-- WE learn that the recent decisions by the Supreme Court of this Province, in reference to appeals taken under the Canada Temperance Act, has infused new light into the friends of Temperance in Woodstock and elsewhere, and that a corresponding depression has come over the spirits of its opponents. We hope now to hear that the law is yigorously executed wherever it has been adopted. There certainly can be no excuse for the authoritie allowing this law to remain a dead letter, while other criminal acts are strictly enforced. Why should a rumseller be allowed to violate a criminal law daily, while the drunkard is regularly fined or imprisoned for appearing drunk on the public streets? Let justice be meeted out alike to both -and all parties.

- THE readers of the INTELLIGENCER will be glad to learn that not only is there a majority in favour of Temperance, as developed by the Adam's Bill, in the Local Legislature shown by the report of Parliamentary proceedings in another column, but that the talent of the House is nearly all on that side of the question, which is also a pleasing feature. We suggest that the names, as recorded on the vote, be carefully noticed, for they are suggestive. Still, we admit to some surprise and disappointment, at others. However, New Brunswick has reason to be proud of her record on this great moral reform.

historic and otherwise. As the chief city of the "Old Dominion," the Capital of what has been called the " Mother of States," it is a place of note. It is, however, more interesting, perhaps, as the Capital of "the late" Confederate States. There the Confederate Congress assembled; there President Jeff. ST. NICHOLAS FOR MAY. - Has a woodsy, spring flavor, and opens the second part of the volume with Mr. Turner introduced a bill to amend an act to Bridge and Railway Extension Company, were read a strong table of contents, important features of which are the opening chapters of "Swept Away," a new serial story of the Mississippi floods, by Edward S. Ellis, some time editor of Golden Days; and the first part of "The Story of Robin Hood," by Maurice Thompson, the distinguished toxophilite Swept Away" is vividly illustrated by J. Wells Champney, whose pictures of Southern life are familiar to readers of The Century; and the drawngs of "Robin Hood" are by the clever pencil of R. B. Birch. "The Tinkham Brothers' Tide-Mill," J. T. Trowbridge's fine serial, continues to increase in interest with each succeeding number. Lucy Larcom has a seasonable out-of-door sketch quaintly called "Among the Polly-dancers"; and there is a profusely illustrated article on curiositie of bird-life, queer nests and, clever expedients. A paper with a very suggestive title is "The Last of the Peterkins." The interesting family, whose misadventures, so eloquently told by Miss Lucretia P. Hale, have been followed for many years by thousands of readers, have at length gained enough in worldly wisdom to become almost like other people.
