Almost, in our anguish, forgetting That our Father still guideth the helm.

If by faith, through the darkness discerning, We catch but a ray, though afar, From the glorious lighthouse of heaven Bright Bethlehem's beautiful star,

We will fear no evil nor tremble. But rejoice as we enter the harbour That life's perilous voyage is o'er;

Though the tongue be forbidden to utter. The glazed eye to reflect back the light, The glories of the heavenly morning, As it breaks o'er life's turbulent night

FRANK'S TEMPTATION AND VICTORY. A TRUE STORY.

Baldwin was a son of whom any parent's heart ly blessed him .- Il. Christian Weekly. might well be proud. Frank's home was a humble one, and when a mere boy he felt it a delight to be able to do anything to make lighter the burden which he saw rested heavily on his parents.

He had early listened to the voice which said, "My son, give me thy heart;" and when he expressed a desire to go from home to try his fortune, his parents consented, for they felt assured that in all times of trouble and perplexity he would seek comfort and guidance from his Father in heaven.

Frank left home with a brave heart, and found his way to one of our large western cities. He immediately began his search for employment. He met rebuffs, but he was not discouraged. He had no friends to aid him, but he asked God to guide more than six hundred feet. At a depth of from worth realizing, could walk through our streets

Th. de Saussure, and are now able to furnish some further details. Professor Soret, in delivering a most interesting report, passed in review the operations of the Industrial section, in reference to Commerce, laying great stress upon the competition that has taken place in the manufacture of School Books, Bibles, Church Services, Hymn chronometers. This competition was instituted with the object of testing the workmanship and precision of chro-Blank Books, Ledgers, Journals, Day Books, neters turned out by Genevese manufacturers, and none but those adopted for pocket use were admitted. They were deposited in charge of the authorities at the Observatory, and underwent the most searching ordeal possible to be applied to pocket instruments of this class. The jury specially retained to decide the difficult question as to whom to award the palm of excellence unparimously de-FOOLSCAP, LETTER AND NOTE PAPERS, AND whom to award the palm of excellence unanimously de-cided in favor of Messrs.
