It is desirable for many reasons to increase the circulation of the Intelligencer. We will do our part towards it in the offer we now make

For Twenty-Five Cents

we will send the Intelligencer for three months to any person not now on our subscription list.

This offer is made simply to give a large number of people not now its readers a chance to judge of the merits of the INTELLIGENCER, in the hope that after three months' trial they will not be satisfied three-fourths of those who once subscribe remain

Every One Can Help.

Regarding each present subscriber as a friend of the INTELLIGENCER, interested in its success and anxious to widen the circle of its influence, we have no hesitation in asking each one to do something for it. There is probably no subscriber who cannot secure and send at least one new name, while the majority can each send a larger number-say

The Ministers.

It is especially in the line of their calling to circulate Christian publications, and of course they should be chiefly anxious to circulate the one whose mission is identical with their own. To the ministers, theregoing away again until this road is finished, and I that the idea of a Persian occupation of Herat, fore, we appeal now to make a thoroughly earnest canvass for Intelligencer subscribers.
