A WISE AND GOOD ARRANGEMENT.

Man's happiness depends much on himself When he lives so as to answer the end of his existence as designed by God, his happiness is complete; and the nearer he comes to perfection in the act of living, the greater is the amount of his enjoyment. The declaration of God's word that " in keeping the commandments of the Son there is safety," is confirmed by every man's experience, and by the history of the world. That virtue brings its own reward is a sentiment the correctness of which will scarcely be denied by any one.

Had it pleased God to impose upon man duties which would result in no immediate advantage to himself, there could have been no ground for complaint. God had a perfect right to give what command He pleased ; and obedience on the part of man would have been justly required. But He has not done so. And what great wisdom and goodness have been displayed in forming a system for man, in which there is a constant stimulus before every man to induce him to be faithful in performing what is required. He is not destined to a hopeless, cheerless task. He is not left to the uncertainty of chance, nor condemned to labor unencouraged, nor for an uncertain result. The duty is defined, the result is certain, the reward 1s fixed and sure. It man will live so as to fulfil the end of his existence, his happiness is complete. How wonderfully wise and good is the arrangement of God. And among all the indications of His wisdom and goodness there is none more clear than this adaptation of things to the condition of man ; this continuance of a system that, apart altogether from future rewards, furnishes in such abundance present incentives and present right doing ; and that in all its operations is so admirably fitted to produce just the result which a rational mind would choose. Doing right brings happiness. " Wisdom's ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace."

SEVENTH DISTRICT MEETING. The Seventh District held its annual session with the Church at North Head, Grand Manan, mmencing on the 3rd inst., and continuing until steamer " Wm. Stroud" to meet the " International line" steamer from St. John at Eastport, also cally and expeditiously reaching their destination Many others, brethren, sisters and friends, wishing District Meeting, availed themselves of the pleasant day and reduced fare to do so.

Our short voyage of 16 miles from Eastport was speedily made. Out along the rocky, storm seamed cliffs of Campobello, past the flourishing hamlet at Wilson's Beach, rounding Head Harbor light, the blue ocean is before us, with the misty precipi tous sides of Grand Manan in the distance. Our time is pleasantly spent in renewing old acquaintances and forming new ones, singing, conversing, &c., until the channel is crossed, and we pass that evidence of our Government's thoughtfulness and care, the Fog Whistle and its buildings, erected at Long's Eddy. On, past the scene of the wreck of the ill-fated "Sarah Sloan" and " Lord Ashburton," by Eel Brook, Whale Cove, and Fish Head, we round the light house on "Swallow's Welcomed by booming cannon and flying ounting, and gliding among the anchored fishing leet in "Flagg's Cove," our short but pleasant byage is ended. It seems proper just now to tate that, while the efforts of our Government, in giving the inhabitants of this Island steam comnunication with the mainland are gratefully received, and highly appreciated, they should perfect that arrangement, and make it of practical. atility by an additional outlay in building a deep water wharf, thus enabling passengers and freight to be landed at low tide. One would suppose that the political instincts of the "member for Charlotte" would suggest the propriety of earning the gratitude and support of this large and intelligent portion of his constituency, by at once having it done. We landed at low tide, and were obliged to go to the shore in small boats, which, thanks to the efficiency of the officers and hands of the "Wm Stroud," was safely and speedily accomplished. Elder Kenney, pastor of the Church at North

-CHRISTIAN WORK IN JAPAN. -- Concerning the efforts which are being made by the Christian Churches of Europe and America for the evangelization of Japan, the following statement appears in the Missionary Herald of a recent date : "Twelve Societies, English and American, are laboring in this interesting and hopeful field. The benevolence of Christianity is daily illustrated, in the relief from pain and sickness which is afforded at the mission hospitals and dispensaries. Schools for boys and girls are doing an important service, in training up persons who, it is believed, will occupy useful positions in the Christian Church not many years hence. The benign influence of the Sabbath School is not lost sight of; but this agency is made use of at the various stations with the most gratifying results. Verily there is hope for Japan.
