A FEW WORDS PERSONAL.

In resuming the duties which for a time had to personal.

First of all he must express his devout gratitude to God for His gracious dealings during the often trying experiences of a long absence and illness, and that by His mercy he has been permitted to had. The Times says, for instance: His holy name," is the language that best expresses his present feeling.

subscriptions, and to those ministers and others sight. who have interested themselves in the circulation of the paper he feels deeply indebted, and thanks them very sincerely.

To the worthy brother who has discharged the duties of editor during the six months he is more indebted than can be expressed here. The numerous expressions of commendation of the work of the acting-editor have been very gratifying.

Those brethren who contributed to the columns of the paper rendered assistance which is highly esteemed ; it is hoped they will continue to contributors.

The brethren (and they like the acting-editor are so modest that their names cannot be mentioned) who undertook the management of the business have done their part admirably, as they do everything entrusted to them.

Without specifying farther, we may say that every one connected with the paper during the editor's absence has done well, and he more than thanks them.

Glad to be able to resume his duties the editor trusts, by the blessing of God, to be permitted to continue in the discharge of them yet many years. He asks for the paper and himself a continuance of what have been so freely given and which have brought so much of blessing,-the prayers of the Christians who read this. " That God in all things
