For the INTELLIGENCER. SINGING IN THE RAIN.

BY JANE M. READ. Out in the rain, the dripping rain, A little robbin sings A song of love, a sweet refrain,

As to the twig he clings. He sings, "good-night, I go to rest, Good-night, good-night, I seek my nest, Secure I sleep, In darkness deep,

My wing above my crest." Out in the storm of care and pain,

My heart, O Father, sings A pleading song, a sweet refrain, And peace and trust it brings. I sing, O Lord, I seek thy breast, On thy sure promises I rest; Thy power can keep,

In darkness deep, And make that darkness blest. Still River, Mass.

WHEN THE CHILDREN ARE AT SCHOOL.

BY LOUISE S. UPHAM. How quiet and lonely the home always seems When the little ones all go away! When no longer I list to light, echoing steps, Or child-laughter and frolicksome play ! When the toys and the music are all laid aside,

When the chairs all orderly stand, When no sweet dewy lip is upraised for a kiss, And I clasp no wee dimpled hand!

The hands on the clock move so slowly around I think they most strangely go wrong; Yet I glance at the sun but to find its bright disk Just as slowly goes creeping along ! And I wonder if all the lone mothers who wait

Find the wearisome hours so long and so drear When the little ones all are at school. The birds gaily sing, but there's never a song

In their homes, so shady and cool,

So pure as a dear baby-voice; The sweet flowerets bloom, but the fair hum flowers Are the crowns that make my heart rejoice; And life's burdens are light as the soft thistle

Take the place of my girls and boys! And those days may prove longer and lonelier still For I know now how long I must wait For the echoing feet and the holiday hours, And the welcome click of the gate.

And when, one by one, they leave the old home, In life's warfare to take each a place, Ah! how I shall miss each dear, loving voice And the smile of each sunshiny face ! And perchance I shall think life was sweetest and into them," added Tom Brown. "So, you see,

When they followed the time-honored rule, E'en though, day by day, I now drearily say, "The children are all gone to school."

Will Osborne and Charlie Jones were schoolmates and cousins and firm friends, though as unlike as possible. Will was all energy and patient perseverance, and gentle and loving as a girl. The boys had been into town, and having finished their errands, were retracing their steps homeward. But how different the way seemed! They were deaf and blind to all the pleasant sights and sounds which in the morning made life seem so beautiful to them. But a very little thing had happened. Had any harm been done? For Cotton Yarns of Canadian Manufacture. Nor: 5's to 10's. WHITE, BLUE, RED, ORANGE AND GREEN.

Made of good American Cotton with great care, Correctly numbered and Warranted Full Length and Weight.

This makes it much more easy to wind than when it is put up without leas—as the American is—and also saves a great deal of waste. Those acquainted with weaving will understand the great advantage it is to them to use yarn put up in this
