The opening illustrated paper on Lyme treats States, but of a region selected for the commence ment of empire by Cromwell, Hampden, and sever-al English noblemen. The article carries us back or anchor, made a stock of $916.20. over two centuries, and is full of interesting gossip, American genealogy. Lyme is especially memor-able for its lawyers, "having produced more than any other town of its size on this continent," including eminent judges, senators and governors. Porte Crayon's "Confessions of a Candidate," with twenty characteristic pictures, illustrates some humorous features of district politics in the hill country of Virginia.

"Vassar College," by Anna C. Brakett, is an intelligent criticism, in the main savorable, of a representative female college. It shows how the girls live, as well as how and what they study; and the illustrations, of which there are fourteen, are the result of a happy selection of subjects.

The Number contains two biographical sketches, both illustrated—one of the late Dr. John Todd, and the other of the Hon. Alexander H. Stephens. Many families have received assistance twice, The Telegraph's telegram from Ragusa, says Cary Eggleston, and that on Mr. Stephens is from dependent for bread upon the committee.
