Mid thorns or flowers. But, Lord, the flesh is weak; Thy gracious aid I seek, For thou the word must speak That makes me strong. Then let me hear thy voice, Thou art my only choice; Oh! bid my heart rejoice;

Be thou my song. May it be joy to me To follow only thee-Thy faithful servant be, Thine to the end. For thee I'll do and dare, For thee the cross I'll bear, To thee direct my prayer. On thee depend. Saviour with me abide; Be ever near my side; Support, defend and guide-I look to thee.

"I'll risk him. I'm lonely, and I knew and loved his mother. I'm doing well in business and wouldn't need to touch his little property till he needs it to begin life with." "Nabby, you're a member of the church and ought to set an example to the young. But Phil will go, spite of you, to every comic concert, and every circus that comes along, and folks will say you're countenancing such things. Mrs. Cross a good woman, and she says there's an awful amount of original sin in him-and such an eater

"I guess I'll try him," said Nabby, " and see ff I can't get some of this sin out of him, and as to his eating, he may have all he wants. Growing boys need more food than men do."

And she did try him; and the orphan boy, whose chief sin was a great flow of animal spirits was delighted to find a home where a painted floor wasn't sacred, where he could take a cookie or a doughnut when he was hungry, without being looked on as a thief, and where a boy's storybook was not, of necessity, a work of the evil one. He was like a little monarch with a small world for his kingdom. He felt that he owned the house, the shop, the bright carpet, the stairs and the sofa, and even Nabby herself, with her pretty gray curls and her motherly smile. He talked of "our house," "our shop," and "our wood pile," and over the last he presided most faithfully. Being a good writer and quick at figures, he was soon, able to keep the simple books of the shop and to make out and collect the bills, and in the busy season he helped Nabby in her simple house-work and acted as clerk out of school hours. He was as happy as any boy could be who had no mother. When he had been with Nabby a whole year, he remembered that she had never once called him, "a horrid boy;" and when, on his fifteenth birthday she presented him with a handsome tool-chest, he ventured to ask her opinion of him.

"Do you think I've grown good, suddenly, Miss Nabby, or what is it that makes such a difference in me since I came here? I don't feel half so "You may well ask what's going to be done wicked as I used to, and I try a great deal harder to please every body and to save trouble."

"It's because you've got with somebody now that understands you and sympathizes with you, Philip. I know you're a boy and I want you to be one. I wouldn't make a man of you yet if I could. I want you to have all the boyish sport you can get now, for you'll never get it after ty, and his grandfather had only the use of it, and you've grown up. Enjoy your life, child, as God blessings, for they all come from Him," replied

> "Do you think I was such a 'horrid boy' as Aunt Solomon called me, before I came here?" asked Philip.

"I don't suppose you were any better than you of age, any way. He's led a lazy, petted life so horrid women' as well as 'horrid boys'—I think. great city that contained the Anthonys' home. This "horrid boy" grew up a noble man, hon ored by all who knew him. He built up a large ousiness, and filled many offices of trust in the town, but none of his cares made him neglectful of Nabby Willet. She lived to a great age, always happy in the prosperity of the one she had saved, by kindness, from that reckless life which too often follows discouragement and desperation in boy-

"But can't you forbid his going there?" said Mrs.

"Yes, and I must; I will tell him to morrow morning that he must choose some other intimates. There will be a storm I suppose, for he has a very strong will. For my part I don't see why he is so attracted to Fred; he is a very common-place fellow, and there isn't one of the family fit to associate with my boy, when you come to brightness and "I should think not," replied Mrs. Browning

"I don't wonder," said the same lady, a few minutes later, to the neighbor who came next in her round of call, "that Charley Hart isn't satisfied at home; you ought to have seen Mrs. Hart this evening; she looked so dowdy that I was ashamed for her; she was sitting in her own room, and everything was lying around at sixes and sevens; the parlors were shut up, of course, like a tomb; they were in perfect order, no doubt. I wonder what Charley would do with himself if he should stay at

I will not record the answer to this neighborly ruthtelling, though I will ask here, why Mrs. Browning did not suggest to Mrs. Hart the fault n her home, instead of telling it to a third person whom it could not possibly benefit?

In the meantime, Charley was at the Anthonys. And what a cheerful, jolly place it was! They were all in the back parlor, the boys at the library table reading books of adventure by the drop-light one sister at the piano, and one turning over a port folio of engravings with a girl-friend. The mother sat in her easy chair, some light work in hand, looking as delicate and elegant as if she had dressed for a particular occasion. And so she had; she had dressed for an evening with her children. Her hair was most becomingly arranged, and her gown of soft merino-not expensive but graceful and suitable-was daintily finished at neck and wrists and was indeed, as a mother should be, the central prices. A call is respectfully solicited. gure of the home.

The room was gay with pictures and summerlike with vines and blossoming plants; it echoed with music and laughter; it was brilliant with light and with smiles; and Charley Hart was as satisfied should be; but then there are 'horrid men' and a boy as could be found within the limits of the and tried the patience of fussy old ladies; but I there? The Anthonys were people who lived upon a low moral plane. Their joy was wholly of this world. The boys studied that they might win worldly success through intellectual power; the lonely life much happier than it was before," said girls learned music and drawing and French, they studied dress and deportment, that they might succeed in society and "marry well." They were joyful like butterflies in their temporary sunshine and knew nothing of the spiritual joy and strength which comes from real trust in God and communion

Now, most young, unthinking people will say that they would rather be happy sinners like the Anthonys than dread, dark saints in wrappers like Mrs. Hart; but the point I wish to bring out is this: the necessity, the practicability of combining a genuine Christian life with such beauty and brightness that the young may be attracted and

Mrs. Hart had as much money as the Anthonys but she had fallen into a habit of living in her own room, of neglecting dress, of allowing herself to be absorbed in so-called spiritual readings and reflection and in church affairs, and her son's warm, loving eager nature was starving and freezing. Charley Hart, as a little boy, loved his mother very dearly; veloped tastes and inclinations innocently natural and repressed, his love turned to other channels. Sarsaparilla Is widely known as one of the most ever discovered for cleansing the sys-tem and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its renarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great cor-ruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, r diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipe-las, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ul-cerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other comlaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhoea, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous peison It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even when no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of PREPARED BY

Also—A small lot of RED INK PENS, for Ruling,—do not injure the Red Ink. For sale by BARNES & CO., 58 Prince William Street. Iron in the Blood

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases to quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "athousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste.

secreting out morbid secre-tions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon. This is the secret of the wonderfit success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsla, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhoea, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Con-

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial. See that each bottle has PERU-VIAN SYRUP blown in the glass. Paraphlets Free. SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, Proprietors, CHURNS! CHURNS! CHURNS! HEALTH! TIME! MONEY! WHY SHOULD I BUY KITCHEN'S PATENT CHURNA DECAUSE they preserve health, save time, save money, and the churning is all done in 5 or 10 minutes. You will then believe what I assure you is true, viz.: That I have for sale the best churn ever invented—Kitchen's Patent Rotary Double Dasher. This churn has two Dashers, each revolving in an opposite direction. It is useless to attempt a description of this churn in an advertisement, it has to be seen to be appreciated. It is estimated by practical farmers that it will produce one-tenth more butter from the same quantity of cream than any other churn now in use. The public are respectfully requested to call at my store, examine the article, and select for ELY PERKINS. Fredericton, April 22, 1870. Sole Agent. (ESTABLISHED 1819.)

Professor Soret, in delivering a most interestin

Professor Soret, in delivering a most interesting report, passed in review the operations of the Industrial section, in reference to Commerce, laying great stress upon the competition that has taken place in the manufacture of chronometers. This competition was instituted with the object of testing the workmanship and precision of chronometers turned out by Genevese manufacturers, and none but those adopted for pocket use were admitted. They were deposited in charge of the authorities at the Observatory, and underwent the most searching ordeal possible to be applied to pocket instruments of this class. The jury specially retained to decide the difficult question as to whom to award the palm of excellence unanimously dewhom to award the palm of excellence unanimously decided in favor of Messrs. J. M. Badollet & Co. This firm having carried off the sole prize by exhibiting a chro-nometer which fulfilled in the highest degree every con-dition required, crowned their first success by gaining honorable mention for two other chronometers. The allusion to this triple honor was received with enthusiastic applause, and Professor Humbert, President of the Fine arts Section closed the meeting with happy and hum dissertation upon subjects connected with this department.

An assortment of GOLD AND SILVER WATCHES, of different grades, from the chings are referred to, always kept in stock by PAGE BROTHERS, rent grades, from the eminent manufacturers above Agents for Messrs. J. M. Badollet & Co., Watch and Chronometer Manufacturers, Geneva, Switzerland. aug 28.
