This Number contains the first of a series of papers covering the fifty years of American Art from 1828 to 1878, by S. G. W. BENJAMIN. The paper is illustrated with remarkably fine reproductions of paintings by Huntington, Wier, Inman, Elliott, Grey, Baker, Le Clear, Mount, Cole, Durand, Kensett, G. L. Brown, and Mignot.

JAMES T. FIELDS contributes a humprous poem, "The Owl Critic," which is accompanied by two characteristic illustrations. There is another illustrated poem, of a more sentimental character, by S. H. M. BYERS, entitled "The Mowing ;" the picture, drawn by Fredericks and engraved by Wolf, is exquisitely beautiful.

The illustrated short story in this Number is "A was no town at the water's edge, no people, no share Romance of Easthampton," by A. A. HAYES, Jr. It is a bright and well-told love-story.
