The upper portion reach their twentieth year ; that of England and the United States somewhat less than 7 reach that age ; while in France only 5 reach it, and in Ireland less that five. It is also ascertained that in Norway, out of 10,000 born, rather more than 1 out of 3 water was thrown the combustible materials in the reaches the age of 70 ; in England, 1 out of 4 ; in the United States, if both sexes be computed less than that the heavy wind would carry the flames across 1 out 4; in France, less than one out of 8; and in Ire to Grant & Atherton's steam factory on the oppoand, less than one out of 11. Further, it appears that Norway the average length of life of the effective population is 39; in England, 35½; in France, not the fire, but the building itself with a considerable quite 33; and in Ireland, not quite 29. A nervous looking man went into a store the other day and sat down for half an hour or so, when the clerk asked him if there was anything he could do for on his stock in the Western Assurance. Probable him. He said No, he didn't want any thing. He went away and the man sat there for half an hour longer, when the proprietor went to him and asked if he wanted to be shown any thing. " No" said the nervous man, "I just want to sit around. My physician has recommended perfect quiet for me, and says above all things I must avoid being in crowds. Noticing that you did not advertise in the newspapers, I thought that this would be as quiet a place as I could find ; so I just dropped in for a few hours' isolation."

London has a larger population than many a European State with a sovereign and a Parlia ment. At the census of 1881 the area of the metropolitan taxation and police contained 4,764,313 persons. Thus there are in London more than double the number of people in Denmark, including Greenland ; nearly three times as many as in Greece ; more than eighteen times the population of Montenegro ; some thousands more than Portugal including the Azores and Madeira ; nearly treble ligaria ; three-quarters of a million more than in most populous and wealthy city the world has ever seen, in practically without a Government. Of the thousand and one causes that are continu-
