"I have always reverently accepted them; first, labor; nothing can be had for nothing; whatever a man achieves, he must pay for it; and no favor of fortune can absolve him from his duty. Secondly patience and forbearance; which is simply dependent on the slow justice of time. Thirdly, and most important, faith. Unless a man believes in something far higher than himself, something infinitely purer and grander than he can ever become,-unless he has an instinct of an order beyond his dreams, of laws beyond his comprehension, of beauty and good and justice beside which his own ideals are dark, he will fail in every loftier form of ambition. and ought to fail.'

It is so encouraging, in these days of scientific scepticism, of impudent reforms that assume to do the work of religion, and of struggling churches that haven't the delicacy to conceal their poverty, to learn that "the cause of Christ" is so prosper ous in New York that not only has another $750,-000 temple been recently dedicated, but Grace church is to have a reredos of "exceeding beauty." at a cost of $30,000. A reredos, unsophisticated reader, -- if we have any such-- is a screen or background for the "altar." One that costs thirty thousand dollars can hardly fail to advance the kingdom rapidly,-and it will be "so sweet !" Even a casual study of the life of Jesus, the Nazarene and his band of disciples, cannot fail to show the appropriateness and importance of a reredos in a house dedicated to his service.
