Rainbows ever gently curled;

For the hand that rocks the cradle

Is the hand that rocks the world. Infancy's the tender fountain; Power may with beauty flow; Mothers first to guide the streamlets; From them souls unresting grow, Grow on for the good or evil, Sunshine streamed or darkness hurled;

For the hand that rocks the cradle Is the hand that rocks the world. Woman, how divine your mission! Here upon our natal sod! Keep, O keep the young heart open Always to the breath of God! All true trophies of the Ages Are from Mother Love impearled; For the hand that rocks the cradle Blessings on the hand of Woman! Father, sons, and daughters cry, And the sacred song is mingled With the worship in the sky; Mingles where no tempest darkens, Rainbows evermore are hurled; For the hand that rocks the cradle Is the hand that rocks the world.

Is the hand that rocks the world.

When the desolate husband and father returning from a distant city the next day, went forth to seek his treasures, he found his wife, her hair, eyebrows, face and neck scorched with the fire, but her body frozen stiff. Whether she perished by the flames or the frost no one ever knew. But on morning?" It was morning for the mother in the deeply pious, and God raised up friends for him, the boy like you, with a healthy taste for food and land of love, where there is not any more night.

Children this is a true story, an incident of the that he was, Chicago fire. I met the poor, bereaved father, as grandmother's home in the East; and he told me town in Germany, sat playing his flute, while Urs- or beer, or a little wine at parties now and then. he was carrying his metherless little ones to their this story of wonderful love. And yet it is no ula, his wife, was preparing supper. They heard a This corrupted his pure taste, and give him an unmore than any mother would do for her children; sweet voice singing outside, for love is not love unless it leads us to sacrifice ourselves for those we love.

All mothers love their children by instinct, that is by a wonderful faculty God has given them,just because they are their children; but the Bible tells us that we ought to love all our fellow Christians in just the same way.

"What," you say, "be willing to die for them, as this woman died for her children ?" Yes! " God laid down his life for us, and we ought lay down our lives for the brethren," and "the brethren" means all those who are the children of God.

You remember how Jesus laid down his life on the Cross that we might be saved; you remember how his first disciples laid down their lives, by being thrown to the wild beasts, stoned to death, or burned in the flames, that they might preach the gospel of our salvation. You know how missionaries have left their homes and gone to unhealthy climates, where they were sure to meet death, and so laid down their lives for their poor heathen brethren, who had never heard of Jesus; and how Crusaders and soldiers of the Reformation rushed into battle to defend their persecuted fellow Christians, willingof their adversaries; and in all this, they just fol- keep him, if he was willing. In the morning they "Touch not, taste not, handle not the unclean lowed the example of Him who laid down his life | found that he was only too glad to remain. for us.

You are not called upon to due for any one." No! The sweet voice of the little singer became the but there is another and perhaps a more difficult way in which you can lay down your life for others. I mean by giving it up, day by day, to kind acts and deeds of self-denial, in order to make them happy. Can you love other Christians, those for whom Christ died, enough to give up your own time and pleasure for them? Can you give away "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers." The afterwards swept off by it, and runs through a hole ecute kind actions, and speak gentle and loving sung on that memorable night: words, can you bear reproach and misrepresentation, and return good for evil just for love's sake; then you may indeed hope that you have "passed from death unto life, because you love the breth-

But if you cannot: if you hate others, and are selfish and unkind, and yet think that you love Jesus, do not be deceived, for the Bible says, "He that loveth not his brother abideth in death."

LITTLE, BUT STRONG.

Are you pretty strong ? It has been demonstrated that a beetle is capable of lifting 315 times its own weight. A man of ordinary muscular power is not a hundreth part as powerful; and had an elephant such comparative strength, it could run away with a load of 5,000,000 pounds. The flea, too, scarcely three-hundreths of an inch in height, manages to leap, without difficulty, over a barrier fully 500 times its own altitude. For a man, six feet is an unusually high leap. Imagine him jumping 3,000 feet, or nearly three-fifths of a mile.

HOW TO MAKE THE BOYS HATE FARMING. NEVER RIDICULE THE UNFORTUNATE. A farmer wrote a letter to a member of the Club. "Hollo, old limpy! I say, old man, let's see you requesting him, if possible, to find for him a boy | run!" and a shout arose from a thoughtless group who is honest, truthful, not !azy, and who will be of boys just out of school, as they saw an old man likely to love farming. He wanted a boy to pick tottering along with two crutches, making but up stones, churn, milk the cows, turn grindstones, slow progress over the slippery snow. One boy &c.; and one also, who will not hate farming and sent a big snowball at his head, knocking off bis run away every chance he gets; to which S. E. hat, and letting his long gray locks stream out on Todd responded as follows;
