BRADLAUGH. (Canada Presbyterian.)

Mr. Bradlaugh has issued a statement embodying the grounds on which he has decided to take the oath as a member for Northampton. He believes, he says, that he was legally entitled to affirm. The oath, although to him including words of idle, meanngless character, was, and is, regarded by numhave been an act of hypocrisy to voluntarily take in ten years. The Chicago Interior thinks this decline is due to the spread of rationalism, while to take it without protest, as though decline is due to the spread of rationalism, while meant in his mouth any such appeal. The com- the "Christians at Work" ascribes it to a growing and would certainly involve great delay of public ousiness. Should the decision be in his favour, it ould only be after bitter Parliamentary debate, in which the Government and the Liberal party would e unfairly sought to be burdened with his anti-thelogical views, and with his return to Parliament. He will consider himself, in taking his oath, as | torate. ound by the spirit which affirmation would have onveyed, had he been permitted to take it. Mr. radlaugh is not the only man who has ever offered take an oath in the terms of which he did not believe, but it does not follow that it is the less iscreditable to his manhood and honesty for him a rabid and ostentatious Atheist—to be ready to make a solemn appeal to what, in his own estima-

The disease was a malarial fever, and on investigation it came out that the town had no water-works nor system of sewerage. Water is mainly procured from wells. The lack of sewerage has poisoned the atmosphere of the town, and the fierce heat which has prevailed for a week 3r two past has developed disease from the soil. The analytical chemist of the college discovered that the water from ten wells, from which the students drank, contained a large amount of in their neighborhood.
