

Another victim. John Morris was killed on the Western Express R. R., between Fairview and South Bay on Monday night. He lived at Grand Bay, had been at Fairview, and started to walk home on the track. He appeared to be somewhat exhausted, and either fell down or laid down on the track. The night express came along, the engine-driver saw the man, but too late to stop the train. The cow-catcher caught the unfortunate man, and threw it against the snow bank, and he rolled back on the track, and the whole train passed over the body, mauling it beyond recognition. The right leg was completely severed from the body. The legging and sock on the left were torn off and carried some distance, but the leg was not hurt. One side of the face was torn off, and the body was cut and bruised.

It is the old story. The unfortunate man had been drinking, and when he started for home had a bottle with him. He was fifty-five years old, and leaves a wife and seven children.

Bishop Medley, of Fredericton, was, on Monday, elected Metropolitan of Canada. Dean Bond was, on Saturday, elected Bishop of Montreal. Bishop Medley's election has been protested against. We have received the Annual Report of the Free Will Baptist Benevolent Societies for 1878. We shall refer to some portions of it hereafter.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—Rev. G. W. McDonald and wife, of Woodstock, wish, through the INTELLIGENCER, to gratefully acknowledge a donation of $120 from the members of the church and other friends.

Hon. Mr. Tilley was presented with an address from the Sons of Temperance in Ottawa and vicinity, on Thursday evening.

York County Council, during its session last week, presented Governor Chandler with an address of congratulation.

The genial and energetic editor of the Moncton Times was recently gazetted a J. P. It seems to have been done without his knowledge, and he decidedly objects.

The papers are suggesting cheap fares to Ottawa at the opening of Parliament. It is supposed that cheap travel would induce a large number to attend the opening.

$1500 was subscribed in one meeting towards the new Hall, proposed to be built in Yarmouth by the Reform Club.

Sunday Afternoon for February is an excellent number. Published at 309 Main St., Springfield, Mass. $3.00 a year.

Do not miss GOLDEN HOUSES for 1879. You may feel safe while the children are reading that magazine. Published by Hitechock & Walden, Cincinnati, O. Specimen copy, 15 cents.

THE POOR.—We understand that a Committee of the Evangelical Alliance have effected an arrangement whereby employment in stone breaking will be furnished, at a fair rate per day, to such of the poor as are able to work. This arrangement will be in operation in a few days. The Committee are Dr. Rotford, T. W. Daniel, Esq., and Captain Prichard. We have no doubt that many deserving poor will gladly avail themselves of the opportunity of earning fair wages by honorable labor. At the same time, we are not disposed to think that there are many families in the City whose heads are unable to win the bread they need, and it is known that there are many hungry children going about our streets. Under these circumstances we shall not be surprised to find a movement started for establishing a soup kitchen, which will enable every person to have a bowl or kettle of soup a day. We need hardly say that we wish such a movement the fullest success.

—Daily Star.

THE NEWS AND THE PRESS.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., JANUARY 31, 1879.

NEW BRUNSWICK.—The Bank of New Brunswick moved into its new building on Friday. A report comes from Peticola, that Lawrence White, after five miles from there, was poisoned last week, mistaking strychnine for liquor. . . . Burglars broke two squares of glass in one of the windows of Messrs. Slipp & White's store, on the North wharf, one night recently, and stole two boxes of tobacco. . . . The Miramichi Advertiser, says, Samuel Preece Esq., has commenced operations upon a seam of bituminous coal on the Dugan River, about seven miles from Docktown. The seam lies horizontally and is about 200 feet thick. The coal is of the best quality, and is being worked by Preece. . . . The Fredericton Times keeps two men employed in mining it. It is quite probable that other seams under the one being worked by Mr. Preece, and we learn that he proposes to make borings for the purpose of ascertaining whether they exist or not. . . . The colored man, Gossman, who died recently, and whose weight when alive was 345 lbs., was buried with some difficulty. The door-casings of the room in which he died had to be taken out, and the coffin containing the man's remains had to be placed on its side in order to get it out of the room. The body was so heavy that it was impossible to lift it, and it was dragged to the hearse, and after considerable exertion placed in the hearse. . . . A fire in Shediac on Sunday morning destroyed a large house owned by A. H. Newman. It was occupied by Mr. Newman, Mr. Joseph E. Best and Mr. Lewis Burns. Newman is fully insured. Burns and Best are slight losers. . . . At Point Du Chene on Sunday a fire broke out in the upper part of Rufus Brown's hotel about three o'clock in the afternoon. The wind was blowing hard at the time, and the fire soon gained strength and communicated to the store owned and occupied by W. Keith. The Schurman Hotel was saved. Mr. Brown is insured, but will lose very heavily. Mr. Keith is also a heavy loser. . . . On Friday evening a shed owned by Mr. George Martin on the Sand Point road, caught fire, and, with its contents, was totally destroyed. In the shed or out-house were a lot of one year and one of the other year old, of a fine of farming utensils and a humped sheep of the variety known as Martin's loss at between $200 and $400. . . . $8,000. . . . On Saturday the death of Mr. McKenney at the ripe old age of 105 was announced. Mr. McKenney was a soldier, and saw much service, having been at Waterloo. He came to this country sometime ago, and drew a pension from the British Government for many years. He resided in Portland. . . . There will be no night train run by the St. John and Maine Railway company after Thursday night of this week. Mr. Jos. D. Dunlop, one of the oldest and wealthiest of Moncton citizens, died very suddenly at his residence on Wednesday afternoon.

DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY AT ST. STEPHEN'S. The town of St. Stephen, which was visited by a destructive fire in July, 1875, and was again the victim of the fire on May 15, 1877, has suffered once more. Shortly after midnight on Saturday a fire was discovered in Alex. Johnston's tavern, near the Calais bridge, and notwithstanding the well directed efforts of the firemen, eight buildings were destroyed before the flames could be subdued. The weather was so cold that the water almost froze in the hose, and all efforts to extinguish the fire seemed useless. The firemen, however, persevered, and progress was made by the fire work of Messrs. H. & P. Cullinan's building. There the fire was stopped, after burning for six hours. The losses and damages, so far as ascertained, are as follows: Two-story building, owned by Alex. Johnston and John Murphy, and occupied by Johnston as a tavern; stock insured for $1,200. Two-story building owned by Edward Shaw, and occupied by Murphy as a grocery; stock insured for $1,000. A two-story building, owned by Joseph McElroy as a tavern; no insurance. The large two-story building owned by Wm. Vaughan, occupied by Smith & Murray, druggists, and Geo. P. Fisher, jeweller. There was a public hall also in the building, in which the Orangemen met. Mr. Vaughan had $2,000 in the Imperial. Smith & Murray had $10,000 insurance, covered as follows: Commercial Union, $5,000; Western, $5,000; Queen, $2,000; North British & Mercantile, $2,000; Aetna, $1,000; Hartford, $1,000. Fisher had no insurance. The next building was the old "Victoria Hall," owned by George Hyatt, of St. David, and occupied by Andrew DeWolfe as a grocery; insured $600 on stock. James N. Clark's two-story building, occupied by the owner as a crockery and glassware store. The insurance on building and stock $3,000—$2,000 in Commercial Union, $1,000 in North British & Mercantile. C. O. Barker's large two-story and a half-story building. Barker had a book and shoe factory in the building, and Miss Cavanagh had a millinery shop there. Barker had $1,500 in the Western; $1,000 in the Commercial Union, and $1,500 elsewhere. Mrs. Andrew's store—$1,000 in a half-story building, occupied by C. H. Smith books and stationery. Smith was insured for $2,000. The last building was a two-story wooden home paper mill owned by Hugh Cullinan and occupied by G. W. Sloan as a hat and cap store. Sloan was insured for $2,500. H. & P. Cullinan will have a loss by removal. They are insured in the Commercial Union. A considerable amount of insurance is with American companies having offices in Calais. St. John agencies have been "afraid" of the town, and have been charging as valuable assistance was rendered by the Calais firemen. We regret to notice that there was some meddling by thieves during the progress of the fire. The losses estimated at $40,000, and the insurance at $30,000. The origin of the fire is unknown. It started in the lower part of Johnston's tavern. —Globe.

NOVA SCOTIA.—Hants County N. S., owns $3,000,000 worth of property. The following is a comparative statement of the business failures in Nova Scotia for the years 1877 and 1878:—1877—Failures, 113; Liabilities, $1,186,403. 1878—Failures, 113; Liabilities, $1,186,403. Showing an increase in the latter year of 55 in the number of failures with an increase of $891,062 in the amount of liabilities. . . . At Ellersburgh the large and elegant Hotel, the Diplomat, which was built and the probabilities are that this enterprise will be again put in operation during the summer. With a few more such men as Mr. Ellersburgh, in Nova Scotia, the Province is a fair way to be developed and the people be given work. . . . A committee has been appointed from the Bank of Liverpool to act with the Directors in negotiating with the several Halifax banks for a transfer of the business and capital of the Bank to them, or if possible to obtain increased capital. . . . A colored man named John Vanhook, who was a member of the Hants County, from exposure and want of sufficient nourishment. A little boy was found in the same room benumbed with cold and would probably have died had he not been discovered. Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. "If after prospecting," says the Windsor Mail, "a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: "The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is found to encourage working the mine, the province will be a great deal richer in gold than it is now. The number of vessels registered in Halifax is annually decreasing, in consequence of the civil wars, which year by year grow greater, shipowners preferring to register their vessels in foreign ports, where the taxes are very much lighter. . . . A Mill Village correspondent of the Windsor Mail writes: 'The village of Mill Village, in the County of Hants, N. S., is now to the fore as a gold field. 'If after prospecting,' says the Windsor Mail, 'a sufficient quantity is