WORK FOR ALL. "Go ye also into the vineyard." When morning seeks the eastern sky And sows, with rosy fingers, Her seeds of light o'er this fair earth, Where heavens dew still lingers, Arise, and enter in, O youth, The vineyard of thy Saviour. Give him thy love, thy hope, thy truth, Thy whole long day of labor. And when at noon the sun pours down

His fiercest beams upon us. When earth beneath our feet is brown And heaven is brazen o'er us, Arise, O man, and seek at length The vineyard of thy Saviour, Give him thy love, thy zeal, thy strength, Thy half a day of labor.

And when at eve the western sun With level rays declineth, And thou, O weary, aged one, The strength of man resigneth, O haste, arise, and give thy Lord Thy little hour of labor, Give Him thy fame, thy gold, thy word, And seek to serve thy neighbor. Ye slothful souls who say ye love, Yet serve not God nor neighbor, But, like to John and Peter, ye Are fain to dwell on Tabor. Arouse, arise, the Master calls, Serve him by zealous labor ; Soon night shall come, and ye shall sleep, And wake, to bide on Tabor.

But, if ye still refuse to do The word the Lord hath spoken, The night shall come, the morn shall break, Your night shall be unbroken : O day of woe, O day of fear, O day of dire disaster, When, trembling, quaking, ye shall hear Your sentence from the Master.

A Boy's Resolution .- A man, looking up from sawing his wood, saw his little son turning two boys out of the yard. "See here ; what are you about, George ?" asked the man. "I am turning two swearers out of the yard, father," said George. "I said I would not play
